BORAH DIES; DEAN OF SENATE

Report Secret British-Jap Deal Perils U. S.

SENATORS FEAR ENGLISH HAVE DUPED AMERICA

Tell of Mysterious Memorandum.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—A memorandum setting forth the terms of a purported secret treaty, of sensational import, between Great Britain and Japan, has come to the attention of certain members of the senate committee on foreign relations.

Senator Key Pittman, chairman of foreign relations committee.

If such a treaty actually exists, these senators declared today, the American state department is the prize dupe of the age, for the United States would be left holding the bag in the Pacific after serving as a catspaw for the British foreign office in efforts to crack down on Japan.

Dated Early Last Year.

The supposed secret agreement, according to the information received by members of the foreign relations committee, was made early in 1939. In it Japan is said to have agreed not to molest the British crown colony of Hongkong, the great British naval base at Singapore, the British and Dutch possessions in the East Indies, Australia, and New Zealand. In return, Great Britain is said to have agreed to recognize Japan's claim to absolute political and economic domination of China and to remain neutral in any war in the Pacific between Japan and the United States.

While the foreign relations committee members could not vouch for the authenticity of the memorandum concerning the supposed treaty, for which reason they did not want their names used, they said it came from sources which in the past have been uniformly reliable. The same information, they declared, has been submitted by the same sources to the state department, which apparently has paid little if any attention to it.

Inquiry to Be Demanded.

The senators in possession of the memorandum concerning the supposed secret agreement said they would demand a full investigation by the foreign relations committee in connection with its forthcoming survey of American relations in the far east. This issue will be presented by the expiration on Jan. 26 of the 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation with Japan, which the administration denounced with the required six months' notice last July.

With the commercial treaty out of the way, there will be no legal prohibition against the bill introduced by Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, to embargo shipments of essential war supplies to Japan, or against any other discriminatory penalties which the administration might seek to impose.

Cause for Caution.

If Great Britain has made a secret deal with Japan, at the expense of the United States, this country had better go mighty slow in attempting to adopt "methods short of war" with respect to Japan, according to the foreign relations committee members.

The senators who have seen the secret treaty memorandum say it merits serious consideration because of the strange course of events with respect to the far eastern situation transpiring since the early part of 1939. After the Japanese blockade of the British concession at Tientsin, Britain did an about face and publicly acknowledged Japan's belligerent status and rights in China. At the same time the British withdrew most of their troops from China.

The state department, meanwhile continued to denounce Japan's interference with American rights in China and was wholly unsuccessful

SWEDISH FLYERS AID FINNS; RAID FLEEING REDS

Volunteer Units Join Fighting Forces.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 19 (AP). — Seasoned Swedish volunteer pilots today aided the Finns in harassing the retreat of 40,000 Russian troops, fighting back step by step toward their border in the bitter cold of the arctic circle.

These airmen were pitted against swarms of Russian planes which, official Finnish sources say, have reached a total of 450 in one day. Waves of Russian bombers have struck repeatedly at both northern and southern Finland for several days. Today the people in Helsingfors spent an hour in air raid shelters while antiaircraft batteries fought off raiders.

Swedes Also Fight on Land.

The Finns announced that the Swedish flyers were taking a toll of soviet troops. A dispatch from Rovaniemi said the Swedish flyers were active in engagements both in the Salla area and north of Lake Ladoga.

Swedish volunteer land fighters, the dispatch said, also were pouring into the fighting on the northern fronts. There are about a thousand Swedish volunteers in Finland, along with about 100 Finnish-Americans and some Norwegians, Danes, and Italians.

The Swedes are well equipped with their own skis, heavy sheepskin coats, guns and trucks, and have their own commanders.

Estimate Red Losses.

Unofficial Finnish reports said the Russian aerial invasion has been at heavy cost. These reports estimated that 204 Russian planes had been downed in the first seven weeks of the war. During the same period the Red army is reported to have lost 434 tanks and armored cars, 189 cannon, 282 machine guns, and 522 lorries.

There was no indication of a letup in the fighting at Markajarvi, 50 miles from the soviet frontier and southwest of Salla. Here the Russians, after abandoning their attempt to cut Finland in two by reaching the Kemijarvi-Rovaniemi-Kemi railway, were forced to fight a rearguard battle to protect their general retreat.

The Finnish communique covering yesterday's fighting said that on the eastern frontier near Lake Ladoga Finnish troops captured a few enemy positions, destroyed five tanks, and captured four machine guns and five submachine guns. At Ilomantsi Finnish patrols were said to have wiped out a Russian detachment of five officers and 45 men. At Kuhmo the Finns destroyed two Russian tanks.

Bomb U. S. Legation Town.

Altho the air raiders which approached Helsingfors this afternoon were driven off before they reached the city, distant detonations could be heard at suburban Grankulla, where the temporary American legation is located, and electric lights blinked out.

Yesterday's air raids, the Finns said, involved 250 planes over the Karelian isthmus and 450 over the whole country, but the casualties were only one dead and four wounded.

Reds Claim Victories.

MOSCOW, Jan. 20, Saturday (AP).—The Leningrad military headquarters of the Russian army, in a communique distributed by Tass, official soviet news agency, reported early today that a Finnish battalion was annihilated at Kitela, on the northern shores of Lake Ladoga. The Finnish army also suffered numerous casualties yesterday in clashes of advance units on the Karelian isthmus, the communique said.

The text of the communique:

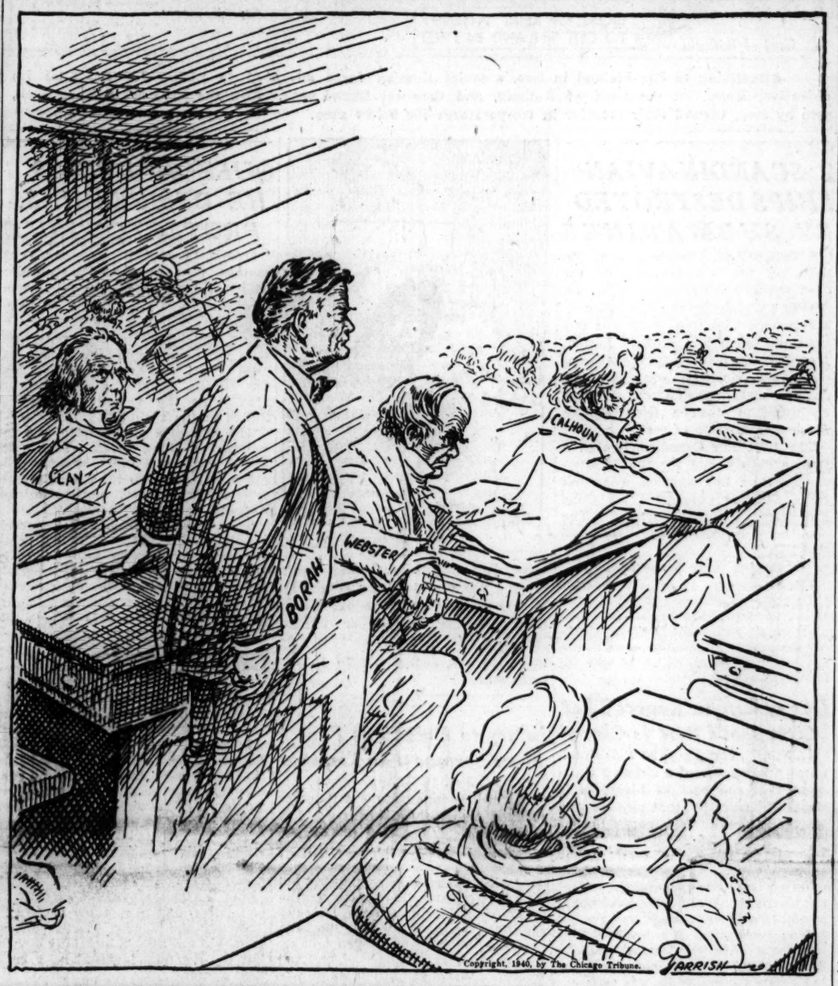
"Jan. 19. In all directions there were activities of scouts, and in some sectors clashes of small units.

"In the Petrozavodsk direction, in the area of Kitela, our reconnoitering group annihilated an enemy battalion which left 26 machine guns on the spot.

"On the Karelian isthmus there were clashes of advance units. The enemy suffered numerous casualties.

"In a number of areas our aviation made reconnoitering flights and bombed military objectives."

ROLL CALL



Building Union Defies Jury in U.S. Trust Quiz

For the second time in two weeks a Chicago union has defied the federal grand jury which is investigating alleged combinations in restraint of trade by the building industry here. Officials of the union, the district council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, refused yesterday to testify or to produce their records before the jurors.

Government prosecutors on Monday are expected to ask Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward to hold the union officials in contempt of court if they continue to refuse to comply with the subpena, which was issued in secrecy several days ago.

The prosecutors disclosed yesterday that officials of the carpenters' union are reported to have divided their union records so that each official has a batch of them under his control. It was explained that this apparently was done to take advantage of certain sections of the Sherman antitrust act under which the inquiry is being conducted.

Maneuver to Be Argued.

These sections, enacted by congress to aid antitrust inquiries, automatically grant immunity from prosecution to a grand jury witness who is required to give self-incriminating testimony about an organization.

Thus, according to the government attorneys, the union officials who are called upon to testify concerning records in their possession hope to place themselves beyond the reach of prosecution for any violations found by the jury. The legality of this maneuver will be argued Monday.

The carpenters' district council is composed of 50 locals in the Chicago metropolitan area and has a membership of approximately 20,000. It is one of the largest unions among the building crafts.

The union officials were summoned by the grand jury in connection with an inquiry into the plywood phase of the building industry. This includes the various types of wallboards that have been put on the market in recent years to reduce construction costs. Less labor is required to fasten sheet materials than to nail lumber or plaster walls.

Refuses to Produce Records.

It is reported that when the jurors attempted to question George H. Sand, secretary of the council, he read a prepared statement and refused to produce his records.

The union which first balked at the government's inquiry into possible cost raising restraints in the building industry was the Ceramic, Mosaic, and Encoustic Tile Layers' union, local 67, of the American Federation of Labor. This tile group refused to surrender its records, but gave in when prosecutors took steps similar to those which will be taken Monday against the carpenters.

The building inquiry is being conducted by Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general. Yesterday the grand jury began hearing testimony in nine more phases of the industry. This will permit it to complete its work after being continued beyond the present term, ending Feb. 8. The law requires that a grand jury whose term has been extended consider only such matters as it began during its first term.

MEXICO FINES 2 STAR BULL FIGHTERS FOR SHAMEFUL CONDUCT

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19 (AP).—Two of Mexico's most famous matadors, Lorenzo Garza and El Soldado, have been fined 2,000 pesos [about $330] by the federal district government on charges of "shameful conduct" during last Sunday's bull fights.

The crowd that jammed the bull ring jeered their performance. The matadors taunted the crowd in response and the government said their gestures were insulting. Garza became angered at the crowd's reaction and in his final performance was gored by a bull. His injuries will keep him out of the ring for two weeks. Bull fights in Mexico are government supervised.

Westminster Abbey's Royal Chapels Opened to Public

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—For the first time since the outbreak of the war, the royal chapels of Westminster abbey have been opened to the public. Most of the monuments have been walled in with sandbags. The coronation chair was removed to the country a few days before the declaration of war.

Now It's Only 1 Hip Pocket for Germans During War

BRESLAU, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP).—So long as the war lasts one hip pocket, instead of the customary two, is the limit imposed on tailors for the making of trousers, according to the head of the local tailors' guild.

England Hunts Secret Prison Ship of Nazis

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 19 (AP).—A secretly built warship—a combination raider, supply, and prison ship—was reported tonight to have been the auxiliary vessel which accompanied the German raider Admiral Graf Spee over three oceans. The vessel was said to have carried 300 prisoners under conditions which British captives charged recalled the "days of slave traders."

A reliable naval source here declared the Graf Spee's auxiliary was the Altmark, a disguised 12,000 ton vessel capable of making 25 knots. She apparently has reached a secret haven with her seamen prisoners, this source indicated.

Describe Ship as a Tanker.

In London, the British charged the Graf Spee supply ship had not been reported for more than a month. The British described the ship as a tanker and declared they were pressing a search for the craft.

A British statement charged food on the auxiliary was scarce and bad, a quart of water was rationed to each man daily for drinking and washing, the prisoners were forced to sleep on vermin ridden mattresses, and British officers were humiliated before East India crewmen.

Authorized sources in Berlin asked how the British knew about conditions on the tanker if they had not seized her.

Flew Norwegian Flag.

The British, however, said conditions on the prison ship were described by British skippers who were freed from the Graf Spee when she put into Montevideo harbor last month after a running fight with three British cruisers. Later the pocket battleship was blown up by her captain, who then shot himself.

It was said here the last contact between the Altmark and the Graf Spee occurred Dec. 8, less than a week before the battle of Uruguay. At that time the Altmark flew the Norwegian flag and bore the name of a vessel of that nationality.

The new warship was developed under cover in prewar Germany and kept hidden until the start of the war, tonight's informant asserted.

Especially built as an auxiliary for Germany's 10,000 ton pocket battleships, she appeared in the guise of an innocent merchantman on the high seas, but actually, the source here said, she carried three six inch guns hidden behind shutters, plus an antiaircraft gun.

Idahoan a Victim of Stroke at Age 74 in Washington Home.

Recall Great Career of Statesman; in Congress 33 Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho died at 7:45 o'clock tonight [Chicago time] of the cerebral hemorrhage with which he was stricken Tuesday. He was 74 years old.

The senator had been in a coma nearly the entire time since he was found unconscious on the floor of his bathroom, where he had fallen while taking a shower bath.

The end came peacefully. At the bedside of the senator when he expired were his secretary, Miss Cora Rubin, and the nurse. Mrs. Borah was in an adjoining room where, exhausted by fatigue and grief, she had been persuaded an hour before to retire for rest. Those at his bedside said death apparently occurred "as if it happened while he was asleep," without pain.

Casts Pall Over Capital.

The news of the famous senator's passing spread rapidly thru official Washington, over which his illness had cast a pall of sadness. One of the first high officials to pay tribute to Borah was Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Senator Borah, ranking minority member of the senate foreign relations committee and once its chairman, had frequently crossed swords with Hull in consideration of the nation's foreign policy. Tributes to the Idaho senator's great career also came from President Roosevelt and other national leaders.

The senate was in session today only six minutes, adjourning then not over the week-end in accord with custom, but until tomorrow in expectation of sad duties to be performed.

Pay Tribute in Senate Today.

At the session tomorrow official notice of the death of the senator will be given and informal tribute to his memory delivered by the Democratic and Republican leaders. Vice President Garner will announce the funeral arrangements.

The official committee of congress to accompany the body to its last resting place will be named by the Vice President on behalf of the senate and Speaker William B. Bankhead on behalf of the house.

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said that Borah would be given a state funeral, perhaps Sunday or Monday, but that final details had not been decided upon. He said that he and Senator D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] would confer tomorrow on the arrangements.

State Funeral Is Likely.

McNary said he believed Mrs. Borah would agree to plans for a state funeral, probably on Sunday. A state funeral for a senator usually is held in the senate chamber, with the President, the cabinet, diplomatic corps, and other Washington leaders present, as well as legislators. Burial is expected to be at Boise, Idaho, friends of Borah said.

Surviving the senator, in addition to Mrs. Borah, are his sister, Mrs. Matty Rinard of Fairfield, Ill., and a nephew, Federal Judge Wayne G.

FAIRFIELD RECALLS NATIVE SON BORAH WHILE BOY ON FARM

Fairfield, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP).—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who died tonight in Washington, was born here June 29, 1865, and lived here until he was a young man.

He came of deeply religious stock, the son of a Presbyterian who often filled the pulpit in the absence of the regular minister. He remained on his father's farm until he left home to attend school.

His dramatic speaking ability might be traced to his early yearning for the stage. Once he ran away from home to join a traveling troupe in the rôle of Marc Antony. His father cut short the stage career by taking him back to the farm.

The following story of Senator Borah's third of a century of service in the United States senate was written by Arthur Sears Henning, the senator's friend and confidant. Some details of Borah's career are included which could not fittingly be told until after his death.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—William Edgar Borah, senator from Idaho for a third of a century, takes his place in the national hall of fame as one of his country's great statesmen. Within the span of his service in the senate he influenced profoundly the destiny of the United States.

Never President, yet abler than most of the men who have filled the presidential office, Borah for more than two decades was a mighty figure in national and international affairs. Tho he represented one of the country's smallest states, he made the whole country his constituency; tho he never had set foot on foreign shores, he wielded a power with which the chancelleries of Europe and Asia found it necessary to reckon.

Fought Powers That Prey.

Borah devoted his entire public career to warfare on the powers that prey, whether at home or abroad. He fought the trusts, the monopolies, any and every combination of business men seeking to enhance profits at the expense of consumers. Espousing a virile nationalism, he fought every attempt of the internationalists to draw the United States into foreign alliances or other commitments whereby designing old world powers would be able to exploit his country for their own selfish purposes.

Outstanding among the epochal national decisions for which Borah was the guiding genius were the rejection of the Versailles treaty, the refusal to join the league of nations, and the refusal to enter the league controled world court. The senator regarded these achievements of enlightened nationalism as his principal service to his country.

Led in Court Packing Defeat.

Of almost equal importance he regarded his part in the defeat of President Roosevelt's attempt to gain control of the Supreme court by enlarging its membership and packing it with justices of his choice. It was Borah who conceived the strategy of the opposition which divided the Democrats and produced a Democratic-Republican majority against the President. Thruout the battle Borah was the general of the opposition, directing the moves from behind the scenes.

The man who scored these victories and many others, who triumphed over Presidents and the might of presidential power, was an intense individualist, a lone fighter who pursued a course independent of party dictation or influence and relied for success upon the justice of his cause and his power of reasoning and his eloquence in presenting it.

Noted for Eloquence.

It is commonly said that speeches in congress change no votes. But to this rule Borah was a universally recognized exception. Whenever he rose to make an important speech the galleries would fill, senators would troop to their places, and members of the house would crowd in to line the walls. With a mane of graying hair parted in the middle, with double-breasted coat buttoned about his stocky frame, with his blue eyes flashing and his square jaw set, Borah was always a striking figure in debate.

He began a set speech quietly, reflectively, grasping with both hands the lid of his desk, then proceeded with scanty gestures but with ever increasing intensity and impressiveness in the presentation of his theme. His peroration invariably left the chamber in a solemn hush. Many are the senators who have testified that he changed their votes with his argument.

Senator rGeat Orator.

Borah was a great orator, one of the country's greatest. In polemics and in rhetoric he resembled Daniel Webster, of whose statesmanship and technique as a debater and public

FINNISH FIREMEN FIGHT FIRES AMID SPUTTER OF GUNS

They, Like Men at Front, Display Valor.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TAMPERE, Finland, Jan. 19.—Members of Finland's fire departments are distinguishing themselves with the soldiers at the front in displaying bravery under fire.

When I arrived at Tampere this afternoon the entire fire department and many small local fire brigades from surrounding villages were busy fighting fires started by incendiary bombs dropped by another squadron of Russian planes.

After unloading their bombs the airplanes circled the town and machine-gunned the firemen, but there were no casualties.

Manchester of the North.

Tampere is called the Manchester of the north, for its busy spinning mills, machine shops, and other industries make it one of Finland's most important industrial centers. But here the comparison with the British Manchester ends, for Tampere is a beautiful town and just as spotless as other Finnish centers which depend on electricity for power.

The firemen I interviewed said the Russians also were dropping incendiary bombs timed to explode as long as 15 minutes after they fell. Most of the contact bombs had exploded in the streets or open places, doing no damage aside from shattering windows of many hundreds of homes.

Besides raining explosives upon homes of workers the Russian flyers recently were accused by the Finns of trying to bomb hospitals. One hospital contains another Finnish hero, Lieut. Siltavuori, a pilot, who is one of the few aviators who deliberately rammed an enemy machine and survived to tell the story.

Take Patients to Cellars.

Lieut. Siltavuori said his machine gun froze during the fight and he was shot in the right shoulder by the soviet machine gunner. Gaining altitude and flying with his left hand, he dived on the bomber. A wing of his machine tore off the left wing of the Russian machine, which crashed, killing all three of its crew. Lieut. Siltavuori managed to land his plane without serious damage.

There are many other wounded soldiers in this modern hospital, but the visits of soviet bombers became so frequent that during the daylight the patients are taken to cellars. Convalescents who can walk also enter cellars when the alarm sounds.

Another hospital a short distance away has been so damaged by bombs that every window is smashed.

Workers in Finland's glass factories volunteered to work overtime without pay to assist in altering manufacturing methods so more window glass can be produced.

British Munitions Plants Increase from 12 to 2,000

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Minister of Supply Leslie Burgin in a speech said today the number of firms engaged in munitions manufacture had increased from a dozen to 2,000 in the last three years.

Finns Drive 40,000 Reds Toward Border

Attempting to cut Finland in two, a soviet Russian force advanced to within 125 miles of its objective, Kemi, on the Gulf of Bothnia, and then was forced back. Now the Reds are fighting back, step by step, toward their frontier in temperatures far below zero.

2 SCANDINAVIAN SHIPS DESTROYED BY SUBMARINES

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 20, Saturday (AP). — Torpedoing of the 6,685 ton Swedish steamer Pajala off Scotland was disclosed early today by her owners. The crew of 35 was rescued and taken to a Scottish harbor. A cable to the owner said the steamer was torpedoed without warning Thursday and sank in 25 minutes. She was en route to Sweden from Buenos Aires with a cargo of corn.

The 1,831 ton Canadian Reefer, a Danish ship bound for the Mediterranean from Los Angeles, was sunk by a German submarine off Cape Finisterre, Spain, Thursday. The Danish radio reported the crew of 26 was rescued.

British Ship Torpedoed.

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—A German submarine was blamed today for the loss of the British tanker Inverdargle, 9,456 tons, which went down in flames off the southwest English coast Tuesday. The crew of 45 or 46 was believed to have perished.

Deny German Report That Liverpool's Port Is Closed

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The British admiralty today denied a German statement that the port of Liverpool is closed but admitted that passage into England's main west coast harbor was impeded Wednesday night when the mined Donaldson liner Gracia beached herself. The Gracia hit a mine an hour after leaving Liverpool on Tuesday. While she was being brought back by salvage vessels she had to be beached in a position that interfered with the normal passage of shipping, but did not close the main lane altogether, it was said.

Injury to Daladier's Foot More Serious than Thought

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The injury to his foot which Premier Edouard Daladier suffered nearly three weeks ago has proved more serious than was at first reported. He has not yet been able to leave the war ministry, and President Albert Lebrun consented to hold a cabinet meeting there tomorrow instead of at Elysée palace. Daladier continues to receive visitors, however, and to do all the work which falls on him as premier, minister of national defense, and minister of foreign affairs.

QUEZON DENIES HE DESIRES U. S. PROTECTOR RULE

MANILA, Jan. 19 (AP).—President Manuel L. Quezon told newspaper men tonight that he had no intention of asking the United States to form a protectorate over the Philippines. The president did not mention a new plan for guaranteeing the independence of the islands after 1946, which the Manila Tribune said he would seek when he visited the United States in the spring.

The idea of a protectorate was repugnant to him, Quezon said. He added that the independence program was based on the absolute self-reliance, confidence, and ability of Filipinos to govern themselves.

The Manila Tribune, attributing its information to reliable political sources, said Quezon would seek a substitute independence plan because "under prevailing international conditions, it would be useless to work for perpetual neutralization" of the islands.

BRITISH BELIEVE 30,000 MEN CAN SAVE FINLAND

LONDON, Jan. 20, Saturday (AP).—British military authorities today said that 30,000 men, 200 planes and a generous supply of military equipment would save Finland if they get there before May.

They based their prediction on a study of the far northern front where the Finnish army has thrown back soviet forces in what the British called one of the greatest exhibitions of tactical skill in military history.

Britain has pledged substantial material aid to Finland, including planes, but the amounts involved have been kept secret.

DENMARK WARNS SHE IS READY TO DEFEND FREEDOM

Political Parties Unite on Neutrality Stand.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 19 (AP).—The lower house of the Danish parliament by a unanimous vote today adopted a declaration that the nation's neutrality must be maintained and its independence defended.

The declaration was echoed in Norway, where Prime Minister Johan Nygaardsvold told parliament that any attacks upon the nation would be resisted.

In neighboring Sweden, meanwhile, Stockholm authorities announced a new program of air raid defenses, including trenches in parks and additional shelters.

Danish Parties Unite.

Framed by the six largest political parties, the Danish declaration was designed partly to correct impressions abroad that Denmark, because of limited armaments, would not resist an attack.

The vote in the lower house, or Folketing, was 135 to none but there was one abstention. Jens Moeller, German minority member from Schleswig, was the nonvoter. He never has recorded a vote on a matter of foreign policy on the grounds he is not Danish.

The three communist members of the Folketing, whose party was not consulted when the declaration was drafted, joined in the vote of approval.

Swedish Turmoil Subsides.

In Stockholm the political turmoil started by the pleas for more active assistance to Finland by former Foreign Minister Rickard J. Sandler subsided and political circles held there was no immediate possibility of any change in the government's policy.

Statistical evidence was offered, however, to show that Swedes were aiding the Finns in other ways, including the announcement that Swedish industries so far have contributed $15,356,000 for Finland. This is in addition to popular subscriptions amounting to nearly $10,000,000. Gifts of clothes, food, medicines, and other necessities have reached a total of 2,000 tons.

Each day at least four fully loaded freight cars leave Stockholm for Haparanda, on the Swedish-Finnish frontier, where 20 trucks driven by Swedish volunteers transport the goods to Finnish central storehouses.

In a further demonstration of Swedish sympathy, the central organization of Swedish trade unions announced thru President August Lindberg that Swedish workers would be sent to Finland to work in civil industries.

JAP DEFENSE AT CANTON TOTTERS, CHINESE CLAIM

Invaders Pushed Back 50 Miles at Heavy Cost.

HONGKONG, Jan. 20 [Saturday] (AP).—Japanese outer defenses of Canton, South China's largest metropolis, were reported by the Chinese to be crumbling today after one of the most serious setbacks inflicted on the invaders in the two and one-half year old war.

Canton, normally a city of 1,500,000 population, fell to the Japanese in October, 1938, and has been used by them as a base for extensive operations in South China.

The Japanese have been pushed back 50 miles since a series of retreats in Kwangtung province forced them to begin a retreat from Yingtak, important communication center on the Canton-Hankow railway 80 miles north of Canton, the Chinese declared.

Lines Form an Arc.

The pursuing Chinese were said to have established lines forming an arc, with their right, or western wing, only 18 miles from Canton and their center and left 25 miles away.

The Japanese for several days have maintained silence on their Kwangtung campaign. They acknowledged a week ago that some of their forces were withdrawing from the northern area of the province after completing what they said was a drive to mop up remnants of the Chinese army there.

High Chinese sources in Hongkong admitted their successes were achieved only by great casualties numbering between 15,000 and 20,000 Chinese troops. They said a moderate estimate of Japanese losses would be about 5,000 men.

The Chinese declared the heavy toll they paid was well worth it because of loss of prestige suffered by the Japanese and because the Nipponese war machine could ill afford to lose 5,000 soldiers at this time.

Kuntien and two other Japanese strongholds in addition to Yingtak have reverted to Chinese control, the Chinese asserted. In one battle 33 miles north of Canton yesterday they declared 500 of the enemy were killed.

Troop Train Wrecked.

Countering the Chinese reports from Kwangtung, the Japanese described Chinese forces as utterly disorganized in the Tapieh mountains of North Hupeh, central Chinese province, in the face of a fresh Japanese offensive launched this week.

Concerning fighting in North Hupeh, the Chinese said that nearly 3,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed in battles around Suihsien, a river town, and that war materials were captured in considerable quantities. In western and southern Hupeh, the Chinese said, there was sporadic fighting, with a Japanese troop train being blown up by a mine and 200 of the invaders slain.

Other Chinese dispatches said a Japanese attempt to recapture Pingtam, one of the larger islands off the South Fukien province coast, had been thwarted. The Chinese took the island on New Year's day and today's belated advices said the Japanese counterthrust was made Jan. 8, with scores of the attackers slain.

Asserts Japan to Continue Its Duties on U. S. Imports

DOCTOR WHO SAID SPEE CREW WAS GASSED IS FIRED

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 19 (AP).—Dr. Walter Meerhoff, whose report served as basis for German contentions that members of the Admiral Graf Spee's crew were burned by mustard gas in the Dec. 13 naval battle off Montevideo, was dismissed today by President Alfredo Baldomir from the staff of the government operated Pasteur hospital.

Dr. Meerhoff, an eye specialist, insisted in articles in the local press that 14 wounded taken off the German pocket battleship after its fight with three British cruisers showed effects of gas. A Uruguayan medical commission appointed at the request of the British legation disputed Dr. Meerhoff.

Dr. Meerhoff's dismissal was based on charges that he aspersed the Uruguayan state, compromised the good faith of the government, and cast doubt on Uruguayan neutrality.

FRENCH SENATE VOTES EXPULSION OF COMMUNISTS

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP).—The senate today adopted, 294 to 4, a bill to expel from office all communists who failed to disavow the outlawed communist party. This completed parliamentary action. The chamber of deputies rushed the bill thru last Tuesday after Camille Chautemps, minister for refugees, declared that "He who strikes Hitler must also strike Stalin."

Sixty-three communists in the chamber of deputies and hundreds of municipal officials who failed to disavow the communist party before last Oct. 26 will lose their posts.

Twelve of France's 75 former communist members of the chamber retained their right to hold their seats because they resigned or made public declarations disavowing the party prior to the October deadline, a month after the communist party was banned in France.

UNITED BRETHREN MISSION SHELLED BY JAP WARSHIP

PEKING, China, Jan. 19 (AP).—Unconfirmed reports reaching American circles here today said that the American United Brethren mission at Suilam, Kwangtung province, was shelled Jan. 4 by a Japanese warship. One shell was said to have demolished the mission hospital's operating room. Nearly 200 windows were said to have been broken by the explosion. It was understood there were no casualties.

Suilam is near Pakhoi on the South China coast, near the route of a recent Japanese offensive to cut the central Chinese government's communications with French-Indo China. The headquarters of the Suilam mission is at Dayton, O.

CANADIAN COURT RULES AGAINST APPEALS TO KING

Perils Last Legal Link to Mother Country.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19 (AP).—The Supreme court of Canada, in a decision of far reaching importance, ruled today that the Canadian parliament has authority to abolish appeals to the crown from the judgments of Canadian courts.

Exercise of this authority by parliament would establish the Supreme court as the court of last resort in all civil and constitutional matters arising in Canada, and would sever the dominion's last legal bond of submission to the mother country.

4 to 2 Decision.

The decision, generally regarded as one of the most important in recent years, was concurred in by four of the six high court judges.

They had been asked to decide whether parliament was competent to enact a bill, such as that introduced at the last session by Conservative Member C. H. Cahan, to abolish the right of appeal to the crown.

Under existing procedure, appeals from Canadian courts may be carried to the judicial committee of the imperial privy council in London, composed of advisers to the king.

Old British Tradition.

The right of appeal to this body—known as carrying a case "to the foot of the throne"—is an outgrowth of the old British tradition which holds that no imperial subject should be deprived of the opportunity to call on the sovereign for justice.

In England itself such appeals are handled by the house of lords. Opposition to the right of appeal to the crown has been growing since 1932, when parliament abolished such appeals in criminal cases.

Agitation on the issue was stirred to a high point in 1937 when a whole social security program enacted by commons was nullified on appeal, partly by the judicial committee and partly by the Canadian Supreme court.

ENGLAND CLAIMS AN AIR VICTORY IN BATTLE OVER SEA

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—A British official statement tonight said a German Heinkel bomber was damaged badly after a fight with a British patrol fighter over the sea off Aberdeen, Scotland, this afternoon. The Heinkel disappeared at sea with its undercarriage sagging, its rear gun out of action, and its speed cut, the statement said.

Hackensack, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP).—Jessie Simpson, 21 years old, a prize winning beauty who lost her legs in a railroad accident, tonight married the man who had stood fast thru her trouble. He is James Steward, an advertising man. Hundreds swarmed into and around the First Presbyterian church here and made an evening's carnival of the affair. When Jessie arrived, walking skillfully on artificial legs, the crowd nearly bowled her over. She has become an expert golfer, dancer, and motorist.

Sentence to Death 8 Poles Who Beat German Flyers

POSEN, Former Poland, Jan. 19.—A special court today sentenced to death eight Poles accused of having attacked and robbed wounded German aviators who had descended in parachutes when their machine was shot down by Polish airmen early in the German-Polish war. Of the plane's crew of four, three were wounded when they jumped. The commander was unhurt. One parachute failed to open. The other two landed safely and were beaten by Poles. The commander escaped, but is missing.

BRITISH PROTEST AMERICAN PEACE BELT IS 'UNFAIR'

Maintain Americas Claim Too Much Power.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The project of the 21 American republics to surround North and South America with a 300 mile wide security zone is arousing much discussion here.

The British government on Monday rejected the protest of the 21 republics against belligerent activities of British warships in American waters.

One writer today described the proposed neutrality belt as likely to become a web no less entangling than the one over war debts.

British papers published lengthy articles on the subject. It was asserted that the American republics are claiming too much and that their claims amount to sovereignty over 5,000,000 square miles of ocean.

Poses a Question.

The Daily Telegraph in an article by Commander Edward Powley, retired officer of the British navy, posed the question whether the United States can sustain claims to the 300 mile safety zone.

Powley quoted learned authority to prove that the commander of the Kearsarge refused to admit the French had any right to make him engage the Alabama outside the three mile limit.

[The French in 1864 made the confederate raider, Alabama, sail beyond the three mile limit before battling the Union sloop of war, Kearsarge, which had trapped the southern raider in the harbor of Cherbourg.]

Powley then cited Secretary of State Robert Lansing's protest against belligerent cruisers patroling the American coasts in close proximity to land in 1914.

"Secretary Lansing," he said, "maintained that this practice, altho strictly legal, might be regarded according to the canons of international courtesy as just grounds for offense."

A "Friendly Reminder."

"The protestors of 1914 became the allies of 1917. It is certain that as the German bunds are proliferating like baccili in every large town on the whole American continent and foment trouble in the country of their adoption and as the Nazis intensify their bullying of the neutral powers within their reach in Europe, our cause will become increasingly understood in the United States.

"The better it is understood the less the trans-Atlantic lovers of liberty will wish to hamper us by staking new claims to even a benevolent lordship of a 300 mile fringe of their western seas. A last friendly reminder! Britain still retains territorial interests in and responsibility for much of the West Indies, and the geographical position of Canada cannot be disregarded by those who have projected the safety zone."

A naval writer in the Yorkshire Post said: "We shall well be within our rights if we say 'no'" [to the neutrality zone declaration].

The London Times said: "There is cogency in the contention of Brazil's president [Getulio Vargas] that the American nations have as much right to proclaim a peace zone as have the European powers to declare a war zone."

RUMANIA TELLS OIL COMPANIES: SELL TO GERMANY

Decrees Dictatorship Over Petroleum Industry.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 19.—Rumania today cracked down on foreign owned oil companies which were trying to hamper German war operations by refusing to sell petroleum products. A royal decree created an oil dictatorship—a commission with power to order the companies to "export in accordance with the nation's interest."

The decree, which is believed connected with the arrival last Saturday of a new group of German economic experts, provides heavy penalties for refusal to sell oil as ordered by the oil commission. Also, oil wells can be put in charge of government agents.

Disturbed by Reports.

At the same time, Rumania is worried by persistent reports—from Polish sources and entirely unconfirmed—that, first, four divisions of German troops arrived at Lwow in Russian Poland last Saturday and Sunday; second, that the troops are there because the Russians agreed to give Germany Russian owned oil areas in Poland and also territory around the railway passing from Cernauti, Rumania, via Lwow, to Germany. What Russia would get in exchange is not disclosed.

If that is a true story it will make Germany the next door neighbor of Rumania and enable the Nazis to put still more pressure on the Rumanians to supply oil for the German war machine.

Since the beginning of the war the question of oil for Germany has given Rumanians many uneasy moments. Rumania's total production is only half of Germany's estimated minimum needs in wartime. Aside from the fact that much is needed in Rumania itself, there is the problem of getting the oil to Germany. The prewar average doubled would give Germany less than 2,500,000 tons yearly against limited needs of 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 tons.

Blockade Cuts Supplies.

But with the sea route cut off by the blockade Rumania has been able to give Germany only about three-quarters of normal monthly supplies. Up to the present, altho the Danube river is blocked by ice and the crude oil pipeline is clogged by the cold, railways have been able to deliver only at the rate of about 30,000 tons a month.

At present, transport is the biggest problem, but Germans think they will solve that. The present trade agreement with Rumania guarantees them 130,000 tons monthly.

The Germans want to be sure, if they overcome the huge transport problem, that they will not be hamstrung by refusals of companies to sell. Despite Rumania's persuasion the companies had not changed their attitude. Germany increased pressure. Hence today's decree.

The commission has full powers to regulate production, processing, sale, and export of crude oil and oil products. It has orders to take the necessary measures to provide supplies for national defense.

If the order is not obeyed the commission has the power simply to warn the company or fine it up to $2,000. In extreme cases it can put the wells in charge of special commissioners.

TORCH EXPLODES, CAUSES FIRE; 4 PERSONS BURNED

Three men and a woman were burned or injured last night after fire broke out in a second floor flat at 902 West 119th street. All four were rescued by members of Hook and Ladder company 27.

The fire started in the home of Paul Berak, 51 years old, when he and a friend, Joseph Kocsis, 51, of 11835 South Peoria street, tried to thaw a frozen water pipe with a blow torch. The torch exploded.

Kocsis and Berak were burned on the hands and face. Mrs. Catherine Berak, 72, Berak's mother, broke a window in an effort to escape, and was cut on the hands. Peter Potter, 55, who lives in a rear flat, went to the rescue of his neighbors, and was burned on the hands. The injured were taken to the Roseland Community hospital. The fire did about $200 damage to the Berak flat.

Held for Big Theft

Margaret Long, in custody in New York for theft of $100,000 in jewelry and other articles in hotel where she was a maid.

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—A 23 year old part time chambermaid, accused of stealing $100,000 worth of clothing, jewels, and knick-knacks from patrons of the Hotel Plaza over a period of months, was held without bail today in Felony court. She is Margaret Long, only four years in the big city from a small Pennsylvania town. Arraigned with her was Ralph Palmer, 48, a bar and grill waiter in Jackson Heights, a Long Island suburb.

HELEN ERICSON, ACTRESS, TO WED PHILIP BERMAN

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 19 [Special].—Another Hollywood elopement started tonight when Helen Ericson, 24 years old, under contract at Twentieth Century-Fox, and Philip Berman, Beverly Hills furrier, departed by automobile for Phoenix, Ariz. They will be married as soon as they arrive at the Phoenix Biltmore hotel.

Miss Ericson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ericson of Worcester, Mass., and her father is a retired lumber expert. She appeared on the New York stage before being brought here for pictures in 1936. Her latest appearance is in the Shirley Temple production "Blue Bird."

Berman, who conducts fur shops in Paris, New York, and Chicago, as well as Beverly Hills, is the son of Louis Berman, a retired furrier of Chicago.

GOEBBELS WARNS IT WILL BE HARD TO WHIP BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 19. — Speaking in Posen [Poznan], a city in former Poland, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels today told the German nation that it would be a hard task to ing are severely punished.

"We do not make the error of underestimating the English," he said.

Referring to the so-called war of nerves, Goebbels said:

"Our enemies and not we are spreading the news that we intend to march thru Holland, Belgium, or Luxemburg. The plutocracies in London and Paris will get acquainted with our Fuehrer's [Adolf Hitler's] plan in due time. The main task in chess is to checkmate the king.

Two Youths on Probation Held as Burglary Suspects

Benjamin Efting, 20 years old, 6635 Lowe avenue, and Walter Eakins, 18, of 817 West 59th street, both of whom are on probation, were being held as burglar suspects by Englewood police last night. Efting was seized by Acting Lieutenant John Olson, who said he confessed 10 recent south side burglaries. Efting named Eakins as his accomplice, and he, too, was arrested. Eakins denied complicity in the thefts.

310,000 POLISH PRISONERS PUT TO WORK IN GERMANY

Captives Help Farmers and Repair Roads.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Germany has put 310,000 of the prisoners whom it captured in the Polish campaign to work in Germany proper. Thousands are working in farming districts while others are working on roads.

The rest of the Polish prisoners are in camps in the German-occupied regions of former Poland. Some who came from the regions now occupied by Russia have been sent back to the soviet. Those who could prove that they were of German stock were released immediately, while the nationality of 66,000 who also claimed they were German is being investigated. These are in a special camp near Berlin, working on roads and drawing slightly higher pay than Polish prisoners.

More to be Imported.

Even more Polish prisoners soon will be brought into Germany to work. It is expected that within a few months another 100,000 will be put to work in the reich. Several tens of thousands of workers also have been imported from former Czecho-Slovakia.

In Berlin itself, 30,000 Poles are working. Some Poles also are working in the brown coal region of Central Germany. In the streets of Berlin you can see groups of Poles working or marching under the supervision of German soldiers with bayonets on the rifles they carry slung over their shoulders.

Authorities see to it that the Polish workers are strictly segregated from the Germans. A German farmer who allowed Poles working on his farm to eat with him and his German farm hands was arrested. All "fraternization" between Germans and Poles is forbidden. Those found fraternizing are severly punished.

American Army Coats Worn.

A wide variety of costumes is being worn by the Polish prisoners. THE TRIBUNE correspondent even saw workmen wearing American world war overcoats. It was assumed the coats came from stocks of the American Expeditionary Force which were sold in France and resold to the Poles. One workman wearing an old American tunic was carrying loads from the former presidential palace which is being altered to become the residence of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Other workmen are wearing overcoats of soldiers of the former Czech army and German world war army. The coat problem was a serious one in outfitting the prisoners because when the Poles were captured it still was summer and, the German assert, Polish quartermaster authorities had made no provisions for coats.

HERTZOG URGES SOUTH AFRICA TO CALL OFF WAR

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Jan. 19 (AP).—Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog, whose opposition to South Africa's declaration of war against Germany led to his resignation as prime minister on Sept. 6, continued his fight against the war today as parliament opened a new session. He announced that he would offer the following motion in the house of assembly Tuesday:

Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog.

"This house is of the opinion that the time has come for the state of war against Germany to be ended and peace be restored."

Gov. Gen. Sir Patrick Duncan asked the session of parliament for broader war powers.

REPORT SECRET BRITISH-NIPPON PACT PERILS U. S.

Senators Fear America Was Double-Crossed.

in its efforts to obtain the coöperation of the British in a joint stand against the Japanese. Secretary Hull, according to members of the foreign relations committee, repeatedly complained to them that he could get no action from the British; that the British responded only with polite evasions to his every suggestion of parallel action.

Predecessor's Similar Failure.

The British attitude, Hull is said to have told the senators, was the same as it was in 1932, when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson sought and failed to obtain their cooperation in resisting Japan's invasion of Manchuria.

Undaunted by the British refusal to coöperate, however, the Roosevelt administration single handedly assumed the "white man's burden" in the Far East. Its protests to Japan continued. The Japanese commercial treaty was denounced in July, 1939, and economic penalties were threatened as the next step. When England and France became involved in their war with Germany last September, the administration greatly augmented the American naval forces at Hawaii and in Asiatic waters.

The tacit understanding, frequently announced by British statesmen, was that the United States would police the Pacific in return for the protection of the British fleet in the Atlantic.

An Awkward Position.

Such an understanding would leave the United States in a ridiculous position if Britain has agreed to remain neutral in any war between this country and Japan, according to some of the members of the foreign relations committee.

In this connection these senators revealed today some hitherto undisclosed details of the Roosevelt administration's attitude toward neutrality legislation. The first impetus for neutrality legislation so far as the administration was concerned came from the British government in 1935, and Secretary of State Hull told them this, the senators declared. At that time Italy had invaded Ethiopia, and Great Britain, recognizing the league of nations as an instrument capable of serving her interests, undertook to impose economic penalties against Italy.

However, according to the story, the coöperation of the United States was necessary to curtail shipments of oil to Italy. The British, therefore, proposed the adoption of an American neutrality act, which would limit the exportation of raw materials to normal peacetime quotas.

Foiled by Italy's Protest.

Such a formula was contained in the administration bill, introduced in both the senate and the house. However, when a delegation from the Italian embassy protested that such a measure would constitute an unneutral and warlike act, President Roosevelt summoned members of the senate and house foreign relations committees to the White House and told them they had better drop it.

After the act embargoing shipments of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to belligerents had been passed, Roosevelt undertook with authority of law to impose a moral embargo on the exportation of oil to Italy. Premier Mussolini muttered warnings about an unfriendly act, and Roosevelt said no more about it.

Having sponsored the arms embargo legislation at the behest of the British, Roosevelt sponsored its repeal at their request in 1939, according to members of the foreign relations committee. Their information, on which they rely, is that the President personally assured Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, that the arms embargo would be repealed. This assurance, they were told, was given when Eden called at the White House on Dec. 13, 1938.

VATICAN CITY HEARS GERMANY IS WEDDING ITS TROOPS BY PROXY

ROME, Jan. 19.—The Vatican was reported today to be receiving unfavorable reports from Germany about a new marriage ceremony being performed by proxy for soldiers at the front.

The marriage takes place before a civil official. A soldier's steel helmet crowned with a laurel wreath is placed by the side of the bride to symbolize the absent bridegroom. Even the words of the ceremony have a military and pagan character, a Vatican authority said. The ceremony ends in a prayer for the military victory of Germany, with a gift of Fuehrer Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," for the bride.

German Catholic circles are said to be protesting against the ceremony. It is believed the Vatican has been approached to use its good offices.

DEFENDERS FAIL AS ENEMY LANDS ON PACIFIC COAST

Fleet Is Successful in Army-Navy Games.

Monterey, Cal., Jan. 19 [Special].—A mythical enemy fleet landed 2,500 troops thru the surf here today in an army-navy war games attack on the Pacific coast. Defense forces were quickly outnumbered and defeated. The attacking Blacks docked a huge transport in the harbor as the defending Blue forces retreated.

The maneuvers are a large scale test of landing operations by the fleet and defense measures by the army. The mock battle will end tomorrow.

Six Black battleships added the din of their batteries to the roar of planes overhead. Under the bombardment of the capital ships of the Black navy the defenders were forced to withdraw their heavy artillery further inland. The Blue intelligence service admitted that the defenders had been outmaneuvered and that the landing operation had been successful.

Planes Roar Overhead.

Planes engaged in simulated dog fighting high above the sandy beach and coastal mountains as the 80 navy ships and transports moved in for the landing. Mobile 155s of the 250th coast artillery rumbled and antiaircraft guns blazed from brush-ridden positions while the Blue and Black planes swarmed up and down the coastline.

Destroyers swept the waters free of mines before the Black troops poured over the sides of the transports into boats that also brought tanks, trucks, and light guns to shore. Enemy bombers raided Camp Ord, major defense headquarters.

With the landing operation a success, the Blacks prepared for their next step, theoretical penetration of the rich Salinas farming district and a march on San Francisco.

May Try Second Landing.

Four transports were sighted off Carmel, indicating the Blacks might also attempt a surprise landing there. Meanwhile in retaliation for the bombing of the cities and airports as far inland as Reno, Blue air forces roared far out to sea, dropping bombs on a plane carrier. Dog fights in the air also marked activity on the San Francisco front, 100 miles away, with the Black planes bombing Mare Island navy yard.

The defending forces claimed that with few exceptions the invading planes were downed or driven off before they reached their objectives. Excellence of the defense's aerial warning system was credited for the success of the defenders.

WARNS CLIPPERS MAY ELIMINATE BERMUDA STOPS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 [Special].—Secretary of State Cordell Hull warned today that American trans-Atlantic Clippers may eliminate Bermuda as a stop and other American air service to the island may be discontinued if the British persist in interfering with American mail aboard planes.

The British began searching American mail at Bermuda yesterday. The American Clipper was held over night while authorities examined mail destined for Germany and, to a lesser extent, that destined for Italy.

The big flying boat took off for the Azores this afternoon carrying passengers but leaving behind more than a ton of mail taken off by the British censors. Officials at Bermuda announced the mails would be censored as rapidly as possible and forwarded with a minimum of delay. Preference in the order of dispatch will be given to non-German mail, it was said.

HOUSE IGNORES ROOSEVELT PLEA TO RESTORE CUTS

Stands Firm on Death of 3 Agencies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—The house of representatives today ignored President Roosevelt's plea for restoration of the three New Deal agencies killed yesterday in the economy drive which slashed 94½ million dollars off the White House "pared to the bone" 1 billion 100 million dollar independent offices appropriation bill.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt defended the agencies—the national resources planning board, the office of government reports, and the council on personnel administration—and warned that their elimination might cost the country more in the future than is now being saved by economy. Elimination of the three units will save $2,140,000 a year.

The house turned a deaf ear to the plea. Leaders said they had told the President the agencies would be pruned and that the house was in no mood to restore them. The argument of future cost, it was said, is an old burocratic plea.

2 RED WITNESSES LINK BROWDER TO PASSPORT FRAUD

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The government rested today in the passport fraud trial of Earl Browder shortly after two communist witnesses turned against their American leader by giving testimony linking him to passports issued in the names of three other men. The trial then was recessed until Monday morning.

George E. Powers, former vice president of the International Workers' order, a communist organization, testified he identified Browder as "George Morris" when Browder applied for a passport in 1927. Max Bedacht, national secretary of the International Workers' order, testified he saw Browder in Moscow in 1921 and 1933. He identified as pictures of Browder the photographs affixed to passport applications in the names of Nicholas Dozenberg, George Morris, and Albert Henry Richards.

The government's last witness was Walter G. Blackburn, a federal bureau of investigation handwriting expert. He said Browder's handwriting appeared on applications for three passports bearing the names of the other men—all of which were issued before Browder got his first passport in his own name in 1934.

C. I. O. LEWIS SEES PRESIDENT AND DEPARTS IN HUFF

Labor Peace Is Reported Topic of Meeting.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—John L. Lewis, overlord of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, stalked out of the White House with his bushy eyebrows apparently knit in anger today after he had been summoned to confer with President Roosevelt on the prospects of labor peace.

Lewis strode past reporters without giving them the slightest intimation of the nature of his conference. At his heels was his son, John L. Lewis Jr., a student at Princeton university, who is spending a vacation in his parents' $30,000 colonial home in nearby Alexandria, Va.

Follows Meeting with Green.

It was learned that Lewis had been summoned to the White House following a conference Monday between the President and William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor. It was understood that Green had called on the President to ask what report he should carry on the status of labor peace negotiations to the impending meeting of the A. F. of L. executive council at Miami, Fla. Green requested the appointment.

At the Monday meeting, it was reported, Green reiterated the standing invitation of his organization to discuss peace and asked Mr. Roosevelt what he had heard from the C. I. O. camp. The President fixed the Lewis appointment.

Today, it was understood, Mr. Roosevelt told Lewis that the White House could no longer shield him. He asked the C. I. O. dictator to resume peace negotiations with the A. F. of L. or assume full responsibility for the strife in the ranks of labor.

Third Snub for White House.

It was the second time Lewis had shown irritation in the White House efforts to bring peace to labor—efforts inspired by a desire to have a united labor front behind the New Deal candidate, preferably Mr. Roosevelt, at the election in November. And it was the third time he snubbed White House peace moves.

Last October the President sent a personal letter to Lewis at the C. I. O. convention in San Francisco appealing for peace.

Last Nov. 9, Lewis left the White House in anger when the President delivered a verbal demand that peace negotiations be resumed. Earlier that day Mr. Roosevelt had broached his suggestion to Green and was told that the A. F. of L. has a standing invitation to the C. I. O. to discuss peace.

Since the November meeting the gap between Lewis and the White House has been widening, but the President has shielded Lewis from blame for blocking peace attempts. Last week many observers here were convinced that Lewis had served notice on the White House that he had left the New Deal, which he had helped to power thru more than half a million dollars in campaign contributions, when he invited Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] to address a C. I. O. meeting. The move was interpreted as signifying Lewis had named Wheeler as the C. I. O. choice for the Democratic nomination.

Lewis has no taste for peace negotiations, according to informed sources, because he cannot expect to retain the dictatorial powers he now enjoys under any peace agreement.

They canceled a tour of 30 American cities.

DISCLOSE SHIFT IN NLRB OPINION UNDER PRODDING

House Inquiry Uncovers Examiner's Dilemma.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Digging further into practices of the National Labor Relations board, house investigators learned today that:

1. A trial examiner once changed his own opinion and found a company guilty of violating the act after receiving instructions from Washington.

2. A case was taken away from an examiner who was accused of being antiunion and sympathetic to employers.

3. On one occasion the board found a company had violated the act, despite doubt of a trial examiner, then reached a compromise settlement with the company without going to court.

Letters Reveal Cases.

These facts were developed thru introduction by Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, of letters between field men and Washington headquarters of the NLRB. Most of them were to George O. Pratt, chief trial examiner, who testified again today.

The first case related to C. I. O. charges two years ago against the Burgess Battery company, Madison, Wis., involving the discharge of five workers because of alleged union activities.

Joseph F. Keirnan of Kansas City, the trial examiner, reported to Pratt that, in his opinion, at least four of the men dismissed had cheated on tally machine reports of the number of pieces of steel they cut.

Pratt replied that if the real reason for the dismissals was union activity, the fact that the men committed dishonest practices was not controlling.

Then Keirnan sent Pratt his decision requiring the company to reinstate three of the five men involved.

Case Shifted to Board.

The second case related to C. I. O. charges against the Washougal Woolen mills, in which Trial Examiner Madison Hill conducted hearings at Vancouver, Wash., early in 1938.

After the board had received the complaints, Nathan Witt, board secretary, suggested that the litigation should be transferred to the board itself—a step taken on March 18. After receiving one set of reports on Hill, Witt told Pratt that he was then "of the stronger opinion that the case should be snatched."

Keirnan wrote Pratt several times about a charge filed by an A. F. of L. affiliate in October, 1935, against the Colorado Milling and Elevator company of Denver. Keirnan said that "it really looks as tho there might be something to" the company's contention that it dismissed two men for insubordination rather than for union activity.

Nevertheless the board ordered the company to reinstate the men. Later a compromise settlement was reached out of court.

SORRY SHE SWALLOWED POISON.

Miss Effie May Clyne, 21 years old, 5406 Winthrop avenue, who swallowed poison Wednesday because of a frustrated romance, said yesterday that she was sorry and Judge Jay A. Schiller dismissed a charge of disorderly conduct.

THE PRODIGAL PAINTING

By CALEB

OFF IT went, about a fortnight ago, from our second-floor Art Galleries to its final destination in Westfield, N. J. And with it went our felicitations over the surprising sequel to a remarkable story.

In London, during the latter half of the nineteenth century, lived a painter with two painter sons. To avoid professional confusion of identity, they painted under different names. The elder son used the family name of William Oliver Rhys (pronounced Reese). The father and the other son signed their pictures, respectively, William Oliver and Reginald Arthur. To William Oliver Rhys was born a son named Cyril Oliver Rhys. So much for the story's cast. Now for its events.

Playing about in his uncle's London studio, little Cyril Oliver Rhys watched Reginald Arthur put paint on canvas, and particularly remembered, long years after, a certain great chest that stood amid the studio litter. His own grandfather dying around 1900, he shortly after came on to America, where he settled permanently.

But keep your mind on that chest, which also naturally stayed all that time in Cyril's mind. For in 1892 his uncle, Reginald Arthur, a consistent exhibitor at the Royal Academy, had painted a very fine picture called, interchangeably, The Mistletoe Bough or Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall, after Charles Major's once-celebrated novel. It depicted the story of the gay young bride who, in a gesture of jokery on her friends, conceals herself in a chest; and the chest in the studio was used as a model. Tragic sequel, however, is her imprisonment under its lid, locked in falling, and there her bones are discovered long afterward.

At an auction of paintings last summer in London, our representative purchased this painting—not knowing, of course, of any connection between Reginald Arthur, William Oliver, and Oliver Rhys. He shipped it in due course to our galleries; and here, a short time ago, casually appeared a Cyril Oliver Rhys, of Westfield, N. J. Wandering into the room where hung The Mistletoe Bough, he took one look, and excitedly exclaimed: "That's the chest!" Turning to the signature on the canvas—sure enough, there it was: "My uncle, Reginald Arthur!" . . .

And so, a picture prodigal had ended its forty-eight years' wanderings! And in our covering letter to its magically discovered latest owner went our congratulations—sincerely conveyed in the words: "It is so nice to think that it is returning to its proper place, which is the family."

DEMOCRATS SEEK TO RE-ELECT ALL COUNTY OFFICERS

Bid for Harmony with Horner Aids Expected.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Final inquiry yesterday into plans of the Democratic organization in Cook county established that the leaders have adopted a stand pat policy toward the party primary April 9. All incumbents of local offices whose terms expire, including State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, are to run again with the support of the organization.

Thomas J. Courtney.

The same attitude is taken toward state officials, with the exception of Louie E. Lewis, who is barred by the constitution from election to a second consecutive term as state treasurer. But, while the decision of the Chicago leaders is final as far as local offices is concerned, there still is some question whether the downstate organization under Gov. Henry Horner's control can be easily persuaded to adopt the pacific attitude.

Mayor Indicates Position.

The position of the Chicago leaders was revealed partly by what Mayor Kelly said to his associates and lieutenants before leaving on Wednesday for Florida for at least a 10 day stay. He said there would not be need for county organization meetings since there will be no need for slate making this year.

P. A. Nash, county chairman, has been in Florida all winter except for a short visit early in January, but while he was here he showed his complete accord with the no contest program which he and Mayor Kelly had agreed upon. With both Kelly and Nash enjoying the southern sunshine during what normally would be the slate making period it is conceded that there is not any real chance that the agreed program will be disturbed.

Peace Expected to Be Keynote.

The question of a state slate will be taken up between Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly after the latter's return to Chicago and the political associates of both predict that when they meet the thought of a peaceful primary will be uppermost.

These forecasters say that the only upset to the plan of backing all incumbents will be a decision by Gov. Horner that his health will not permit him to make the race, or Senator James M. Slattery's own thought that he does not want to run again.

The local officials who now—without any slate making—are on the regular organization slate for April 9 are, in the order in which their names will be on the ballot, the following:

SANITARY TRUSTEES — James M. Whalen, George Self, and Joseph T. Baran.
STATE'S ATTORNEY — Thomas J. Courtney.
RECORDER—Edward J. Kaindl.
PROBATE COURT CLERK—Frank Lyman.
CIRCUIT COURT CLERK—John E. Conroy.
SUPERIOR COURT CLERK—Victor L. Schlaeger.
CORONER—Frank J. Walsh.

12 Judges' Terms Expire.

The terms of office of 12 Municipal court judges expire this year and all of them will be reslated. They are:

Stephen Adamowski	M. D. Hartigan
Francis Borrelli	Joseph B. Hermes
J. M. Braude	Eugene L. McGarry
Joseph J. Drucker	Harold P. O'Connell
Gibson E. Gorman	Frank M. Padden
Leroy Hackett	George B. Weiss

Only about half of the county officials are to be elected this year. In the off year between presidential elections the other half—including the taxing officials, the county board, the sheriff, and treasurer—are elected for four year terms.

CLAIMS BACKING FOR GREEN ON G.O.P. COMMITTEE

Support of Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor, by 11 members of the Republican state central committee was announced yesterday by Deneen Watson, chairman of the campaign committee. The statement said that their districts include 79 downstate counties.

The names of only seven committeemen were listed. They were Ben L. Berve [13th], Roy E. Larson [15th], William C. Radliff [17th], Robert E. Bookwalter [18th], Frank G. Thompson [23d], John W. Spence [24th], and John H. Searing [25th].

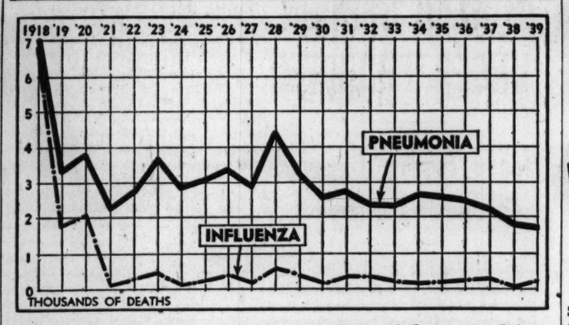
Watson's contention was that these indorsements were particularly significant because more than 70 per cent of the votes in the Republican primary will be cast downstate.

BLAME YOUR LIVER IF—

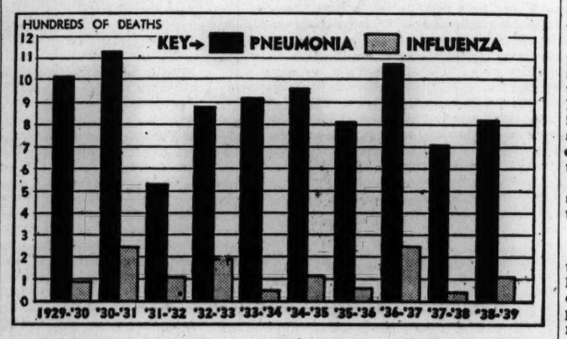
If your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines — constipation with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling often result. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15c, 30c, 60c. All drugstores.

Pneumonia and Flu Toll in Chicago



Record of deaths caused by pneumonia and influenza in Chicago by years, beginning with the great wartime epidemic.



Comparison of fatalities caused by the two ailments in Chicago during December, January, and February of the last ten winters.

Deaths from pneumonia so far this winter have been fewer than during the corresponding period a year ago, the Chicago board of health reported yesterday. In the 49 days from Dec. 1 thru Jan. 1, 260 died, compared with 386 in the 1938-'39 period. Pneumonia deaths for the first 18 days of this month also are lower, 120 as against 164 for 1939.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said it was too early to determine whether the use of a new drug, sulfa-pyridine, was responsible wholly or in part for the decline. The decline in pneumonia deaths is general thruout the country, he said.

With variations, the general trend of pneumonia deaths has been downward since the epidemic year of 1918, when 7,000 died. Last year the total was 1,688. During the December-January-February period of 1938-'39 there were 810 deaths, compared with 1,012 in 1929-'30 and 1,134 in 1930-'31.

Since the death toll of 6,971 from influenza in 1918 and high totals in the two subsequent years, there has been little significant change in the influenza death rate. Last year 200 died. There were 111 deaths in the December-January-February period of 1938-'39.

TAFT QUESTIONS ROOSEVELT AIMS IN PEACE POLICY

Warns Hand in Europe Dooms Democracy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 19.—United States Senator Robert A. Taft tonight raised a question of whether President Roosevelt has wholeheartedly accepted the view of the people that the United States must stay out of war, except a war of defense.

The Ohio senator said that altho public opinion in behalf of peace seems to have changed Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward involvement in Europe, the President said nothing in his recent message to congress about maintaining neutrality and emphasized only that he was opposed to military participation in the war.

"He implies that we still have some duty to interfere abroad," said the senator.

Warns of Consequences.

Senator Taft spoke at a meeting in the Milwaukee auditorium here on his first visit to the state in search of Wisconsin's support in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The senator ridiculed the idea that the United States cannot avoid entering the war. He challenged the belief held in some quarters that the United States should enter the war to defend democracies from dictatorships. He also warned of the arbitrary powers that would be granted the President in the event of war.

"Our going to war," said Senator Taft, "would be more likely to destroy American democracy than to destroy German dictatorship. The so-called mobilization of wealth carried out in the New Deal spirit might well result in the complete socialization of all property, and I doubt whether we would ever again see real operation of private enterprise or real local self-government in the United States."

Replies to Roosevelt Plea.

Taft's speech was a reply to President Roosevelt's appeal for nonpartisanship in the latter's Jackson day speech.

"It is certainly not partisan," the senator said, "to differ with the President's policies or to criticize ineffective administration. The very appeal for nonpartisanship in the Jackson day speech was itself partisan, for it attempted to put the Republicans in the position of being partisans whenever they criticize the administration's policies.

"One of the most obvious manifestations of partisanship is to attribute devious and wicked motives to your enemies. The Jackson day speech implies that all those who preceded the New Deal were selfish and greedy; that they made the farmer an economic outcast; that the most honored element in America under their administration was made of gamblers and speculators."

50th Ward Republicans Back Brooks for Senator

Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, was indorsed last night by the 50th ward Republican organization, meeting at 2323 Devon avenue. Joseph Novotny, organization president, presided over the meeting, which 162 precinct captains attended.

DEWEY TO SPEAK IN PORTLAND, ORE. ON LINCOLN DAY

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—Thomas E. Dewey's campaign headquarters today announced the itinerary of his trip to the Pacific coast in early February. It will be the longest trip the aspirant for the Republican Presidential nomination has yet undertaken, taking him 6,000 miles thru a dozen states with two visits to Chicago. He will deliver an address at Portland, Ore. At a Lincoln day [Feb. 12 dinner under the auspices of the Multnomah county Republican committee.

Dewey and his party will leave New York the evening of Feb. 7. A stop will be made in Chicago for six hours the following day. Other visits en route to Portland will be made at Helena and Butt, Mont., and Spokane, Wash., with a side trip to the Grand Coulee dam on the way to Portland.

Dewey will leave Portland the following morning and will stop at Salt Lake City, Boise, Idaho and Cheyenne, Wyo. on the return trip. He will also make another stop in Chicago, arriving back in New York on Monday, Feb. 19.

SIX APPROACHED IN JURY FIX PLOT, PROBE REVEALS

Others Voting Acquittal Face New Quiz.

Evidence that six jurors in the recent 11th ward vote fraud trial were approached by persons who sought to insure a verdict of acquittal was in the hands of the grand jury last night. And yesterday, for the second time, a lawyer was accused as the man behind the scenes in the bribery negotiations.

Three jurors have confessed taking bribes and two others have told of attempts to influence their stand in the case. The sixth juror was added to the list late yesterday. He is Mathias P. Schumacher, 26 years old, 4834 Huron street, a Surface lines motorman.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said Schumacher told him he was approached by a woman who said it would be worth a good suit of clothes if the defendants, Sam Orlando and Joseph Vinci, were freed. Schumacher said he ignored the offer. He was one of the last two jurors to change his vote for conviction to one for acquittal.

Woman Taken Before Jury.

The woman who approached Schumacher was questioned by Crowley last night and later was taken before the grand jury at a brief night session. Crowley said she asserted that a lawyer had spoken to her.

"You know a girl who knows Schumacher," the woman quoted the lawyer as saying: "Get to him and tell him an acquittal will be worth a good suit of clothes." The woman said she telephoned Schumacher and delivered the message.

Orlando, a precinct captain in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward, and Vinci, his assistant, were accused of voting numerous ballots and stuffing ballot boxes in the judicial election last June. They were acquitted Dec. 20 altho the state believed its case was ironclad. All of the jurors who heard the case have been questioned. Schumacher insisted he had not been approached until yesterday, when he was given a lie detector test.

Crowley said it was apparent that even more of the jurors may have been approached. They will be called in for further questioning.

Named by Ex-Convict.

Marvin Olson, an ex-convict, earlier had said he entertained two women jurors with money provided by the lawyer. One of the women, Mrs. Lillian Conners, has said the lawyer gave her $50, which she believed was a payment for jury service in a previous case, and that he told her there would be more money in the next case. The lawyer has denied these accusations.

The jury lineup thus far in the investigation is as follows: Admitted taking bribes—Mrs. Conners, Mrs. Martha Aumond, and James McNamara. Admitted being urged to vote for acquittal—Miss Helen Kennealy, Clarence Coleman, and Schumacher.

John Howe, a state highway policeman who lives at 8006 South Paulina street, was charged by the Marquette police yesterday with conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the alleged jury fixing plot. Miss Kennealy, who lives at 8244 South Paulina street, was reported to have told the grand jury Howe had sought to influence her in behalf of Orlando and Vinci.

Placed Under $2,000 Bond.

Howe was ordered booked after he had appeared before the grand jury twice and had taken a lie detector test. He was put under $2,000 bond and will have a hearing Monday in Felony court.

Juror Coleman, who lives at 1327 Grenshaw street, was asked to vote for acquittal by Joseph Spizzirri, a mail truck guard, according to Spizzirri's admission. The latter is a brother of Guy [Tony] Spizzirri, husband of Mrs. Gladys Spizzirri. She is an election official in the 52d precinct of the ward who was reported to have been indicted Wednesday on vote fraud charges. Joseph said Tony asked him to see Coleman. Tony refused to sign an immunity waiver when called to the grand jury room yesterday.

Bailiff James Sheridan of the Felony court was taken before the grand jury at the time of the questioning of Schumacher. Prosecutor Crowley later explained that Sheridan's only connection with the case was that he was a friend of Schumacher. Crowley said Sheridan had advised the juror: "If there's anything wrong, go in and tell about it."

Medals Given Four Divers for Squalus Rescue Work

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Secretary Edison presented navy medals of honor today to four divers for "extraordinary heroism" in the rescue of survivors of the Squalus and in the subsequent salvage of the sunken submarine. The four were: William Badders, chief machinist's mate, Annapolis, Md.; Orson L. Crandall, chief boatswain's mate, New London, Conn.; James Harper McDonald, chief metalsmith, Hoehnes, Colo., and John Mihalowski, torpedoman, first class, Worcester, Mass.

GROCERY ROBBER IDENTIFIED.

A robber arrested Thursday night in a holdup of a grocery at 15334 Center street, Harvey, was identified yesterday as Edward J. Upham of 9322 Trumbell avenue, Evergreen Park. He was seized after a clerk slipped out a side door and called police.

LOCK UP JURORS WEIGHING FATE OF POLICE KILLER

Unable to Reach Verdict; State Demands Death.

A Criminal court jury of nine men and three women, considering the fate of Joseph Russano, 23 years old, charged with the murder of Park Policeman Harry Francois, was locked up last night at 11:38 p. m. without reaching a verdict. They will be returned to court at 10 a. m. today to resume deliberations. Judge John Sbarbaro gave the case to the jury at 9:02 p. m. The state had demanded the death penalty.

Only a few hours before, Russano had sat stunned as he heard his defense alibi apparently shattered by the testimony of his two accomplices in the crime.

One, Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, confessed trigger man, had been sentenced in the morning to die in the electric chair on Feb. 23. He was convicted last week in a separate trial, and the jury fixed his punishment at death. The other, Italo Begani, 16, has pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later.

Tells a Weird Story.

In an effort to escape the chair, Russano told a weird story about the murder of Francois, who was shot down during an attempted robbery on Nov. 20 in Humboldt park. Russano said he was forced to join the gang by Mangano, who shot at him and even kidnaped him in order to gain this end. Russano also denied a signed confession which said that he ordered Mangano to shoot, attributing this command to Begani.

Mangano paled when he was called as a rebuttal witness by Prosecutor Richard Devine. His voice at times was almost inaudible.

"I was with my girl, next door to a tavern at Bell avenue and Taylor street, when the boys whistled for me," Mangano said. "When I came out Russano had two guns. He gave me one and said: 'Let's go up north and make some money.'

"At Madison street and Western avenue we stole a car from an army officer. Then we went into Humboldt park and started robbing a couple in a parked car. I was standing at one door and Russano at the other when he shouted: 'It's the heat! Shoot!'

Shoots, Then Sees Policeman.

"I shot just as I turned around and saw the copper. Then we ran."

Mangano denied that he ever had to force Russano to go along on robberies. Russano, he insisted, was still his friend. Both Mangano and Begani said they were willing to accept blame for their own misdeeds, but refused to accept any guilt placed on them by Russano.

Begani told substantially the same story as Mangano. But Russano, while his pals were testifying, sat muttering, his face pallid and sickly.

3 BANDITS RAID E. CHICAGO BANK; SHUT 9 IN VAULT

Three bandits invaded the Peoples Federal Savings and Loan association, 4902 Indianapolis boulevard, East Chicago, Ind., late yesterday, shut five customers and four employés in a vault, and escaped with $1,700 in currency and $2,700 in checks.

The bandits ordered the customers and the employés to lie on the floor and then demanded the money. When Thomas S. Gozdecki, the assistant secretary-treasurer, was slow in complying, one of the robbers felled him with a gun butt. After scooping up the money, the gunmen forced their victims, including two women, into the vault, but did not lock the door. The robbers escaped in a grey sedan.

Police from East Chicago, Hammond, Gary, Chicago, the Lake county sheriff's office, and the Indiana state highway force coöperated in a radio alarm blockade. It was believed the bandits escaped thru Calumet City into Chicago.

Attorney Beaten and Kicked in Loop Building Corridor

John W. Morsbach, an attorney, was slugged and kicked by an unidentified assailant last night in an 11th floor corridor at 77 West Washington street. Morsbach, who has an office in the building, was struck with a club or a piece of pipe. The slugger fled when Morsbach cried for help. The attorney, who lives at 6816 Lakewood avenue, said he knew of no reason for the attack.

SHERIFF MERLIN CHAPIN DIES.

Carthage, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP).—Merlin Chapin, 47, sheriff of Hancock county, died unexpectedly last night at his home. He had been ailing for some time and death was believed caused by a stroke.

Actress Hysterical

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mae Murray, former star of stage and screen, as she became hysterical in New York yesterday while her attorney read to her parts of court decision in her fight for custody of her son.

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Mae Murray, former stage and screen star, tossed an inkwell at her lawyer today after accusing him of giving newsmen an unfair picture of a recent court decision against her.

The decision was in her habeas corpus proceedings to regain custody of her 13 year old son, Koran David Mdivani, who has been living with nonrelatives near Troy, N. Y., for the last three years.

While her lawyer, Vincent A. Catoggio, was reading parts of the decision to reporters in his office on the 20th floor of a lower Manhattan skyscraper, Miss Murray started a tirade against the lawyer, who said:

"Do you want me to call the wagon?"

"You don't dare," Miss Murray cried, and she picked up an inkwell.

Catoggio ducked and the missive crashed thru a window. The lawyer then escorted her forcibly to an elevator.

In the habeas corpus action, Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergan of Albany ruled that she could not have her child but could reopen the case when able to prove she could provide for him adequately.

SEIZE EMPLOYER OF TWO ON SOCIAL SECURITY CHARGE

Small Business Man Jailed and Fingerprinted.

Wallace Graham, owner of a small rental reporting business, was arrested yesterday by a deputy United States marshal in his office at 43 East Ohio street. Then he was taken to a cell in the United States courthouse, fingerprinted, and kept there for two hours.

Wallace Graham.

His offense was the failure to file returns for his employés under the social security act. Graham, who is 32 years old and lives at 919 Argyle avenue, admitted that. He said his business was bad, he didn't have the $55 due, and he didn't know that federal law permitted him to file the returns and make payment later.

Two Notices Ignored.

The office of Carter Harrison, collector of internal revenue, had notified Graham twice that three quarterly social security reports were due. He did not respond.

Yesterday morning David Bazelon, assistant United States district attorney, went before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and obtained a contempt of court citation against Graham. This is reported to be the first time such a proceeding has ever been used by the internal revenue office in Chicago.

Deputy United States Marshal William Russell went to Graham's office with the summons.

"He came in, flashed his badge, and showed me the summons," Graham said later. "Then he hustled me off in his automobile to the courthouse. I was placed in the lockup on the eighth floor in the cell next to a narcotics addict.

Allowed to Call Lawyer.

"I was fingerprinted. I asked permission to get a lawyer. The attachés weren't sure that I could, but finally let me call my attorney, William J. Andrews."

When Andrews arrived, Graham had been in the cell two hours. He was then taken before Judge Woodward and the contempt hearing was continued to Feb. 26 to allow Andrews time to familiarize himself with the case. Graham was released on his own bond. If found guilty on the contempt charge, he can be sent to jail for any period at the judge's discretion.

Graham's income is subject to seasonal fluctuations, he said. This is his dull time. His business is the making of reports to landlords on the financial responsibility of prospective tenants. At his peak time, Graham employs eight men. He has only two employés at present.

GARAGE SLAYING INQUIRY STARTED BY RACKET SQUAD

The newly formed racket squad went into action yesterday in the investigation of the goon terror slaying of Marinus Hvid. Two other detectives have been assigned to devote their entire attention to the Hvid killing until it is solved.

The racket squad of four men is headed by Sergt. George Barnes. He will confer with other authorities who have worked on the case. Yesterday was the 23d day since Hvid, owner of a garage at 3514 North Halsted street, was fatally slugged with baseball bats. He died three days later—On Dec. 30. Police and the state's attorney's office have not found a clew to the identity of the murderers.

Four directors of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, a garage owners' association which expelled Hvid last March, were witnesses yesterday before the grand jury. They were reported to have said that they never asked Emil Mermall, executive director of the association, for an accounting of the organization's income of $50,000 a year.

Mermall is reported to control 95 per cent of the funds. Evidence has indicated a tieup between the association and the Auto Livery, Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers union, which called a strike at Hvid's garage shortly after his expulsion from the association.

COLD HALTS THREE PLANTS.

Coldwater, Mich., Jan. 19 [Special].—Several hundred men employed by three manufacturing concerns here were thrown out of work this morning because of the 20 degree below zero cold which crippled operation of the plants. School attendance was reduced 50 per cent.

Blow Torch Fires Rout Families from 2 Buildings

Blow torches were blamed by firemen yesterday for two fires. One attacked a four flat building at 4132 Lake street and the other swept thru a two flat building at 1165 West 18th street. Families at both addresses fled to the street. Firemen found a blow torch in each building.

KEY WEST KEEPS OUTSIDE BEATEN PATH OF VISITORS

Isle Undisturbed by Few Hundred Tourists.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Key West, Fla., Jan. 19 [Special].—This island, most southern point in the United States, is little affected by a winter travel boom that on the mainland is swelling villages with new cabins, new gasoline stations, new houses, and new hotels. Key West, with its barnacled water front, its narrow streets of sun and wind faded houses, is undisturbed by its few hundred visitors.

Map shows location of Key West and highway to island.

The Key West atmosphere of a distant insular possession has not been dispelled by the completion two years ago of a $57,000,000 highway with 38 bridges between keys for the 110 miles to the mainland. The only colors added to the picture since this reporter was here two years ago are the figures in white or in blue uniforms. On sidewalks shared by dark skinned Cubans and shaded by palms, the tanned sailors look like navy recruiting advertisements.

Base for Neutrality Patrol.

Of course the navy isn't new to Key West. Commodore David Porter established a base here in 1822 to fight Caribbean pirates. It was an important base in the civil and the Spanish-American wars. In the world war, a $1,000,000 submarine harbor was built here. From 1932 to last Nov. 1, however, the station was inactive. Today it is a base for the neutrality patrol and for fleet and marine war games in the Caribbean.

The Tribune road car was driven here yesterday from Miami. The traffic was light. Perhaps the $1 toll each way keeps others away. Maybe it's the bumps in the asphalt road thru the mangrove jungles on the keys, or the 16 foot width, which seems much narrower, of 22 wooden bridges with flimsy guardrails over green and blue waters where tides and currents mix the Gulf of Mexico with the Atlantic. There are 16 concrete bridges laid on the trestle of an overseas railroad destroyed by a hurricane in 1935.

Boasts It's Different.

Perhaps the isolation is partly predetermination by a native population 27 per cent Cuban and 25 per cent colored. A chamber of commerce pamphlet reads in parts as follows: "Key West is different from Florida resorts. It has no intention of becoming one, holding no inducement to those who would dissipate life."

The island, four miles long and a mile wide, invites visitors without losing its dignity. There is one expensive resort hotel. There's at least one good moderate priced commercial hotel. And there are several rooming houses available to transients.

We think you'd like Key West, with every breeze a salty breeze and with its bright warm sunshine.

JACKSON ASKED TO STOP CHICAGO BALLOT FRAUDS

Federal aid against vote frauds in Chicago was urged yesterday upon Robert H. Jackson, new attorney general of the United States, in a letter from the Joint Committee on Elections. This committee was organized recently by the Chicago Bar association and five civic organizations. Its purpose is to consolidate the work of civic groups in guarding against election frauds.

Early in December Frank Murphy, now an associate justice of the United States Supreme court and then attorney general, announced a federal inquiry would be started into vote frauds in Chicago.

Signers of the letter to Jackson are six members of the joint committee: Albert J. Meserow, Chicago Bar association; Guy E. Reed, Chicago Association of Commerce; Arnold R. Baar, City club; Mary Louise Ramsey, Woman's City club; Mrs. Will F. Lyon, Cook County League of Women Voters, and Kendall I. Lingle, Citizens' association.

"In view of the federal offices which have been filled in recent elections and which will be involved in future elections," the letter read, "it is important that your office do everything in its power to provide for honest elections in the Chicago area."

VOTERS DECEIVED ON AGE PENSIONS, DECLARES LUND

Representative Arnold Lund [R., Riverside] asserted last night that Gov. Horner was trying to deceive voters into the belief that the coming special session of the legislature would raise old age pensions in Illinois to $40 a month—an increase of $10. Lund addressed a meeting in the 47th Ward Regular Republican club at 4234 Lincoln avenue.

He asserted that only those who are now getting $30 and are under medical care would receive the $40 even if proposed legislation is passed. He estimated that only 5 per cent of the pensioners would receive any real benefit.

"It is the duty of the governor to call a special session to handle relief matters," Lund declared. "Relief clients are entitled to consideration. As it is the funds that should be caring for them are going to an army of pay rollers."

BUTCHER FATALLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

John Lesmiewski, 55 years old, 4509 Justine street, a butcher, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at 37th street and Ashland avenue. The driver was Peter Weinberger, 7534 South Hermitage avenue.

Twelve passengers in a Wells street trolley car were shaken and the motorman was injured slightly yesterday in a collision with a truck at Wells and Erie streets. The motorman, William Sickenzer, 67 years old, 1912 Waveland avenue, told Chicago avenue police that frosty windows in his car prevented him from seeing the truck.

The truck driver was Julius Braasch, 6141 South Mayfield avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 46 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 34 were killed in Chicago, where 1,137 were injured in the same period.

BAR ASSOCIATION TO HEAR M'GARRY CASE NEXT WEEK

The Chicago Bar association will hold a hearing at 10 a. m. next Wednesday on charges of judicial misconduct against Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court, it was announced yesterday. The bar association, acting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court, can recommend what action should be taken. The Supreme court can then disbar, censure, or clear McGarry.

Judge McGarry has been suspended from his court duties since early December, when he was indicted by the grand jury on charges of malfeasance and conspiracy to accept false bail bond acknowledgments. The indictments were subsequently dismissed by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Criminal court on the ground that a judge cannot be indicted for acts that come within his discretion as a judge.

In a hearing yesterday Judge Graber dismissed motions to quash an indictment containing eight counts against Sam Brin, a tavern owner who was accused with Judge McGarry on charges of conspiracy to schedule the faulty bail bonds. Judge Graber set the trial for Feb. 19.

ROAD TO BREAK INDIANA BOTTLE NECK INDORSED

City and civic representatives of the Calumet region in Lake county, Indiana, yesterday indorsed construction of a modern highway to connect with Chicago's proposed system of superhighways.

The group, meeting in Hammond under the sponsorship of the south area council of the Chicago Motor club, voted to ask the Indiana state highway commission to make a study of the need and location of such a superhighway.

George Barton, chief engineer of the motor club, told the group that construction of Chicago's superhighway system would create a bottleneck at the southeast entrance to the city on Indianapolis boulevard unless Indiana authorities build a modern highway to care for congested traffic.

KILLER OF SALOON CUSTOMER GETS 14 YEAR SENTENCE

Adolph Fleming, 41 years old, colored, was sentenced to 14 years in prison for murder yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court. Fleming, a steward for the Packing House Workers' Organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, was convicted by a jury of the slaying of Daniel C. Howe, 31, of 4317 Berkeley avenue, a law student. Evidence at the trial showed that Fleming fired seven shots thru the window of a tavern on East 43d street after being refused admittance, and that one of his shots struck Howe, a patron.

MERCURY LIFTS SUBZERO SIEGE; MILDER TODAY

Cold Wave Moves to East; Charities Appeal for Aid.

A week-end of comparative mildness was predicted yesterday by Forecaster C. A. Donnel in contrast to the 37 hours of below zero weather which ended at noon yesterday. The temperature was 10 above last night, and Donnel said it probably would climb higher today and tomorrow. There may be snow flurries.

The mercury in Chicago rose from —13 at 1 a. m. to 2 above at noon and 8 above at 5 p. m. Temperatures thruout the rest of the state ranged from unofficial lows of —20. The subzero stretch was the longest recorded since February, 1936, according to the weather bureau. The longest on record for Chicago was from Jan. 4 to 13, 1912.

Cold Wave Moves Eastward.

The intense cold wave moved eastward yesterday, cracking the zero mark in many states. New York was hard hit by the season's worst storm. An ice blockade cut the flow of the American falls in the Niagara river to less than 50 per cent. Both Ohio and Michigan had lows of —20.

Deaths attributed to the weather totaled 76 last night in 23 states. They included 25 persons burned to death; 20 who died of exposure, 19 traffic fatalities and 18 killed in coasting or other accidents.

Appeal Made for Help.

An urgent appeal for money and clothing for families suffering from exposure and hunger was made in Chicago yesterday by Josel D. Hunter, head of United Charities. He said private agencies are flooded with pleas for fuel, clothing, and food, and that tenement fires have left several families homeless.

In many homes, he said, children have had their faces frozen as they slept in unheated rooms, and south side families have burned their furniture in futile efforts to battle the cold. Hundreds of mothers are looking for aid for their children, Hunter said, with their neighbors unable to help.

Contributions should be sent to United Charities, Inc., 203 North Wabash avenue.

Baby Dies of Shock, Burns from Heating Pad in Crib

Mrs. Josephine Saathoof's attempt to keep her baby warm Thursday night brought death instead. The mother placed an electric heating pad in the crib with Victor Jr., 9 months old, and found him dead yesterday morning from what physicians said was shock and burns. The family home is at 2628 Gladys avenue.

CRACK CHICAGO TO N. Y. TRAINS CRASH IN OHIO

Cleveland, O., Jan. 19 (AP).—Two crack New York Central railroad passenger trains collided tonight, injuring at least six passengers and a dining car waiter, August Austin of Chicago. None was seriously hurt. The second section of the eastbound Southwestern Limited crashed into the rear of the first section of the Commodore Vanderbilt at Wickliffe, O., 15 miles northeast of here, as the Vanderbilt stopped at 10 p. m. for a customary check of its engine. The trains were bound from Chicago to New York.

Seven Hurt in Indiana.

Portland, Ind., Jan. 19 (AP).—Two women passengers, four railroad employés, and a mail clerk were injured late today in the collision of a westbound passenger train and an eastbound freight train on the Nickel Plate railroad a quarter mile west of Blaine.

The passenger train had stopped and was moving backward into a siding when the two locomotives collided.

Pullman on I. C. Jumps Track.

Curve, Tenn., Jan. 19 (AP).—A Pullman car of the southbound Panama Limited, the Illinois Central's crack train from Chicago to New Orleans, jumped the track near here tonight, delaying the train several hours but injuring none of the passengers. The accident occurred about 65 miles north of Memphis. Cause of the derailment was not determined immediately.

Steal Young Couple's Car for Tavern Robbery Tour

Three bandits stole an automobile from a young couple late last night and used it as their getaway vehicle in three robberies shortly afterward. The car was taken from Andrew Voss Jr., 23 years old, 4020 Wilcox street, and Miss Elizabeth Donnelly, 21, of 3738 North Sawyer avenue, in front of her home. Next the gunmen held up Joseph Wnuck's tavern at 1157 Wrightwood avenue, getting $72. In order they then robbed Mrs. Mary Temchuk's tavern at 1847 Wrightwood avenue, getting $45, and Louis Krizenecky's tavern at 2501 Walton street, getting $68.

MRS. YVONNE BURKE WINS DIVORCE FROM CRIMINAL ATTORNEY

Mrs. Yvonne Burke, 30 years old, was granted a divorce from Attorney James M. Burke, specialist in criminal law, yesterday. Mrs. Burke charged her husband with cruelty. She showed Judge Rudolph Desort a photograph taken, she said, on Dec. 31, the day after Burke was alleged to have beaten and kicked her.

"I did not realize my face was so battered and bruised until friends passed me on the street without recognizing me," Mrs. Burke testified.

As another instance of cruelty, Mrs. Burke said that on Sept. 13 the attorney "slapped her awake" when he came home, then, with a gun in his hand, chased her down five flights of stairs in an apartment hotel. Mrs. Burke lives at 5345 Harper avenue. Her attorney, Irving Eisenman, said she had accepted a $2,500 cash settlement in lieu of alimony.

M'NUTT SAYS HE WELCOMES QUIZ ON INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 [Special].—In the face of reports that his income tax returns were being investigated by the federal government, Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator and aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination, said today that he welcomed any such investigation.

McNutt said that he had not filed income tax returns while he was governor of Indiana because his income from that office was not taxable under federal statutes and that his only other income, which he said came from public speaking, did not reach levels on which income tax returns were required.

While he was commissioner to the Philippines, McNutt said, most of his investments were in tax-exempt securities.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THE HVID TYPE OF MURDER.

It is the common characteristic of nearly all murders in local labor terrorism that because of a train of events preceding the crime and leading up to it the motive is never a mystery. The reason the victim is slain is disclosed by the disputes in which he had been engaged before he was killed—as a lesson to himself and a warning to others.

The train of prior happenings in the killing of Marius Hvid, the north side garage owner, for whose murderers the police have been seeking in vain for over three weeks, reveals that he had trouble with an organization of garage owners and, subsequently and apparently consequently, with a drivers and garage helpers' union. He was expelled from the owners' association because he would not pay a fine for accepting a patron from another owner's garage. Three days later his own garage was picketed by the union, and after he had been many times threatened he was beaten to death.

This killing follows the pattern of a score of unpunished murders in which the cause of the crime was as broadly and definitely laid on the ground as footprints in the snow leading from one spot to another. In the killing of Hvid, as in the other killings, no other motive than the one immediately revealed could have been entertained.

Hvid was not attacked by robbers; he had no personal enemies; he was in no other trouble. His difficulties with the owners' association and its affiliated union were the only ones that appeared. The police had prior knowledge of these difficulties.

An investigation of these crimes does not begin with mystification. It is not necessary to examine minutely the associates and the past connections of the victims to discover in their lives some secret event or hidden relationship or transaction which would prompt another person or persons to take a life. The inquiry begins with nearly all of the detective story clews spread not only before the law enforcement officers but before the public. Nevertheless, one murder follows another and no murderers are held to trial with a good prosecutor's case against them. These killings, being of little mystery to begin with, disappear into the greatest of mystery.

A new detective squad has been formed, particularly assigned to work upon such terrorism. That would seem to indicate that law enforcement is at last organizing to attack a prevalent and especially hideous sort of crime. Regarding this new squad it will be remarked that ordinary routine police work has had no effect whatever and that more of it probably will have none. Thomas E. Dewey in New York proved that these gangs can be attacked, that they can be broken up, and that their leaders and their killers can be punished according to law. Failure isn't written into such an attempt inevitably. It may be written into it purposely.

THE END OF THE FRENCH COMMUNISTS.

The French chamber of deputies has put the finishing touches on the liquidation of the communist party in France. Altho the party was outlawed at the beginning of the war, the chamber had seventy-four communist members. In the heyday of the Popular Front, under the Socialist Premier Blum, the Stalinites held the balance of power. The rule adopted by the chamber provides that all communist members who had not repudiated their party affiliation by Oct. 26 last shall be deprived of their seats. Some of the members will gain the benefit of repentance.

Under Blum the communist elements almost prepared for France's inevitable defeat in any war precipitated before the nation could stop their activities and repair the damage they had done. They sabotaged industries by reducing production and in airplane building this presented the country with an air force of obsolete planes, outclassed by the new models built by Germany. France is even now just recovering from the effects of it, with the aid of American factories.

France has had a bitter experience with the soviets, both politically and diplomatically, and the French resentment has spread into the radical classes, which have lost their affection for Moscow and have confessed the betrayal of idea and principle. When Stalin dropped his alliance with France, made an agreement with Hitler, and started his aggressions, the French communist party was degraded and it was easy for the government to outlaw it.

TOBACCO FOR BRITAIN.

The tobacco growers of this country are greatly disturbed over the decision of the British government to cease buying American tobacco. The absence of British buyers from our tobacco auctions will mean a loss estimated at from 60 to 70 million dollars a year to American farmers. In addition, options on 178 million pounds of tobacco, now held for British account in this country, may be allowed to lapse with the result that the presence of all this unsold tobacco will depress the American market.

The British have arranged to transfer their tobacco purchases from this country to the Balkans and especially to Turkey. If the men and women of Britain become accustomed to the flavor of Turkish tobacco, it may not be easy to win them back after the war.

From the British viewpoint, the decision was natural and logical. Britain wants to use her limited purchasing power in this country in the manner which will go farthest to promote victory in the war. When our government, at Mr. Roosevelt's insistence, repealed the embargo on the sale of implements of war to belligerents, it became altogether certain that England would make every effort to reduce her purchases of agricultural products here and would spend her American funds instead for airplanes, cannon, shells, trucks, and other industrial products. There are many countries besides ours from which meat, fruits, canned milk, wheat, feedstuffs, tobacco, etc., can be obtained—but no other country which can so well serve as an arsenal.

The injury which the repeal of the arms embargo would work upon the American farmer was clearly foreseen at the time the proposal was before congress. THE TRIBUNE was among those who called the matter to public attention. We said at the time that the embargo would result in a decline of British and French purchases of the usual agricultural staples, with most serious consequences for our farmers who were already in difficulties because of unsold surpluses. We said that the imperial powers would buy farm products from their colonies and dominions and wherever else credit was obtainable. In America their buying would be diverted to war materials with the result that our industrial plants would undergo an unhealthy expansion which would cause us a great deal of trouble at the conclusion of the war. The first part of this forecast is now being realized. The second part will be realized if the war lasts much longer.

We take no particular credit to ourselves for calling the turn. The consequence of the embargo repeal was obvious to any one who would spend 5 minutes examining the question. It is difficult to believe that Mr. Roosevelt did not himself foresee the loss of our agricultural markets, for in his message recommending repeal he said at one point: "From a purely material point of view, what is the advantage to us in sending all manner of articles across the ocean for final processing there, when we could give employment to thousands by doing it here? . . . By such employment we automatically aid our own national defense."

We aid it, of course, by building up our war industries at the expense of the farmers. This was manifest, but congressmen from agricultural states, whose constituents were certain to be among the first victims, voted for Mr. Roosevelt's bill. Some time ago we called attention to the fact that the representatives of the state of Washington in the house voted to a man for the bill, tho the apple growers were to fall an early victim. Now we find much the same betrayal of their constituents' welfare by the senators and representatives of tobacco states.

Both of Kentucky's senators voted for the repeal and so did seven out of nine representatives, the exceptions being Mr. Robsion and Mr. Chapman. Of the North Carolinians only Senator Reynolds voted against the bill. His colleague, Senator Bailey, was for it, and so were all eleven members of the house from this state.

Of the Virginians both senators were for the bill [Mr. Glass did not vote] and so were eight of the nine representatives; the exception, Mr. Howard Smith, did not vote on the question.

If the farmers of the tobacco growing states don't like what has happened they know where to ask questions.

Editorial of the Day

DIXIE'S 10 YEAR PLAN.

[Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune.]

Last month in Atlanta, Ga., at the very moment when that city was involved in the world premiere of a motion picture depicting the destruction of the south in the civil war, there occurred a meeting, much less publicized, which may yet result in the agricultural and industrial rebirth of Dixie. This meeting was the Southern Governors' conference, covering the 11 southern states from North Carolina to Oklahoma and Texas.

Under the slogan, "A Balanced Prosperity for Dixie by 1950," the conference outlined 10 general aims, chief of which called for the balancing of money crops with "food, feed and fertility crops," the spread of live stock raising to submarginal agricultural areas, the elimination of trade barriers, and the development of a greater number of suitable small industries to balance the south's economy, which is now predominantly agricultural.

Such a realistic program indorsed by the political heads of the southern states was good enough. But the conference came across with something even better. It outlined a number of means by which these desired ends might be achieved. An educational campaign for balanced agriculture is to be carried on thru the press, thru farm organizations, thru the schools. A "scorecard" system is to be established under uniform rules by which cities, towns, and rural communities can be rated according to their economic progress during the next 10 years, and "certificates of progress" will be given to those which are most progressive. In 1950 a "Decade of Progress" exposition is to be held in some southern city to celebrate the expected advances.

The conversion of the American south from a worn out, one crop, peon labor economy to a diversified agricultural and industrial economy will be no simple job. But the realization by southern leaders that that is their problem and that the means of salvation lie within their own hands is a long step forward.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

BELOW THE ZERO LINE.

Something tells us that Orson Welles will eventually become a college president. This, for instance, from a wisecracking biography of the Wunderkind in the Saturday Evening Post:

"He had hardly been inside a schoolroom before he made his attempt to reform the schools of Madison, Wis."

* * *

His courageous career as an infantile reformer in education brought this happy result:

"He can read and write, but cannot cipher. He has not much more than enough arithmetic to enumerate his fingers."

* * *

We like subzero weather. It stops the people who jeer at caps that pull down over the ears. Yea, it stops them cold.

* * *

And a fur cap is nothing to laugh at, either. Those things cost as high as $50.

* * *

Hows about a sturdy pair of old-fashioned ankle height shoes for these deep snow, way below days? We prefer them to the sartorial nuisance called spats. But they're hard to find in this oxonian era.

* * *

This column's greatest achievement to date, from the viewpoint of the adjacent desks, was an unprinted announcement last Thursday afternoon to this effect:

"If anybody phones, tell 'em I've gone out to meet Hedy Lamarr."

SONNET OF A MINNESINGER.

Instruct me not, nor search my years to prove
Now time is leagued against me, ruthlessly—
Insidious time wherein all things and love
Pass and have done forever with you and me.
If this word wisdom teaches, and no more,
It is a thing I know beyond such teaching,
And false as Hell, moreover, at the core,
And bitter as Heaven is bitter for dull preaching.
Let me not rail. Nay, what have I to do
With time and what time ruins? I will build
Your beauty into rhyme that shall be true
Thru far millenniums, where men are stilled
For seeing, past huddled hutches of the throng,
Imperishable cathedrals piled in song.

The King of the Black Isles.

Old Woman of the Snowflakes.

Back in the '70s of my childhood, when the first light snowflakes came floating down on the pine and birch crowned hills, my mother would say, "Mother Feeney is plucking her geese today."

The old woman responsible for snow [Jan. 17] does have a name, at least in Germany, where instead of picking a goose she shakes a feather bed. When it snows there folks say:

"Frau Holle schüttelt ihr Bett." Maxellus.

A telephone message, anonymous, when the thermometer was marking 14 degrees below zero:

"There is a refrigeration equipment manufacturers' convention at the Stevens hotel."

A Few Cheers for Winter.

I like winter—and that's silly, because winter freezes your nose, and alternately drowns and nips your toes. Winter costs you money for coal and coats and haliver oil. But still I like winter. There's the quarry, sleek in its satin sheath, ringing with young voices and steel blades on ice, and little skating bells. There's the bright crisp air of early morning that makes you gasp, and fills you with zest and youthful eagerness. There are days when the wind howls bleakly about the eaves, and snow taps icily at the windowpanes, and you are snug inside, with your family, and books, and whatever else makes you happiest. There are the woods in winter, the trees silhouetted blackly against the white of snow, peaceful in their purposeful waiting. But best of all is the promise of what is to follow. Yet a little while, and the world will throw off its quiet sleep, and wake into new and lovely life—and it will be Spring! Helene.

PRAYER FOR PILOTS.

Never a plane rides thru the sky
But I turn and watch it winging by,
And my thoughts companion it like a prayer
As it vanishes in palpitant air.

Whether by day in shining flight,
Or like a thunder-bird in the night,
I heed its passing and my heart is held
By the beauty and wonder of it, man compelled!

And, thinking of other skies filled with foes,
I bless the peaceful journey it goes,
And pray for the day when all children of men
Shall have peace in their hearts and their skies again!

Straightening Out the Ships.

Re "Biography of a Scuttled Liner" [Jan. 18]:

This Mr. Pollock filleth me with a vast sensation of weariness, likewise he causeth me to break out with unseemly mirth and hilarity. Regarding his treatise, the following is the correct version and permits of no dispute:

At the close of the war that made the world "safe for democracy," the original Columbus was still at the Schichau works at Danzig. Under the peace treaty this liner, upon completion, was delivered to the British, who forthwith rebaptized her the Homeric. You may also remember the late Leviathan, née Vaterland, recently sold for junk.

The scuttled Columbus had her keel laid in the early '20s at Danzig and on her maiden voyage arrived in New York on April 30, 1924. I do not believe that there is a record of any British ship ever having been transferred to German registry.

THE MIGRATING PINWORM.

FOR the most part we look upon pinworms as annoying but relatively harmless. But are they? Naturally, no one wishes to play host to these small, white, cylinderlike parasites anywhere in the body, but a recent report by Botsford and others calls attention to the frequency with which these invaders locate in the appendix.

Between 15 and 20 per cent of our children—as shown by many series of cases—will entertain these guests at some time or other. But the important thing is that in nearly 5 per cent of the youngsters who are obliged to have the appendix removed the pouch will be found to contain pinworms.

As we would expect, any irritant within this elongated blind sac [the appendix] may stir up trouble. Particles of fecal matter that have become dry and hard have been blamed—as well as birdshot ingested with game. Naturally, symptoms will differ but slightly, regardless of the nature of the foreign body. We can understand, however, that whenever living animals burrow into the wall of the organ inflammation may ensue. They may plant enough bacteria to initiate an attack. The lesson, of course, is that any child who complains of itching about the rectum should be the subject of prompt treatment to get rid of these beasts of prey.

A long Latin name—enterobius vermicularis—is assigned to these crawlers. The male is rarely more than a quarter of an inch in length, while the female may be three times as large. The young settle in the small intestine and only after they are full grown will they journey to the colon—seeking a comfortable environment. When the female is ready to deposit her eggs she leaves the alimentary tube and may establish her nest on the skin about the rectum or completely outside the body. This emphasizes the necessity of teaching children to wash the hands with soap and water after a visit to the toilet. A new supply of eggs may be taken into the mouth via dirty fingers or contaminated food.

There are many suggestions as to treatment. Tetrachlorethylene is a relatively safe drug—so much so that physicians employ it with young children. It is comparatively insoluble and hence it is carried into the colon, where it is capable of making the inhabitants of this portion of the structure wish they were elsewhere. It is usually given in a solution of magnesium citrate, which almost every tot can take. There is little nausea, vomiting, or headache. Furthermore, this mixture provides its own purgative action.

Another compound—hexylresorcinol—may be used in enemas, repeating the procedure over long periods of time. This will catch the parasites as they descend into the lower bowel, but the plan must be continued for several weeks.

The suggestion has been made also that gentian violet in two and one-half grain tablets may be administered three times daily for approximately 10 days. Excellent results have followed this method, provided the pills are coated so that they cannot be dissolved in the stomach.

Good hygiene of the sleeping quarters must be observed strictly. With a child who is infected, the clothing and bedding are likely to harbor eggs in large numbers. This means that fresh sheets should be supplied daily and the region about the rectum scrubbed thoroly with soap and water both morning and evening. The toilet seat—also a source of danger—should be wiped off carefully with some antiseptic. Many will not notice symptoms until after retiring at night—when the females will leave the rectum and produce the characteristic itching of the adjacent skin.

Apparently the species is world-wide in distribution—equally prevalent in cold and warm climates. While more common to children, adults are in no wise exempt and many will suffer periodical infestations. Personal cleanliness is the answer.

IRRITANT DISCOVERED.

H. G. writes: For years I was troubled with asthma, but I am happy to say that it disappeared simultaneously with a bedroom set of cedarlined furniture. Of course every whiff of that odor had to be aired out of clothing, draperies, and dozens of other articles in the room. Because of my illness I was on the verge of losing my job and forcing my wife to the madhouse. To my children I was a Frankenstein during an attack. I took a trip to another state and within four days all distress left me. Five minutes after returning home the wife handed me a clean handkerchief from a cedarlined drawer and the trouble returned. Now my greatest worry is the bill for new furniture. My wife is to be congratulated on her detective ability, for she discovered the culprit.

TOO MUCH RADIO.

M. E. G. writes: Can a person be well mentally and physically who insists on playing the radio as early as 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning and well into the night—without ceasing? I am thinking seriously of advising her to have a physical examination. She is between 30 and 40 years of age.

REPLY.

One would suspect the malady which we may term "radiotitis." Instead of a surgeon, call an electrician to "cut" the wires.

SLIMMING THE WAISTLINE.

T. C. B. writes: If climbing stairs produces shortness of breath, is there any other form of exercise that can be recommended to keep down the waistline and yet avoid overtaxing of the heart?

REPLY.

Less strenuous exercises, such as bending and twisting the trunk, are advised. The daily dozen, plus a brake on the amount of food, should help.

SINUS AND HATS.

L. K. writes: 1. What causes sinus trouble? 2. Is going without a hat in winter one of the causes?

REPLY.

1. Infection. Bacteria, complicating ordinary colds, may migrate to the sinuses. 2. Anything that leads to chilling or to lowered resistance may be causative. Few of us possess thatches of sufficient density to justify discarding headgear.

TUBERCULOSIS OF GLANDS.

E. H. writes: Is glandular tuberculosis contagious?

REPLY.

No. Since the sputum contains no tubercle bacilli, it is not contagious as is the pulmonary [lung] form of the disease.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON. — Wartime Britain is undergoing a new industrial revolution. Private capitalism in the chief industries has been superseded by a system of state control costing more than $20,000,000 a year to operate.

The speed and implications of the change have bewildered industrialists and economists. In the guise of war efficiency it seems that the principle of self-government in industry has been given an official blessing and that some state powers have been transferred, mainly thru the medium of the ministry of supply, to hand picked leaders of big business.

The ministry of supply has two functions to perform. It has to insure an adequate supply of essential materials such as guns, munitions, and army clothing, for the war department, and it has to control and distribute the supply of essential raw materials.

The ministry's second task has been devolved upon a number of controlrs, one for each commodity or related group of commodities. They have wide powers to commandeer all existing supplies, and to fix and enforce prices. They have complete authority over the materials they control.

In addition to the supply ministry's organization there is another batch of controlers operating under its twin wartime department—the ministry of food.

Officially, the responsibility for decisions rests with the ministers of supply and food, but critics of the new control system complain that they are in effect merely a couple of rubber stamps who carry out and give legal sanction to plans drawn up by their appointed autocrats.

There are more than 30 controlers altogether. A list just published shows that all are either leaders of trade associations created to govern the industries whose materials they now control, or representatives of the biggest firms in their respective industries.

Sir Andrew Duncan, president of the Iron and Steel federation, director of the Bank of England and member of the central electricity board, looks after iron and steel. Base metals—lead, zinc, tin and copper—are controled by Capt. O. Lyttelton, managing director of the British Metal corporation. G. Cunliffe controls aluminum. He is a director of the British Aluminum company.

The wool controler is Sir Harry B. Shackelton, president of the Woolen and Worsted Trades federation and of the Bradford Manufacturers' federation. Leather is controled by Dr. E. C. Snow, a director of United Tanners' federation; paper by A. Ralph Reed, chairman of the London Paper Mills and of other papermaking concerns. Controler of industrial alcohol is A. V. Board, director of British Industrial Solvents, the Distillers' company and associated firms.

Machinery for timber control, which is so cumbersome it requires a staff of 787, comes under Maj. A. I. Harris, former president of the Timber Trade federation. Sir Percy Ashley, a member of the import duties advisory committee, controls cotton.

Commodity controlers for butter, cereals, tea, sugar, meat, bacon, eggs, potatoes, oils and fats, condensed milk and other foodstuffs, have business interests connected with the commodity they control.

This arrangement has aroused dissatisfaction in business circles. Each controler, according to economic observers, follows his own plans. There is no coördination between the various controls, it is maintained. Because the controlers are representatives of big business they have to face the problem of divided loyalties such as when the interests of the state clash with the interests of their own business.

How Our States Got Their Names

12. INDIANA.

This means simply "land of the Indians" and is formed by adding the Latin ending "a" to the word Indian. It was the Indiana territory from 1800 to Dec. 11, 1816, when it was admitted to statehood.

Indiana state seal. Scene: Woodsman felling tree, buffalo fleeing over plain to distant forest, and sun setting in west. Date [1816] denotes year of admittance to Union.

There are several explanations for the nickname Hoosier state or Hoosierdom. One is that the word first was Hoozer, meaning hill dweller, and came originally from the Old English. More colorful explanations are that the early Indiana river men were great fighters, capable of "hushing" the men they fought with, or that the early settlers were so curiosity ridden that they couldn't pass a dwelling without pausing to cry "Who's here?"

The Indiana state song is "On the Banks of the Wabash Far Away"; the flower, the zinnia; the bird, the cardinal, and the tree, the tulip tree.

THE ROPE TRICK.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—An article by Mrs. C. J. N. appeared in this column on Jan. 11 in which she suggested the use of clothesline as a fire escape device.

There is no way of knowing the strength of clothesline without testing each piece. Today, as a matter of curiosity, I cut 10 short pieces from a new ordinary clothesline and broke them in a steel testing machine. The weakest piece broke at 250 pounds, and the strongest at 850 pounds. There might easily have been a weaker spot which I did not test. At any rate, a rope to which one is to intrust his life should support not less than 300 pounds at its very end.

Very few people have strength enough in their hands to cling to a rope as thin as a clothesline. A thin rope may be descended with the aid of the legs, but unless one knows the knack, it is a dangerous procedure. Knots tied in the rope at 18 inch intervals would make the feat easier for an untrained person.

Under no circumstances should one slide down a rope since, at the least, this would result in serious rope burns; at the most, terrible lacerations, if one escaped falling altogether. An acquaintance of my mother's made such an escape down a much thicker rope many years ago. The palms of this lady's hands were stripped of all their flesh and she never fully recovered the use of them.

If Mrs. N. will suspend her clothesline from her window, then from a chair on the ground grasp the line without twisting it about her hands, and swing free, she will see exactly what her problem would be at a height of 35 or 40 feet. If Mrs. N. can cling to her position for two minutes, she could probably descend the rope safely; but still, many others could not. If Mr. and Mrs. N. will hang on the rope at the same time, its strength will be proven.

This note is not a criticism of Mrs. N. but is, rather, intended to point out a few difficulties that may not have occurred to her. E. D.

FOOTBALL.

Arcola, Ill., Jan. 16.—"Football shackles education," says Dr. Hutchins. "No," says Athletic Director F. H. Yost of the University of Michigan and adds that 35,000 schools can't be wrong.

Thirty-five years' experience as teacher convinces me that Hutchins is right in his courageous assertion, and I venture a guess, based on wide contact, that the leading minds in most of the other 35,000 schools agree with Dr. Hutchins.

It is only natural that Mr. Yost would bail his own boat. JOHN S. LOZIER.

BIRTHDAY PRESENT.

San Haven, N. D., Jan. 11.—Jan. 6, 1940, was a very happy day for me, for on that day I received a subscription for THE TRIBUNE, a birthday gift from my sister. Coming from Chicago three years ago to this small town, you can well imagine my great delight when I found the dear old TRIBUNE in my mail box. Good luck, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. I really have something to walk to the postoffice for. ALICE R. GRAHAM.

FORECAST FROM THE BLUE GRASS.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 7.—All signs indicate that the American people will soon be facing a national emergency of the first magnitude. It may be in foreign relations—a crisis with Japan, perhaps—or may be in the domestic field, like the banking crisis which was wonderfully successful. We do not know, but one thing is certain, that it will arise between now and the Democratic national convention. PAUL R. MARRS.

SCOTCH-IRISH.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—In your Saturday issue, Flonn Murphy says, "when the Irish Republican army . . . erases the line of partition" in northern Ireland. If they tried it they would have as tough a time as the Reds have with the Finns, and they have not the advantage of such numbers. No doubt he and his friends would like to get their hands on the wealth the Scotch-Irish have amassed by enterprise, hard work, and thrift, but wishful thinking will not get it.

The Ulster people have no particular love for the English. They like Americans better. It is the combination of Irish fire and Scotch canniness that gets up steam. The Scotch-Irish are but a small minority, but they have a very strong opinion about trusting British fair play—the cement of the empire—rather than the unknown dangers of the Irish government.

SCOTCH-IRISH DESCENDANT.

CONGRESS AND THE WAGNER ACT.

Ripon, Wis., Jan. 5.—I think it would be a wonderful thing at the present time to get after all of the senators and congressmen and insist that they answer whether it was their understanding when they passed the Wagner act that this three man board had full authority to do what the United States Supreme court has said now that they can do.

I think such a procedure thru a powerful paper like yours would get enough answers in the negative so that the other members of congress would have to answer it. ROY E. REED.

PROMISED BUS LINE.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Some time ago I read in the paper that the bus on 71st street would run to Halsted street. There are a great many students attending Wilson Junior college, which is on 63th street and Stewart, who are anxiously waiting for this to go into effect.

MRS. W. RADZINSKI.

IMPEACHMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—In today's Friend of the People column J. F. K. of Elgin made inquiry as to how congressmen, senators and the President may be impeached. The only instance where a member of the national legislature has been involved in an impeachment proceeding occurred a few years after the federal constitution was adopted. In 1798 the house of representatives voted to impeach William Blount, United States senator from Tennessee. The senate declined to consider the case. While its refusal was based at least in part on the technical ground of lack of jurisdiction, Blount having resigned shortly after action was taken by the house, experts on constitutional law are pretty well agreed that the power of the congress in the matter of impeachments does not extend to its own members. However, under article 1, section 5 of the constitution, each house may expel a member by two-thirds vote. B. A. M.

3 FORMER PRISON GUARDS TELL OF SLUSH PAYMENTS

Put 2% of Salaries Into Democratic Chest.

Three more ex-guards at the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries told yesterday of having been notified to pay part of their salaries into the Democratic state war chest, despite the fact that their civil service rating made it unlawful to assess them.

John Kirincic.

The former prison officers were questioned by investigators for State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county, who began the inquiry after collectors for the Illinoisans—the collection agency—had set up headquarters in a Joliet hotel room. Employés from the prisons brought their payments, which are 2 per cent of their monthly salaries, to the headquarters.

Slush Payments Illegal.

Soliciting or receiving political contributions from civil service employés is illegal. The exposé of the Illinoisans' activities has led to several independent inquiries, one conducted by the Union League club. The club's denunciation of the practice was directed to Attorney General John E. Cassidy, who is expected to reply to John L. Clarkson, club president, within a few days.

Yesterday's questioning of the former guards was conducted by John Kirincic of State's Attorney Burke's staff. He first talked with John Harrington, 514 12th street, Lockport.

Harrington said he was appointed a guard with civil service rating in September, 1929. He served until May, 1939, when he quit.

"I was disgusted," Harrington said, "because of the payments I was forced to make to the campaign fund."

Harrington said that Guard Captain James McGuire told him in July, 1938, that he would have to give up 2 per cent of his wages. He did so.

Notice Posted in Prison.

John Minor, 421 Catalpa street, Joliet, told Investigator Kirincic he was made a civil service guard in 1935. In July, 1938, he said, a bulletin was displayed at the old penitentiary notifying all employés that when they received their pay check Aug. 1, they would be expected to contribute 2 per cent of it. Minor complied. He was discharged, however, last March, after he had been accused of sleeping on duty in a quarry guard tower. He denied the charge, but was fired, nevertheless.

Charles Hill, Route 2, Lockport, was the third former officer questioned. He told Kirincic he was employed in 1927 and was discharged May 15, 1939. The charge against him was reading a newspaper on duty, which he denied.

DINNER TONIGHT TO HONOR POLICE PENSION TRUSTEE

Policemen of all ranks will join civilians tonight to honor Patrick E. [Paddy] Dwyer, trustee of the police pension fund, with a testimonial dinner in the Morrison hotel at 6:30 p. m. Dwyer joined the police department in 1903, and retired on Monday but remains with the pension board as its executive secretary.

Patrick E. Dwyer.

Judge John F. Bolton of the Superior court will speak at the dinner tonight, and high police officials and civic leaders will be at the speakers' table.

Shortly after joining the police department, Dwyer worked on the famous car barn bandit case. Later, as juvenile officer, the late Archbishop Quigley made him city officer for all catholic orphanages in the archdiocese.

In 1910 Policeman Dwyer became chairman of the legislative committee of the police pension fund. He attended every session of the Illinois legislature to look after police department interests, and was active in gaining city council ordinances providing for awards to widows and children of policemen killed on duty. He is credited with keeping the pension funds operating in times of financial crises.

County Employes Learn Fine Points of Income Tax

County employés were introduced yesterday to the intricacies of Uncle Sam's income tax blanks. A group of them began making out returns with the help of two deputy internal revenue collectors who set up a branch office in the quarters of Richard Daly, assistant county controler. About 5,000 out of 6,000 are in salary brackets calling for returns to be made.

BORAH IS DEAD; DEAN OF SENATE STROKE VICTIM

Led Battle on Supreme Court Packing.

William E. Borah, Dean of Senate, One of Nation's Greatest Orators

BORN IN ILLINOIS

Borah was born June 29, 1865, near Fairfield, Ill., the son of William N. and Elizabeth Borah. His father was a well to do farmer and stock raiser of Bohemian descent. In the veins of his mother flowed Irish blood.

Borah was educated at South Illinois academy at Enfield, Ill., along with Wesley Jones, who was to serve in the senate along with Borah. To get some law schooling Borah went to live with a married sister, whose husband was a lawyer, at Lyons, Kas. He attended the University of Kansas, where he became a friend of another student, William Allen White. After his freshman year a threat of tuberculosis compelled him to leave. After reading law in his brother-in-law's office he was admitted to the bar.

In 1890 Borah struck out for the northwest in search of a likely place to practice law. The mayor of Lyons had recommended Boise, Idaho, because he had a relative living there who wrote glowing accounts of the opportunities of the region. Young Borah picked Boise for that reason and the further one that the $15.75 he had in his pocket would take him no farther.

Named Special Prosecutor.

Borah hung out his shingle, forged to the front as a lawyer and in 1899 was appointed special prosecutor by Gov. Frank Steunenberg to conduct the case against ringleaders of the Western Federation of Miners responsible for the killing of several persons in one of the episodes of the war between the miners and the mine owners. He won a verdict of conviction.

In 1905 Gov. Steunenberg was killed by a bomb. One Harry Orchard confessed committing the crime and said he was a paid killer for Big Bill Haywood and other officers of the miners' federation. Haywood and his fellow defendants were tried in Boise in 1907.

Borah was elected to the senate in 1907 for the first of his six consecutive terms. But he was persuaded by the Steuenberg family to accept direction of the prosecution. The trial which attracted national attention and made Borah a national figure before he stepped upon the Washington stage, was a duel between the young senator-elect and Clarence Darrow, who was counsel for the defense. Darrow won acquittal for his clients. Borah won the plaudits of Darrow and Haywood for conducting the prosecution fairly.

Borah Wins Acquittal.

Borah himself was indicted in 1907, together with the officers of the Barber Lumber company, for which he was counsel. They were accused of defrauding the government in connection with timber land claims. The indictment was engineered by political enemies of Borah working thru the United States attorney.

Borah feared he would not receive a fair trial under such circumstances and prevailed upon his boyhood friend, William Allen White, to ask President Theodore Roosevelt to have a special prosecutor sent to Idaho by the department of justice. Roosevelt complied. Borah, the only witness for the defense, was acquitted. A later federal civil suit brought the verdict that no timber frauds had been committed. Roosevelt removed the district attorney and the marshal.

Thanks Bill White.

Long afterward Borah wrote White:

"Will, in all the vicissitudes of the last 40 years, there has been laid up in my memory an affectionate and unselfish act upon your part which never will be forgotten as long as I live. In a crucial situation you came effectively to my support. It was of tremendous moment to me at the time and it had much to do with my entire work thereafter. I have never said a great deal about it to you and I have sometimes wondered if you knew how much I appreciated it. But I did appreciate it and do still think of it beyond any words of mine to express."

In 1895 Borah was married to Mamie McConnell, daughter of Gov. William F. McConnell of Idaho, for whom he was making campaign speeches at the time.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE TO DEAN OF U. S. SENATE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Tributes to Senator Borah poured in tonight from men of all shades of political belief and from leaders in the life of the nation. President Roosevelt said:

"The senate and the nation are sadly bereft by the passing of Senator Borah. We shall miss him, and mourn him and long remember the superb courage which was his. He dared often to stand alone and at times to subordinate party interest when he presumably saw a divergence of party interest and the national interest.

"Fair-minded, firm in principle and shrewd in judgment, he sometimes gave and often received hard blows; but he had great personal charm and a courteous manner which had its source in a kind heart. He had thought deeply and studied patiently all the great social, political, and economic questions which had so vitally concerned his countrymen during the long period of his public service.

"His utterances commanded the close attention of the senate and of a farflung audience whenever he spoke. A unique figure, his passing leaves a void in American public life."

speaker Borah was a lifelong student. As Webster is famed for his reply to Hayne, so Borah long will be remembered for his closing argument against the Versailles treaty and the league of nations. Borah regarded that his greatest speech.

The most effective speech he ever made from the viewpoint of changing votes the senator pronounced his speech in the senate against the anti-lynching bill Jan. 7, 1938. The southern senators had filibustered against the bill for weeks in the preceding session but had come to the conclusion that they were doomed to defeat. They were prepared to abandon the fight. Sixty-five of the 96 senators had been pledged to vote for the measure.

Speech Electrifies Country.

But Borah, at the age of 72, speaking with all his old time vigor, electrified the senate and the country with his address. At its conclusion senators, including many favorable to the bill, trooped to his desk to congratulate him on an oratorical masterpiece.

In the next two or three days the popular reaction to the speech thruout the country was so favorable that support of the measure was weakened and the southern leaders decided to resume the filibuster. Eventually the Democratic leadership in the senate laid the bill aside.

Borah argued in his speech that the bill, providing for federal intervention to punish state officers failing to prevent a lynching, proposed an unconstitutional invasion of state rights. He likened it to the reconstruction measures imposed upon the south by the federal government after the civil war.

Enactment of such a law, the senator contended, would compromise with the vital principle of our dual system of government and fulfill the sneering prophecy of disaster made by Dictator Mussolini for our "bellowing herds of democracy."

AUTHORITY ON CONSTITUTION

Fought Reciprocal Trade Treaty of 1934 as Invalid

Borah was a recognized authority on the constitution, ranking with the greatest expounders of the national charter who have sat upon the Supreme bench. He was deeply interested in questions involving constitutional interpretation and closest to his heart were those speeches in which he dealt with such questions.

Two of them were outstanding. The speech advocating the income tax amendment, which the senator made at the outset of his Washington career in 1909, and the speech opposing as unconstitutional the reciprocal tariff bill of 1934.

Sorry He Voted for War.

I once asked the senator whether he felt that he had made any serious mistakes in the course of his long career.

"I have made many mistakes," he replied, "and some of them were serious. The greatest mistake I ever made, in my opinion, was to vote for war with Germany in 1917. When one goes counter to his instincts one always makes a mistake. That's what I did in that case. I also made a mistake in voting against the confirmation of the appointment of Brandeis to the Supreme court."

The senator did not explain his vote against Brandeis in the senate in 1916 and would not explain it to me.

"Do you think you made a mistake in opposing the appointment of Hughes as chief justice?" I asked.

Justifies Vote Against Hughes.

"No, I made no mistake there," Mr. Borah replied. "My vote against Hughes was justified by his record and his views at the time. But Hughes underwent a remarkable transformation when he went on the bench the second time and I congratulate myself that I and other opponents of his appointment were responsible for the change. The fight on his appointment woke him up and he adopted a more liberal attitude."

From first to last Borah was a member of the Republican party—at least he so considered himself. He never bolted the party in any formal way. He refused to follow Theodore Roosevelt into the Progressive party in 1912, altho he fought valiantly for the nomination of Roosevelt in the Republican convention. He refused to follow the elder La Follette into the Progressive third party in 1924.

But there were few Republican candidates for President whom he supported with any degree of enthusiasm. Not because of any wavering in his devotion to Republican principles, as the senator viewed it, but because of the wandering of the party and its candidate from the path of the true faith. He never left the party but the party on occasion left him.

INDEPENDENT IN POLITICS

Nominally Republican, but Ever Ready to Criticize

Borah in reality was an independent in politics. He was never more than a nominal Republican. His independence was incompatible with party regularity. While classing himself as a Republican he did not hesitate to oppose Republican measures that he deemed wrong or to support Democratic or Progressive measures that he deemed right.

A mighty voice in every political campaign and one that every candidate wanted to have lifted in his support, Borah gave Republican campaign managers their worst headaches. They could never depend upon him to stand on the platform or to support the candidate without qualification.

Admirer of Theodore Roosevelt.

At the outset of his political career in 1896 Borah supported William Jennings Bryan because Bryan and the Democratic party stood for the free coinage of silver. He proclaimed himself a Republican and said he could not leave his party but suggested that McKinley be read out of the party and urged Idahoans to stand by silver and Bryan. In 1900 he stumped for McKinley, explaining that he was still loyal to free silver but realized it could not be attained thru Dick Croker and Bryan.

The nomination of Theodore Roosevelt to succeed himself in 1904 claimed unwavering support by Borah, for he knew and admired the President. Four years later he stood unequivocally for the election of Taft but by 1912 he had broken with the President, chiefly on the question of the tariff, and enlisted with Theodore Roosevelt in his attempt to win the nomination.

In the convention he was one of the most eloquent advocates of the nomination of Roosevelt. A candidate for reëlection himself, Borah in the election campaign held aloof from both factions on the question of the presidency. He explained he could not support Roosevelt because Roosevelt had bolted, and he could not support Taft because his nomination was fraudulently obtained.

Borah played an important rôle in healing the breach in the party in 1916 and supported Hughes wholeheartedly. In 1920 Borah favored Hiram Johnson for the nomination, but got in line for Harding eventually when, after some wobbling, Harding declared for rejection of the league of nations covenant in the Versailles treaty. Borah was sickened by the scandals of the Harding administration, but when Coolidge took the oath and proceeded to clean house he took new courage.

SPURNS VICE PRESIDENCY

Declined to Accept Place on Ticket with Coolidge

There was much discussion of Borah for Coolidge's running mate as the Republican convention of 1924 approached. Coolidge himself called Borah to the White House and asked him to "take a place on the ticket."

"Which place?" countered Borah with a grin that denoted his complete lack of interest in the vice presidency in which, as he expressed it, he would "sit mute for four years." Moreover, he had no desire to "become President by accident."

The 1924 election campaign revealed Borah once more sitting on the fence. He admired Coolidge's stand on economy but because of his lack of enthusiasm for the Republican administration generally he would not take the stump for reëlection of the President. He evinced great sympathy for Robert M. La Follette, Progressive party candidate for President, but could not embrace that party's proposal that the courts be deprived of the power to invalidate acts of congress.

For, Then Against Hoover.

It was Herbert Hoover in 1928 who elicited from Borah the greatest measure of enthusiasm the senator ever brought to the making of a President with the possible exception of T. R. in 1904. There was no question of his party loyalty in 1928. Fact was that no man did more than Borah to nominate and elect Hoover.

He picked Hoover from the field of candidates because he believed Hoover saw eye to eye with him on the solution of the farm problem and because Hoover stood for the retention and enforcement of the prohibition amendment. Tho Hoover might betray a softness toward the league of nations and the world court, Borah relied upon the senate to bulwark the country from harm from that quarter.

On such presentation of the case for Hoover, Borah was largely instrumental in making the west safe for the Republican ticket. He obtained from the candidate a pledge to call an extraordinary session of congress to enact farm relief legislation.

After the election President-elect Hoover made a gesture of appreciation of Borah's services in the campaign. He offered Borah the post of secretary of state but he did it in such a way that the senator was convinced that Mr. Hoover actually preferred another. Borah turned down the proffer, explaining afterward that he knew he sould not have held the position more than a month or two, because of the likelihood of his disagreement with administration policies. As it turned out, it was less than two months after the inauguration that Borah broke with Hoover over farm relief.

The senator espoused the export debenture plan which was unacceptable to the President. Borah also contended that Mr. Hoover was obligated by his campaign pledge to revise the tariff in the interest of agriculture, raising duties on farm products and lowering duties on commodities consumed by farmers, whereas the Hoover tariff program when it materialized was found to envisage an upping of all duties. The breach widened over other issues and the two men became bitter enemies.

Disapproves Both Platforms.

In 1932 Borah refused to support either party because he disapproved both the Republican and Democratic platform planks on the prohibition issue. The only difference between them, said the senator, was that the Democratic directly and the Republican indirectly proposed repeal of the 18th amendment. He took no part in the campaign but cast his vote for Hoover.

After the Democratic gains in the 1934 congressional election the senator asserted that the salvation of the Republican party could be achieved only by the elimination from the party organization of the reactionary leaders who, he said, could offer starving people only reverence for the constitution.

During the next two years he held to that line of attack and finally, the better to implement his cause, he became a candidate for the Republican nomination for President in 1936. He never took seriously the chance of winning the nomination. What he hoped to do was to checkmate the schemes of the Old Guard leaders and influence the selection of a liberal candidate.

Worked on 1936 Platform.

The senator made a vigorous canvass and succeeded in mobilizing the liberal forces in the party to a remarkable degree but his effort resulted tangibly in the election of only 19 Borah delegates. With the nomination of Alfred M. Landon inevitable, Borah devoted his energies at the Cleveland convention chiefly to the formulation of the platform.

He was satisfied with the platform but took profound exception to Landon's interpretation thereof, particularly the nominee's pronouncement for a return to the gold standard. Nor did Landon commend himself to the senator by his campaign speeches. The upshot was another election in which Borah held himself aloof and silent.

Why Borah was never a serious candidate for the presidency has puzzled many students of his career. Unlike his paradigm, Webster, he rose to great eminence in affairs of state without falling a prey to the ambition to be President. I once asked him his explanation of the phenomenon.

Never Sought Presidency.

"I suppose it's because of something fundamental in my make-up," the senator replied. "When I came to the senate I closed my law office and took the people as my client. I have felt all these years that I could serve no other client. If I were nominated for President by my party I should have to take the party as my client.

"I could not conscientiously serve that client in all things, for there would be matters in which the party attitude would be contrary to the best interests of the people. I preferred to remain the people's advocate and retain my independence and self respect."

OPENS FIGHT ON LEAGUE

Opposes Wilson on Issue and Wins Converts

While President Wilson was in Paris formulating the league of nations covenant there came the first rumblings of Borah's intransigency to the plan to enforce peace by collective action of nations. In the senate on Dec. 5, 1918, the senator said that the notion of a league which would deny a nation its right to make its own righteous decision and enforce its own just judgments was abhorrent to him.

On Feb. 15, 1919, he wrote THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE:

"Your inspiring cartoon of the 12th tells the whole story. It is a league to promote internationalism. THE TRIBUNE was never greater than in these days."

At that time the Republican leaders were wary of outright opposition to the league, fearing that Mr. Wilson had public opinion with him. When Borah told Senator Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, that he had been invited to speak in Boston, the New England Brahman expostulated:

"You must not do that. Wilson was just in Boston and he was given a great ovation. The people up there are all for the league. If you go, they will pack your audience with proleague people and heckle you. The results will be terrible."

Borah only laughed and accepted the invitation. Gov. Calvin Coolidge declined to preside at the Boston meeting. Borah spoke, overcoming some incipient heckling and finally carrying his audience with him to demonstrations of great opposition to the league. Thus encouraged, he made speeches in many other cities rousing sentiment against the league.

Finally the drafting of the league covenant was completed in Paris, but President Wilson forbade its publication pending the signing of the peace treaty. Early in June Borah told the senate he was reliably informed that Wall street had copies of the peace treaty and protested against Mr. Wilson's withholding of the text of the covenant from the senate. He said he expected to be able to get one of the copies available in Wall street and to present it to the senate within a few days.

Get's Tribune's Treaty Copy.

The senator failed to get the treaty from Wall street, if one existed there, but he did receive it from an unexpected source. While he was addressing the senate a Chicago Tribune staff man was nearing American shores bringing a copy of the treaty. Spearman Lewis of THE TRIBUNE'S Paris staff had obtained the treaty from a non-American delegate to the peace conference.

Frazier Hunt, another member of the Tribune staff, was sailing the next day for the United States. He was intrusted with the treaty and brought it to Chicago. The editor of THE TRIBUNE then dispatched Hunt to Washington with the treaty for presentation to the senate concurrently with publication of the text by THE TRIBUNE.

Hunt arrived in Washington with the treaty on a Sunday morning. I immediately communicated with Senator Lodge and arranged to take the document to his house that afternoon. When Hunt and I arrived we found Senators Borah and Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut with Senator Lodge. We formally delivered the treaty to Senator Lodge, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, and he informed Borah that he should have the privilege of presenting it to the senate the following day.

GETS TREATY FROM TRIBUNE

Causes Sensation When He Presents Pact to Senate

Borah was delighted beyond words and wanted to carry it home with him at once. We explained that we wished to "borrow" the treaty over night in order to wire the text to THE TRIBUNE. Borah insisted that the treaty should be presented to the senate before its publication.

THE TRIBUNE wished to publish the text on Monday morning, six hours before it could be laid before the senate. Borah yielded the point only when Senator Lodge pointedly remarked that "after all, THE TRIBUNE may be forgiven wanting some of the glory of its own achievement."

So Borah handed back the treaty temporarily. We took it to THE TRIBUNE bureau, engaged a dozen telegraph wires and telegraphed 25,000 of the 80,000 words of the text, including the league covenant in full. Then Hunt on the following morning carried the treaty to the senate and turned it over to Borah.

When Borah rose in the senate holding the treaty he created a sensation. The Democratic minority protested in vain against the unprecedented proceeding of entering a treaty in the record of the senate before being formally submitted by the executive. But it was done. Not till July 10 was the text officially received from Mr. Wilson.

Starts Fight on Treaty.

Then the battle began in earnest with the senate divided into three groups: Those favoring the league covenant as submitted, those favoring its acceptance with qualifying reservations, and the irreconcilables, led by Borah, who advocated unqualified rejection of the whole treaty. Borah stumped the midwest to counteract the effect of Mr. Wilson's tour.

In the latter part of November as the senate approached its vote on the reservations Borah made the speech that is universally regarded one of the senate's oratorical masterpieces. He used neither manuscript nor notes but he spoke from a mind full of his subject. Almost every senator was in his place. The galleries were jammed. House members occupied standing room on the floor.

In a solemn hush the senator delivered this most frequently quoted passage of his speech:

"Sir, since the debate opened months ago those of us who have stood against this proposition have been taunted many times with being little Americans. Leave us the word American, keep that in your presumptuous impeachment, and no taunt can disturb us, no jibe discompose our purposes. Call us little Americans, if you will, but leave us the consolation and the pride which the term American, however modified, still imparts.

"Take away that term and though you should coin in telling phrase your highest eulogy we would hurl it back as common slander. We have been ridiculed because, forsooth, of our limited vision. Possibly that charge may be true. Who is there here who can judge the future? Time, and time alone, unerring and remorseless, will give us each our proper place in the affections of our countrymen and in the esteem and commendation of those who are to come after us.

Battle for Independence.

"We neither fear nor court her favor. But if our vision has been circumscribed it has at all times within its compass been clear and steady. We have sought nothing save the tranquility of our own people and the honor and independence of our own republic. No foreign flattery, no possible world glory and power have disturbed our poise.

"If we have erred we have erred out of too much love for those things which from childhood you and we together were taught to revere—yes, to defend even at the cost of limb and life. If we have erred it is because we have placed too high an estimate upon the wisdom of Washington and Jefferson, too exalted an opinion upon the patriotism of the sainted Lincoln. And blame us not therefore if we have, in our limited vision, seemed sometimes bitter and at all times uncompromising, for the things for which we have spoken, feebly spoken, the things which we have endeavored to defend have been the things for which your fathers and our fathers were willing to die."

Senator Lodge was in tears. "When I find myself in tears," he said afterward, "I know I am listening to a great speech. Vice President Marshall scribbled a note to Borah: "May a mummy say that you almost galvanized him to life."

Treaty Finally Beaten.

The treaty was beaten by the combination of the irreconcilables, who wanted no league at all, and the administration Democrats who expressed President Wilson's refusal to accept any reservations at all.

While Borah rejected the league scheme to preserve peace by force, he favored another international approach to the banishment of war. That was thru international agreement to disarm. He had stood for a big navy and a little army in 1916, but after the war he opposed Secretary of the Navy Daniels' naval expansion program.

In 1920 he began agitating for an agreement by the three leading naval powers, the United States, Great Britain, and Japan, to halt naval competition. He introduced a resolution in the senate Dec. 14 requesting the President to call a conference of the three powers to reduce their navy building programs 50 per cent.

Proposes Naval Conference.

The senate approved the resolution, but it did not become law because it had been attached as an amendment to the big navy bill which Borah himself was largely instrumental in defeating. In the following extraordinary session of congress the Borah proposal was adopted despite opposition by President Harding.

The President yielded and called the conference as a result of public pressure at home for the Borah plan and of the desires of the British government to check the American navy building program, which would have ended British sea supremacy, and to find a plausible pretext for terminating the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which had become unpopular in the British dominions and suspect to Americans.

Borah conceived the conference, but was not appointed to the American delegation. He approved in the main the reduction of armament agreed on, but denounced the four power pact to preserve peace in the Pacific as just another alliance, resembling the "association of nations" favored by Harding.

Foreign Relations Chairman.

Upon the death of Lodge in December, 1924, Senator Borah became chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee, the most powerful official position it was his destiny to occupy. For more than nine years in that place he exercised an influence that shaped American foreign policies and molded world events.

When Borah became chairman Charles Evans Hughes was secretary of state. They had clashed before in the formulation of foreign policies and now it became apparent that Washington could not long contain two such dynamic and divergent intellects directed to the same task. It was Hughes who gave way, announcing his resignation barely a month after Borah took over the foreign relations committee.

During his chairmanship there took place the first battle over the world court. Borah fought the court, tho our adherence was urged by both Presidents Coolidge and Hoover. He argued that the court was a political instrumentality of the league of nations thru which the United States would become entangled in European affairs. He failed to defeat adherence, but a reservation attached by the senate at the instance of Borah forbidding the court to render an advisory opinion pertaining to the United States without our consent was unacceptable to the league powers and caused abandonment of the project.

When President Roosevelt revived the issue in 1935 Borah, no longer chairman of the committee, again led the fight and this time won it. The vote for adherence was seven votes short of the two-thirds necessary to ratification.

An outstanding event of Borah's chairmanship was the development of the Pact of Paris to outlaw war. Originator of the conception of outlawry of war was a Chicago lawyer, S. O. Levinson, who interested Borah in the plan in the early twenties. Borah on Feb. 14, 1923, introduced a resolution that war be outlawed as a means of settling disputes between nations.

In the early part of 1927 Levinson and Prof. James T. Shotwell enlisted the interest of the French premier, Aristide Briand, who announced that France stood ready to conclude an agreement with the United States to outlaw war in the settlement of differences between them. Senator Borah proposed instead of a bilateral treaty a multilateral treaty by all nations to renounce war. At his instance the foreign relations committee urged Secretary of State Kellogg to make that suggestion in his reply to Briand. The eventual result was the Kellogg-Briand pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy signed Aug. 27, 1928, by 63 nations.

BACKS NEW DEAL AT START

Balks at Bills Being Rushed Thru Congress

Senator Borah approached the New Deal with the feeling that his own party had been found wanting in the statesmanship required to stay the ravages of the depression and succor the unemployed and the debt ridden. The people, he believed, had turned to Mr. Roosevelt because he was offering a program to do these things, while the Republicans had nothing to offer that had not been tried before unsuccessfully.

He was prepared to support the New Deal to the full extent possible without compromising with his settled convictions on the principles of democratic government. He approved the Thomas "inflation" amendment, tho objecting to the delegation to the President of power to devalue the dollar. He heartily espoused the legislation to purchase and monetize silver and he voted to cancel the gold clause in contracts. He was strongly in favor of a managed currency.

But the tendency of the New Deal toward authoritarian government frequently drove him into vigorous opposition to the President's recovery measures. He could not brook the manner in which the first legislation of the administration, the banking bill, was jammed thru the senate in 40 minutes with the members ignorant of its contents and he voted against it.

He applauded the President's plan for refinancing farm mortgages, but opposed the project to improve the condition of the farmers thru limitation of farm production and voted against final passage of the agricultural adjustment bill because of the elimination of a provision for guaranteeing farmers cost of production.

He fought the bill to establish the National Recovery administration because of its exemption of the codes from the antitrust laws and its delegation of arbitrary powers to the administrator. He procured the acceptance of an amendment prohibiting price fixing or other monopolistic practices and voted for the bill when it was passed by the senate. But the bill came back from the conference committee with his amendment emasculated, so he voted against the measure on final passage.

His warnings of price fixing were fulfilled by the operation of the codes whereupon the senator embarked upon a campaign of exposure of the NRA for promoting monopoly to the detriment of small business and of consumers generally. His attitude was vindicated by the invalidation of the act by the Supreme court.

Denounces Tariff Legislation.

The senator also denounced the Hull reciprocal tariff legislation as another manifestation of the New Deal's tendency to dictatorship. This act delegated to the executive the power to make tariff treaties without ratification by the senate.

It was the aspect of dictatorship and of attempted circumvention of the constitution by sharp practice and specious artifice that aroused every drop of Borah's fighting blood against President Roosevelt's undertaking to pack the Supreme court with justices amenable to the executive. He had long suspected that the President planned to redress the Supreme court's invalidation of New Deal legislation.

The President in his famous "horse and buggy" fling at the court following the NRA decision had hinted at possible steps to curb the court. At about the same time the President, fortifying himself with a bit of scrambled English history, had confided to Paul Block, the publisher, that he was considering steps to pack the court in favor of the New Deal as Gladstone had packed the house of lords in favor of Irish home rule by the creation of additional peers.

Borah always denied knowledge of the President's disclosure to Block, denied that he knew any more of Mr. Roosevelt's plans than did the public at large. But the President could never be convinced that the senator did not have advance knowledge in January, 1937, of the imminent project to insure decisions favorable to the New Deal by increasing the membership of the court to a maximum of 15.

On Feb. 1 when the President was maturing his plan and expected to spring it on the country within a few weeks, Senator Borah made a radio speech in which he defended the court from the attacks made upon it by Mr. Roosevelt and other New Dealers for holding New Deal laws unconstitutional.

It was one of the most scholarly and forceful speeches Borah ever made. He warned against attempts to curb the court and argued that the constitutional course would be to submit to the people in the form of constitutional amendments the question of the extension of the federal power. To lay unholy hands upon the court would be to strike a blow at the root of the tree of our liberties, the senator warned.

Address Creates Consternation.

The Borah speech created consternation at the White House. The President instructed Attorney General Homer Cummings to hasten his preparation of the bill to pack the court. Mr. Roosevelt felt that his hand had been forced by Borah, for the popular reaction to the Borah speech might create a public atmosphere hostile to the court packing scheme. He told the attorney general that the project must be launched at once before the Borah speech could have time to sink into the public consciousness.

A few nights later at the judiciary dinner at the White House to which the senator was invited as a member of the senate judiciary committee the President was exceedingly frosty to Borah. Altho Mr. Roosevelt theretofore always had greeted Borah with a hearty "Hello, Bill," on this occasion his countenance froze and he passed the senator on with a curt nod and a flabby handshake.

Some months later when the two men met in private the President remarked that he would like to know how Borah got advance information of the court packing undertaking. The senator could not convince Mr. Roosevelt that he merely suspected what was in the wind. The President grimly added that he would find out some time who had leaked.

COURT PACKERS DEFEATED

Speech Attacking Plan Opens Senate Battle

The attorney general speeded up his preparation of the bill and the President transmitted it to congress on Feb. 5 with a message attempting to rationalize the scheme as a measure to remedy judicial inefficiency caused by superannuated judges. Borah recognized the measure instantly as a move to bring the court under the domination of the executive. Pronouncing it a bold step toward dictatorship, the senator set to work to defeat it.

He called a conference of Republican leaders in his office to plan the fight. Among those attending were Senators Charles L. McNary of Oregon, minority leader of the senate, and Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. Borah took the position from the start that it would be foolhardy for the Republicans to assume the leadership in this mighty struggle with the President over the sanctity of the constitution.

The Republicans in the senate [17] were so few that it would be necessary to win a large number of Democratic votes to defeat the bill. But a Republican attack upon the President's project would take on a partisan aspect and tend to solidify the Democrats in defense of their party chief.

Pick Wheeler for Leader.

The other conferees agreed with Borah that the Republicans must remain in the background and let dissident Democrats lead the fight. A day or two later Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] happened to confide to Borah his intense opposition to the court packing bill. Because of Wheeler's standing as a liberal Democrat, his resourcefulness and vigorous forthrightness Borah's instant reaction was that the ideal leader of the fight had been found. Wheeler accepted the undertaking and went into action with Borah behind the scenes planning the strategy and furnishing ammunition.

Thruout the battle the rebellious Democrats held the firing line. Borah was prepared to make an extended speech in the senate against the bill if necessary, but it was not. The bill was beaten before it became necessary to bring up the heaviest artillery.

Under Fire as Inconsistent.

Borah often was attacked on the score of inconstancy to a cause and inconsistency. The example most frequently cited was his attitude on woman suffrage and national prohibition. In 1910 he introduced a resolution for an amendment of the constitution to forbid disfranchisement of any American on account of sex. Four years later he declared against woman suffrage by constitutional amendment, explaining that he favored the enfranchisement of women by states. He was opposed to forcing Negro woman suffrage on the southern states and thereby repeating the blunder of the 15th amendment, which forced Negro male suffrage on those states against their will.

Then in 1918 he was asked to explain why he favored the 18th amendment, which forced national prohibition on some states against their will. The senator defended his consistency with the argument that a state could have woman suffrage without the national amendment whereas, because of the ease of procuring liquor from other states, no state could be dry without national prohibition.

IDAHO WONDERS WHO WILL BE GIVEN POST LEFT BY SEN. BORAH

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 19 (AP).—Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, long time friend of the late Senator William E. Borah, whose task it is to name a successor to the late Idaho senator, said tonight he would make no statements until after the funeral.

Political observers said there were these possibilities:

Gov. Bottolfsen, following the precedent of other governors, might appoint Mrs. Borah. He might resign and have Lieut. Gov. Donald Whitehead name him to the post; he might appoint Donald A. Callahan, Republican nominee in 1938 who was defeated by Senator D. Worth Clark, a Democrat; he might name Republican State Chairman Thomas Heath, or Ezra Whitla, national committeeman.

An appointee to succeed Borah would hold office only until January, 1941, less than a year. Voters at the 1940 election will name a successor to serve the balance of Borah's term, expiring in 1943.

Knitted "Jiffy" Jacket

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

This clever hand knitted jacket is knitted with large needles and is on the order of a jiffy sweater. Buttoned down the front and slightly fitted at the waist, it is ideal for wear with a street suit or with a ski outfit for sports. The ultra ambitious knitter may embroider gay, colored flowers down the front and dispense with the pockets.

For instructions in knitting the jiffy jacket, No. X-353, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Love's Labor Lost.

Remember Cinderella house, the little frame structure on North State street the Hudson Players had patiently transformed into rehearsal hall and dormitory with weeks of hard work? Early on the morning of Jan. 18 flames destroyed the house. "Fire of undetermined origin" is the formal dismissal of the disaster.

After a pajama-ed exit thru choking rose black smoke the four residents of the house stood in the zero cold watching the flames consume it and then found themselves in a neighborhood tavern, the only place open, with the radio, ironically, blaring forth Smoke Gets in Your Eyes.

• • •

Miss Ruth Stein, one of the four members of the Hudson Players living in the house, goes on with the story:

"But to moments of thanksgiving, and there were many of those: thanks that the trusty Dobermann was at our sides; that costumes for the coming week-end's production, The Warrior's Husband, had been taken to Forester's hall two days ahead of schedule, and that in true theater tradition the show would go on; thanks that we were not under the charred blankets, and that people are friendlier than those in distress expect."

Speaking of the theater—tall, lean John Huston and his pretty wife, Leslie, went thru town the other day on their way to New York, where Huston will direct the new play his father, Walter Huston, will appear in, A Passenger to Bali. The author, Ellis St. Joseph, was with them, an art lover, evidently, for he asked Mrs. Loyal Davis to send on to him copies of an Altdorfer and a Greco hanging in the Art institute.

We find the view of the ice-islanded lake beyond the pink blanket cover pleasant enough, and books and the terriers excellent company. Besides, the telephone rings frequently, and in-between sips of orange juice and sniffs from the steam kettle we keep in touch with what is going on. A famous actor telephones to ask us to a private preview of Of Mice and Men; a friend asks us to come in to tea to meet Julian Huxley, who is lecturing hereabouts; another to tell us about the snake Dr. Calvin Wells McEwan of the Oriental institute has had named after him.

It was a reptile Dr. McEwan and his Arab workmen encountered while they were digging in Syria in 1936—a wicked looking reptile five feet long and black as your hat. Dr. McEwan, who had been asked by a Field museum official to collect anything that looked odd, injected formaldehyde into the creature while the Arabs held it, and eventually brought it back to Chicago with him. Karl P. Schmidt, curator of amphibians and reptiles at the Field museum, found it a hitherto unknown species and dubbed it tarbophis fallax mcewani.

Great Portrait Leads Show of Chicago Society

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The 51st annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture by the Chicago Society of Artists opens today in the America Fore gallery, 830 Rush street, to continue to Feb. 17.

The Chicago Society of Artists is made up of modern painters who, in this particular show, are neither radical nor Red. They are not even parlor pink. On the contrary the present exhibit is mild in nature with a fair amount of pleasant painting to counteract the ugly.

This 51st annual could be passed with just a comment were it not for the presence of the most exquisite portrait of the year. Frances Foy has painted a young girl in a red sweater with a black skirt and narrow black straps passing over her shoulders. The girl is seated and we see her side face and a shock of brown hair.

In words the painting conveys practically nothing tho the picture is alive with significance—here are youth, charm, dreams, repose, hope of adventure, a thousand thoughts. Who can read the heart and mind of seventeen? Miss Foy has done a great thing, painted a great picture, and done it so gently and so sweetly you scarcely recognize its power as you stand before it.

Not the least of its charm is found in the low key of her color; the girlish figure is set against a background of cool, subtle gray. Note the warmth of the brown in the hair, the texture of the flesh—this is one of those pictures of which we see too few. It is a gem.

Tunis Ponsen lends vitality and color to the show with "An Old Town." Emil Armin is cheerful in his "Hill, Road, and Rocks." The small, smooth, and clear "Montrose Breakwater" by Donald Mundt is a delightful canvas.

Edmund Eppig, Nephew of Cardinal Mundelein, Weds

Edmund C. Eppig, 25 years old, nephew of the late Cardinal Mundelein, was married yesterday at Reno, Nev., to Miss Pauline W. Ganshirt, 20, of San José, Cal. The marriage was performed by District Judge Edgar Eather. Eppig is the son of Mrs. Margaret Eppig, 6939 Oglesby avenue, Cardinal Mundelein's sister. Eppig was attending school at Los Angeles, Cal.

Boyntons Will Visit Browere Mask Exhibit

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD S. BOYNTON expect to go to New York for the opening on Feb. 12 of a collection of "Life Masks of American Patriots," by John H. I. Browere, early American sculptor. The artist is an ancestor of Mr. Boynton, who has arranged the exhibit.

The Browere collection, until its discovery in recent years, lay ignored in barns and attics of descendants. For many years the masks were in the possession of Alburtis Wright in Evanston, a great-grandson of Browere. Then they passed into the hands of the late Mrs. Charles T. Boynton of Highland Park, who loaned them to A Century of Progress in 1934. Donald Boynton is her son.

Everett L. Millard Jr., who is Mr. Boynton's nephew, has been engaged in research on the collection's history for the last few years, a job that has kept him more in the east than at home. Lately he has been practically living in the Knoedler galleries, where the exhibit is to be shown.

May Show Paintings of Sculptor's Son.

Such interest has arisen lately in this sculptor, whose inventive talents made him one of the masters of the old life mask technique, that the galleries are considering adding the paintings of his son, A. D. O. Browere, to the exhibit. If the plan goes thru, Donald Boynton and his sister, the senior Mrs. Millard, who has picked up several of the younger Browere's works, will forward some of their paintings.

The younger Browere, who lived in Catskill, N. Y., took part in the California gold rush and sailed once or twice around Cape Horn, painting as he went.

In 1825 the elder Browere's cast from the face of Gen. Lafayette on the revolutionary hero's last visit to America won universal praise and rewarded the sculptor with such famous subjects as Jefferson, Clay, James and Dolly Madison, John Quincy Adams, and Gilbert Stuart, among others. The artist transformed the casts into full portrait busts. These original busts have been on view in the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry. The exhibit will continue in New York thru Feb. 24. It is being sponsored by the New York State Historical association.

Mrs. Charles Garfield King Wins Needlework Award.

Mrs. Charles Garfield King was awarded first prize in the map division of the fifth annual exhibition of Amateur Needlework of Today, now on view at W. & J. Sloane's, in New York.

A portfolio lent by Edward Johnson, manager of the Metropolitan Opera company, is of interest to Chicagoans, for it was executed by Mrs. Charles E. Maxwell Jr. of Evanston. Beginning with the figure of a choir boy, the design shows the former Metropolitan tenor in several of his best known opera rôles. The proceeds of the show go to the New York Association for the Blind, lighthouse No. 1.

Charles Sciple to Wed Mrs. Madeleine Chase.

Charles Murphy Sciple Jr. and Mrs. Madeleine Ehrheart Chase will be married next Friday afternoon.

The news of their approaching marriage has come from Mrs. Chase's mother, Mrs. Dillon Ehrheart of Cincinnati, formerly of Detroit. The wedding is to take place either in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church or in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Swigart Jr., 900 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Adam Warner Beidler of the Drake hotel, grandmother of Mr. Sciple, will give a dinner on the eve of the ceremony.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Sciple will come from Atlanta, Ga., for the wedding. Their marriage took place in the ballroom of the old Virginia hotel here 25 years ago this month.

Mrs. Ehrheart also is coming for the wedding, and perhaps the bridegroom's sister, the former Louise Sciple, and her husband, Jay Glenn Powers, will be here. They just have returned from their honeymoon and are busy settling a house in Atlanta.

Mr. Sciple and his bride will make their home on the near north side. Mrs. Chase has been living here for several years, and her two little daughters, Madeleine and Sarah, attend the University School for Girls.

Next week will be a busy one for Mrs. Swigart, for she is giving a tea on Thursday afternoon for her mother, Mrs. Lester A. Robison, and for Miss Jean Keith is engaged to Philip Truman Shahan, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Ewing Shahan of St. Louis. Miss Keith, daughter of Mrs. Duncan Keith of Evanston, will be graduated from Connecticut college in June. Mr. Shahan, a Harvard graduate, is a student at the Washington university school of medicine. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Caroline Buck Will Be Bride Tonight

Several out of town guests are in Chicago for the marriage today of Miss Caroline Buck to Frederick D. Sauter. The ceremony will be performed at 8:30 o'clock this evening by the Rev. Herbert L. Willett at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Buck, in Evanston.

Miss Buck's bridal veil, of rosepoint Brussels lace, was worn by her grandmother and two sisters, Mrs. Winthrop M. Robinson and Mrs. John W. Taylor Jr. The lace which trims the gown was worn by these three and by Mrs. Buck, too.

Mrs. Robinson will be the matron of honor. Mrs. Richard Cragg, Miss Marian Klink, and Miss Jane Hoover will be bridesmaids. Little Rena Constance Taylor, the bride's 2 year old niece, will be flower girl, and 5 year old Jack Robinson will be ring bearer.

Allen Sauter will be his brother's best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Sauter of Chicago. The ushers will be Homer Dixon Jr., Charles Dering, Barton Cameron, Thomas Beers, Robert Upham Jr., and Thomas Werbe of Indianapolis.

After a two week wedding trip to a ranch in Arizona Mr. Sauter and his bride will be at home in Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barnes of Evanston are in Akron, O., for the marriage today of Miss Helen Louise Tomkinson to McMillan Robinson, Mrs. Barnes' son. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Tomkinson.

Chicagoans who will be in the bridal party are Mr. Barnes, as best man, and the bridegroom's brother, Dudley Robinson; Pierre Bouscaren, and E. David Coolidge, who will usher.

Miss Cornelia Lee Ricketts of Chicago will become the bride of John Allan Long of Saluda, N. C., this evening at Key West, Fla. Miss Ricketts is the daughter of Mrs. Robb Roy Ricketts and the late Mr. Ricketts. Mr. Long and his bride will make their home in Key West.

White Lingerie Blouses Wear Discreet Trim

BY REA SEEGER.

Crisp white lingerie blouses tagged with amazingly low price marks make the shops and stores look like a blizzard. For about three dollars you can get the most provocatively feminine concoction of batistes and fine val lace that ever charmed an appraising male critic.

These new arrivals are discreetly trimmed, but are still good frothy contrast for tailored suits. The tucks and insertion are beautifully worked into the fine white cotton. Some have prim little round collars, some have buttons marching down the front, some have front tie belt-bands, all have short, easy to wear sleeves.

A lot of these white blouses are rather fancifully designed, especially those of the thin batiste. There are some charmers in heavy white novelty silk material trimmed with colored fagoted edges or with tiny flowers embroidered in colors. These, too, are good top-frosting for dark colored suits. The handwork is particularly fine and smooth, the fagoting fresh and appealing in daintiness and color. The material is soft dull white, and you can choose from red or deep blue or white fagoting.

Blind Business People to Honor Benefactor Tonight

Forty blind business people and their families will give a dinner-dance tonight at Lawndale hall, 3437 Ogden avenue, honoring George E. Piper, 7806 Rhodes avenue. Piper, placement officer for the Illinois blind welfare department, and himself blind, has devoted his efforts to helping these blind persons establish themselves in business.

A good business day. Those born on the 2d or 20th make better followers than leaders, so this power year of their cycle may cause some anxiety because they will have to make decisions and take charge more than they ordinarily do. This should be a big year for them if they take advantage of the opportunities offered during the year, but if they "muff" things with the indecision which sometimes bests these dual 2's, it may prove disastrous financially.

Notes:

Hold your hats, girls. One of the newest colors in lipstick, nail enamel, and fabric is "Hot Pink!" It has just arrived in town after a splashy première in New York. We haven't tried it yet. It looks lovely, but there's something about that name that gives us the giggles.

And cross our heart and hope to die if another new lipstick with an amazing name didn't tumble in as this was being written. This one is "Censored Red!" If only the people who name Pullman cars had the imagination of the cosmeticians.

A woman who has made the consistent, clever use of lavender one of her unforgettable characteristics says she chose lavender because it made her feel "pounds lighter." It's one of the best reasons we ever heard for choosing and using a scent.

The perfume that does the most for your own spirits is the completely satisfying one to use. And there IS something about lavender, come to think of it, that is fastidious and fascinating at the same time.

Which reminds us that a famous levender extract—true, exhilarating, and beautiful—is now being seen about in a new dress. The quaint container that identified it for so many years has given way to streamlining. There are three new presentations. Two are dramatically modern decanters, the third resembles the pinch bottle of old, but with a modern swish. All three are decorative and, for our money, the contents couldn't be surpassed.

Nowadays you "hang your clothes on a hickory limb"—and take your sun capsule out of your beach bag! When you get to the beach you prick the capsule and out rolls enough oil to anoint your frame generously. Instead of toting a bottle that gets all oily and sandy you tote one capsule, which you throw away when you've finished oiling yourself. ELEANOR NANGLE.

If you have Italian linen place mats, runners and napkins you know that after a few launderings they fade, losing that lovely deep beige tone that is their main attraction. Dipping them in a strong coffee solution will color them, but not with their original tone.

There is an excellent dye on the market that is easy to use and that does bring back the original tint to Italian linen. Use it for bedspreads and curtains, too, if you wish. Ask for this special in ecru and buy it by the dozen packets. It will last a long time.

Good Morning!

This is one of those hokumy pictures that you can't help cottoning to for the reason that it's so mighty well done by everybody concerned—even the fellow who wrote the scenario. He's always popping up with something unexpected in the way of dialog and situation.

By rights "Remember the Night" should have been released during the Christmas holidays, for the action starts just before Christmas and closes shortly after New Year's. Which fact will, of course, in no way interfere with your enjoyment of the piece.

The heroine is a charming shoplifter and the hero an up and coming young district attorney, who, seeing that the jury is in melting Christmas mood and ripe for clemency, wangles a continuance of the case out of the court.

Having got his way he listens to his heart which says the poor girl shouldn't have to spend Christmas behind bars, and secures bail for her. . . . Then, because she hasn't any place to go he offers to take her to her farm home in Indiana, it being on his way to his own boyhood haunts where he always goes to enjoy Christmas with his mother and his Aunt Emma and Willie, the lad of all work. . . .

But things don't come to pass as planned. . . . Lee's mother, married again, does an East Lynne—SO—there's naught for John to do but take the maiden home with him. . . .

Here, welcomed and loved, Lee does some heavy and constructive thinking, and she is strong enough to do what she feels she should even in the face of John's determination that she shall not go back for trial. . . .

There is warmth and sincerity about all the acting. Barbara Stanwyck never looked lovlier and, as Lee, had a rôle which she knew perfectly well what to do with. You'll be strong for Fred MacMurray as John, get a big kick from Willard Robertson's exhibition as the defense attorney—I never dreamed he could be so funny!—and wipe a tear from your eye as Sterling Holloway sings "End of a Perfect Day" in the farmhouse parlor on Christmas eve. . . . Beulah Bondi is adorable as Mrs. Sargent.

Events transpire fast and credibly and are consistently interesting.

See you tomorrow.

Herma Clark to Give Illustrated Lecture on "Notable Nineties"

Herma Clark of The Tribune editorial staff will give an illustrated talk, "Chicago in the Notable Nineties," in Mandel hall, University of Chicago, at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Her appearance is being sponsored by Purse, student magazine.

In connection with her discussion of notable Chicago persons and events in the '90s, Miss Clark will show pictures of Dr. Harper, first president of the university; A. A. Stagg, the Midway's famous football coach; Eugene Field, John L. Sullivan, the heavyweight champion; John T. McCutcheon, George Ade, and others as they appeared at the time.

Concert Guild Dance.

The Chicago Concert and Opera guild will give its first annual Opera ball tomorrow night at the Knickerbocker hotel. There will be an hour's program of opera selections in concert form, directed by Silvio Insana.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Why Hollywood Gets Nervous Stomachs

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 19.—"One hour for lunch. Everybody back on the set in one hour," shouted the assistant director. Ann Sheridan glanced at her watch, noted that 12:05 was indicated, and hurried out the door. She was hungry and had several things she wanted to do—personal telephone calls and such.

"O, Miss Sheridan, Miss Sheridan. May I see you for a second?" some one called just as Ann was walking off the stage.

She stopped, waited.

"I wonder if you'd just step up to the wardrobe department on your way over to the restaurant?" beamed Mary Dery, the little wardrobe woman. "That dress you wear in the night club scene is ready for a fitting and we have to hurry it."

Ann went up, had the fitting. When she left the fitting room her watch read 12:22. She hurried down the studio street to the Green room.

"Hi ya, Annie?" greeted a cheerful voice as she pushed open the door, got the delicious fragrance of food in her nostrils. "Come over to the table a minute. Want you to meet a couple of visiting newspaper men." . . . Ann smilingly went up to the crowded table, stood as the five men around it, the writers and three from the studio press department rose to greet her. It was almost 10 minutes before Ann could get away from the small talk and routine compliments.

She took a small table in the corner of the room, opened her script of "And It All Came True" to study her afternoon scenes, and—

"What'll it be, Miss Sheridan? The chicken with curry and rice and chutney looks mighty tasty today," beamed Rita, the 200 pound waitress who has been there for years.

"Scrambled eggs, some crisp bacon, toast and milk, Rita," said Ann. "And please hurry it up. I'm hungry."

"Call for Ann Sheridan. Call for Ann Sheridan," came a train announcer voice thru a loud speaker near the ceiling. Ann turned her script face down, walked to the phone stand in the corner. The clock on the wall indicated 12:35.

Presently one of the newspaper men spoke to the others at his table:

"That sure must be an important telephone call Ann Sheridan is getting. She's been talking for 12 minutes. I timed her. Wonder what it's about?"

"Anything wrong, dearie?" inquired the buxom Rita when "Oomph" returned to her table.

"No, Rita. Just my agent. He always has a million things to talk about, and always calls at the wrong time."

She glanced at the watch on her wrist. It said 12:48.

"Say, where's my lunch?" she demanded abruptly, as would any other very hungry young lady.

"Have it back in a minute, dearie," Rita assured her. "I was afraid it was getting cold so I took it back. I'll order a nice fresh one for you right away."

Ann's watch read 12:56 when finally her scrambled eggs, bacon and toast arrived. Rita apparently had forgotten all about the milk. She started to eat.

"Will you please sign this menu for my little girl back home?" asked a large, self-assured matron, barging up to Ann's table like the Queen Mary coming to dock. "And this other menu for my little nephew. He's a boy, of course. Tee, hee. And then would you sign your OWN menu, the one there on your table you ordered from personally, for me. The little girl's name is Imogene May, the little boy's name is Gerald—cute name, isn't it—and my name is Mrs. . . ."

Ann's lunch was quite cold when she had finished signing things for the large woman, who had stayed on to chat for a moment. And her watch said 1:05. She started to bolt her food.

"Call for Ann Sheridan. Call for Ann Sheridan," came the voice from the loud speaker.

"See who it is, Rita, and what they want," she begged.

Rita returned in two minutes.

"It's the assistant. He says to tell you it's a darn near 10 after 1 and they're waiting for you on the set."

Hurriedly Ann instructed Rita about sending some sandwiches, milk, anything, out to the stage where her company was working, left a bill to cover her check and raced for the door.

"She's nice, I like her," said the large woman to a fellow visitor from Iowa. "She's not like most of the snooty stars who eat in their own dressing rooms at lunch. She comes out where folks can see her. She's not stuck up that way."

Women Meet to Get Reports on Opera Drive

The cheery fire in the drawing room grate of Mme. Cardelli's Lake Shore drive apartment yesterday afternoon was a delightful aspect of the meeting of the women's committee of the Opera Foundation fund campaign.

Members of the women's committee made reports. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, co-chairman of the women's committee, reported a donation of $400 from Mr. and Mrs. Horace Horton; of $200 each from Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Hopkins and Frank Knox, and of $100 each from Arthur Anderson and Fred A. Preston.

Mrs. Walter Kirk reported a $200 donation from Dr. John Pick and Mme. Marguerite Pick, $50 from Mrs. Harry Clow, $25 from Daniel Peterkin, and $25 anonymous gift.

Mrs. Henry Weber reported a $200 anonymous contribution. The other donations were: Mrs. Max Falk and Harry Blum, $200 each; Mrs. Robert Stuart, $100; Irving Florsheim, $50; Mrs. Richard Stearns, Maurice McGrath, Mrs. Edwin Dewes, and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, $25 each; Mrs. James A. Hirschfield and Mrs. Robert R. Baker, $200 each; Mrs. Marshall L. Brown, $100; and $100 for the North Shore, as reported by Mrs. Hadar Ortman. The total to date is $131,571.

The next meeting will be on Friday at the home of Mrs. Carpenter.

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentiford, fashion artist, is sentenced to 18 months in prison under the name of Clara Brown—unknowingly an accomplice in crime with Rory Clark. Unaware of the disaster, her fiancé, Michael Alloway, is on his way from Malta for the wedding. At Honeyhyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to change places with Cynthia and let Cynthia have her two weeks' leave as a wardress and marry Michael. After a stolen fortnight of happiness, Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to Malta alone, pretending she has to have an operation and will join him later. Back in prison, Cynthia discovers she is going to have a baby but determines not to have it born in prison. Bent on blackmail, Rory Clark gets an interview with her in the guise of her solicitor. After offering to pay him for helping her break prison, Cynthia manages to steal a wardress' uniform and escapes alone. In her flat she finds Michael's sister, Marion, who has been worried by Cynthia's silence. Cynthia explains everything as a lapse of memory.

INSTALMENT XII.

HEADLINES.

Cynthia slept long and luxuriously on the following morning, was up just in time to go to the bank before catching the 11:15. Clarke had apparently not attempted any forgery and she still had nearly twelve hundred pounds to her credit. She drew fifty and the two of them went off to Paddington.

It was Marion who bought a couple of morning newspapers—and it was Marion who was the first to start reading.

"O, I say—your woman in Regent's park must have been an escaped convict!"

Fortunately they had the compartment to themselves. Cynthia opened her paper and saw with mingled feelings that she had become front page news.

Woman Convict's Escape from Honeshyker,
Steals Wardress' Uniform.
Confederate Supplies Rope Ladder.

Astonished, she read the account of the escape, more or less as Rory Clarke had planned it.

"It certainly looks as if it must be my woman, as you call her," said Cynthia. The effort to keep her voice under control was immense.

"But it can't be!" said Marion. "It says in my paper that the escape must have been made between 4 and 6. It wasn't quite 4 o'clock when we were talking in your flat."

"Then I expect the account is wrong," said Cynthia. "There could hardly be two women wandering about, trying desperately to get rid of a wardress' uniform. Wait a minute, there's more about it in the Stop Press.

"'Later examination of the wall suggests that the rope ladder was not used by the escaping convict. More probable she walked out of the prison dressed as a wardress.' That's what really happened, I expect. That makes the times possible."

For a time Marion was silent.

"Don't you think you ought to tell the police what you know?" she suggested.

"Frankly, I don't, dear. It's of no interest to me to have the wretched woman recaptured—not that my information could help them. I'm inclined to wish her luck."

"It says here the woman, who gave the name of Clara Brown at her trial, was convicted in connection with a crime for which the police are still anxious to interview the man named Rory Clarke. That's the man Michael and George were at school with. Isn't it extraordinary! I mean, it's an extraordinary coincidence that this particular woman should have attacked you, Michael's wife. Didn't you say she was a big, tough sort of woman?"

"Yes. I wouldn't have liked a scrap with her."

"Well, then, it can't be the same. There's a description here of her. It says she's of medium height, slender, and very good looking."

Awkward again! The great thing was to show no particular excitement.

"I expect they always say women criminals are pretty, just as they always say men criminals are clever," she opined.

Cynthia would not herself change the subject. She thought Marion was going to say something more. She turned the page of her paper and a welcome silence followed.

They lunched in the dining car. When they were back in their compartment, Cynthia picked up Marion's paper. There was the front page with substantially the same account. She turned over and then started at sight of a picture of herself.

It was a stark affair, showing full face and profile, with the aid of a mirror, like all prison photographs. She was frowning and that helped further to distort the likeness. But Marion had seen that photograph and had said nothing.

Had she seen the resemblance? Or hadn't she?

. . . . . .

Perhaps the most astonished reader of that morning's newspapers was "the man Rory Clarke." He had carried out his part of the bargain. He had even stretched it by waiting nearly three full dangerous minutes after the chime of 5 o'clock. And nothing had happened.

He had driven off with a shrug. She had failed to get into the yard, he supposed. And by the terms of their compact she owed him 250 pounds. He would pay a second visit to the prison in the rôle of solicitor and collect his fee.

So he had thought overnight.

"Wardress' uniform," he muttered over his newspaper the following morning. "She must have done the same trick over again. Why did she lead me up the garden path?"

That could be settled later. The immediate program was to locate Clara Brown, alias Cynthia Brentiford, alias Mrs. Michael Alloway.

The first and most obvious step was to try at Cotswold Mansions, tho he hardly expected to find her there. There was no answer to his knocking and he did not resort to his former tactics of burglary, but like a respectable citizen sought the porter.

"Well, sir, it seems as if you've just missed her. Miss Brentiford—I should say Mrs. Alloway—was here yesterday, but she packed some things and went off again. I put 'em on a taxi myself."

"Very annoying!" said Clarke and passed over a shilling. "I particularly want to get in touch with her. I suppose you can't help me?"

"She didn't mention where she was going. She's a regular one for running off, but the rent being paid that's nothing to do with me."

"Perhaps she was going to stay with a mutual friend," tried Clarke. "Was any one with her, by any chance?"

"Yes, sir—it was the lady who came to make inquiries, seeing she hadn't heard from her lately and was getting worried."

"Ah, I can guess who that was," said Clarke and gave the name he was himself using. "A Miss Stainham, eh?"

"Don't remember the name, sir, but the lady was Mrs. Alloway's sister-in-law. That means, I suppose, that she was Miss Alloway unless she was married, which I didn't happen to notice."

Clarke nodded pleasantly and departed, having found a good deal of what he was seeking.

"Her sister-in-law! That should be easy. I can find out where the Alloways live."

There were quite a number of Alloways in the telephone directory, and he spent the rest of the morning vainly ringing up all the likely looking ones.

Then he picked up the trail thru Michael Alloway, whom he knew to be a civil engineer. There were two clubs and the Manor, Cloutleigh, North Devon.

"A couple of quid return fare—and worth it," he soliloquized.

It was dark when the two girls arrived at Cloutleigh and were driven in the village car to the Manor. All the same, Cynthia could smell the sea-tangled moorland and again felt free. There had settled on her now a bodily fatigue that was resting her nerves. In a few days she would work out some plan of campaign. For the present she would revel in the peace of it all.

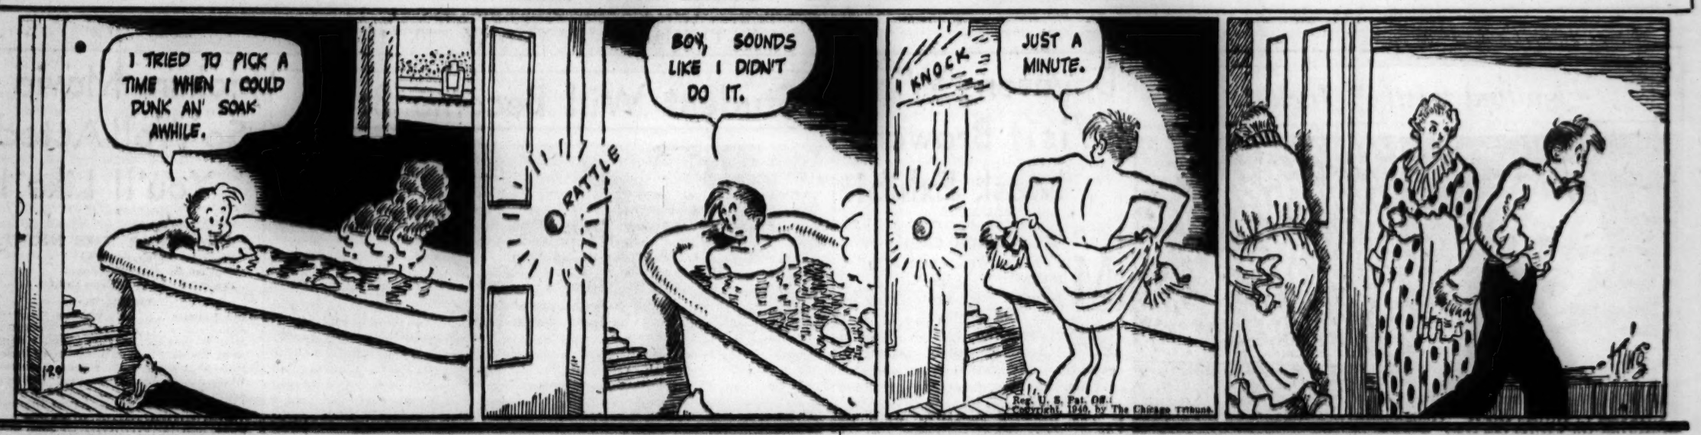
GASOLINE ALLEY—BOARDING HOUSE BATH



A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Graduates Need Clothes.

Mrs. J., a case worker, has requested graduation apparel for two children in a needy colored family. The mother and father are both ill and unable to work, and there are a number of children in the family. The relief agency cannot supply dresses size 16, shoes 7½, for one daughter who is being graduated from high school next week, nor clothing size 34 or shoes 9½ for a boy completing grammar school.

Railway Women.

The Railway Business Woman's association will hold its 14th annual banquet this evening at the Drake hotel. T. J. O'Shaughnessy, assistant in the executive department of the Rock Island lines, will speak, and there will be entertainment and dancing. Miss Bernice Koller is president.

TENDER SKINNED SAUSAGE LINKS: A Chicago packer is making fat pork sausage links and treating them with a spray of fresh pineapple juice to make the casings so tender you scarcely know they're present. You don't taste the pineapple juice, you merely observe its tenderizing effect. The same company recently brought out a frankfurter treated in the same manner. Franks and sausages both are of fine quality meat, and they are tender!

DRIED PARSLEY: Here's parsley in its most convenient form, all chopped, dehydrated, and packed in a handy container. It has kept its fresh green color, and tastes like parsley, which is important. Use it in soups, stews, on potatoes, in salad dressings. When you buy it ask for "chopped parsley flakes."

CONCENTRATED CHICKEN NOODLE SOUP: It comes packed in a five ounce glass tumbler, vacuum sealed. You add the contents of the tumbler to a quart of boiling water, boil five minutes, and you have chicken broth with noodles to serve four persons. It's a good beginning for a company meal. The flavor really is that of chicken, the noodles are the eggy kind, and very slim.

More information about these three new products, including brand names, is available for the asking.

PLAIN AND FANCY TOMATO JUICE: For breakfast, we like it plain, but for a dinner appetizer course, we'll take it seasoned a bit. Try this idea for a nippy, zippy, peppy tomato juice cocktail. Add to 2 cups plain tomato juice 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon minced chives, and ½ teaspoon each of thyme, basil, marjoram, savory, and tarragon. Chill in a jar overnight, strain, and add the juice of an orange and half a lemon. If you can't find all of these herbs in your cupboard or at the grocer's, use as many of them as possible. Every one will ask what you've done to that tomato juice to make it taste so delectable!

Next time you serve roast shoulder of lamb with a stuffing, try a mint or watercress combination. It's unusual and just the right accent for the flavor of lamb.

Mint or Watercress Stuffing.

[For boned lamb shoulder.]
2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup fresh mint leaves, or
1 cup finely cut watercress
¼ cup chopped celery
6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons grated onion
Salt, pepper

Melt half the butter in a skillet and add onion and celery. Cook for 2 minutes and add mint or watercress and other seasonings. Push this mixture to one side of the pan and melt remaining butter in the rest of it. Brown crumbs in butter and, when they have absorbed it, mix all ingredients together. When using watercress, allow liquid which cooks out to evaporate before the buttered crumbs are added.

The square cut lamb shoulder, boned and sewed at the market on two sides, is the meat to use for this stuffing. Season it inside and out with salt and pepper, fill, and skewer the open side together. Roast uncovered at 300 degrees, 40 minutes to the pound.

What Is There to Be Done for the Shy Child?

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"What can be done for a shy child?" a mother writes. "Have you any advice?" And that is all—no mention of age, even.

Now, the little girl who is shy at two years of age or the boy who is shy at 15 are not necessarily in the same boat. The small girl may be simply emerging from the baby's complete trustingness into the realization, based on experience or fear, that all grownups aren't in the same class. This is not really shyness. But the boy at 15 who shows symptoms of shyness quite similar to the little girl's may be suffering from real shyness—and suffer one can from that complaint.

We must use first, indirect ways. If we attack the shyness directly we only succeed in making the young victim doubly self-conscious, for his shyness is in itself a kind of self-consciousness.

Of course the best way to cure shyness is to prevent it. And one of the best ways to prevent it is to start young and accustom your child to people, to meeting them, greeting them, and talking, for the more often a thing is done, the easier it is to do it.

A mother can do a great deal to give people the clue to the right tone to take with her children.

If she starts early and introduces her children very simply to adults, they soon learn to meet people easily and as a matter of course.

To be brief, we might say that to cure shyness we ought to work for a social accustomedness in some of the following ways:

Give your children opportunities to meet people.

Don't ignore them or keep them too much in the background.

Introduce them as you would a grown friend or relative. On the other hand don't give them too much attention.

Keep the conversation off the child himself, but for a while talk about things that interest him.

Let him show his toys to guests or explain something he cares about; if he is an older boy it may be a hobby, a talent, sports or books.

Sometimes let the children help you entertain by passing sandwiches or candy or in any other way for which they are old enough or deft enough.

Shyness may in some cases have deeper causes than we've mentioned.

For instance, a child may become shy because of failure at school that is taken too seriously by his family or himself.

He may be made shy by a feeling of inferiority resulting from being constantly criticized at home.

Many a shy child is one who has been less favored than the other children by his father and mother.

Being controled thru fear or by too severe discipline might make him shrinking and unsure of himself in meeting new people.

He may be so restricted, so repressed in every way that he is incapable of meeting new grownups freely.

Good Looking House Frock

WOMAN'S FROCKS FOR THE HOME.

The woman who keeps house has a problem in finding good looking frocks to wear while at her tasks. This is particularly difficult for the woman who is overweight. In this simple style we are offering a solution to the problem, and a pattern which even a novice can follow with good results. The square neckline may be trimmed with rickrack braid or ready-made ruffling, more of the trim being repeated on the "butterfly" sleeves and down the side closing, if you wish. Buttons, you will notice, contribute to more than the utility of the model. All the inexpensive cottons, plain or printed, are the economical fabric choices.

Style No. 2514 is designed for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for dress with full sleeves; 3⅛ yards for dress with armhole ruffles.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Winter Sports Fill Week-End.

Ten inches of snow at La Crosse—24 inches at Phelps—and the deepest snow of the winter at Chicago will bring out skis, skates, sleighs, and sleds for every sort of a winter sports party over the week-end.

"There's five inches of snow at Wilmot, Wis.; it's packed well and the skiing's good" is the news at the Snow Chase club headquarters. As Wilmot is within driving distance, most of the Snow Chasers will go north today or tomorrow for a few hours of sport, among them the Stewart Boals, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fentress, Miss Barbara Hobart, and Henry Meers. The Fentresses are taking a group of friends with them from Libertyville.

Ice boating is in full swing at Oconomowoc, where there always are winter house parties when the weather is favorable. De Witt W. Buchanan Jr. and his fiancée, Miss Katherine Hamilton of Milwaukee, are giving a supper party at the senior Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan's home tonight, taking their guests for a sleigh ride later.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's Oconomowoc home has been filled with younger members of her family during recent week-ends. The William Rice Odells are enjoying Danforth lodge with Mrs. Valentine now, and will return to Chicago with her next week. Mrs. Robert R. Baker seems to enjoy winter more than summer at her handsome Oconomowoc place, and is there now. Walter E. Faithorn Jr., who is working in Chicago, rarely misses a week-end with his parents in Oconomowoc.

Two Sports Parties for Anne Stuart.

Winter sports will play a prominent part in two parties planned for Miss Anne Stewart this week-end. Miss Peggy Burrows' dozen guests will go skating following a dinner she is giving tonight for Miss Stuart. Skating will be the after luncheon entertainment at a party Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins is giving tomorrow for Miss Stuart.

The winter ice carnival at the Dunham Woods Riding club tonight will be a Tyrolian ice party, with the skating ring house decorated in Tyrolean fashion. Costumes will be in order, too, with prizes for the most attractive and the funniest.

A buffet supper will precede the carnival. Among those entertaining at supper are the Raymond O. Mitchells, who will have the John I. Shaws as week-end guests, and Arthur Farwell, whose week-end guests will be the Ogden Kettings.

Children's Ice Carnival at Skokie Club Tomorrow

The children's annual winter ice carnival will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Skokie Country club, followed by supper and a movie in which the late Douglas Fairbanks was starred. There will be prizes for the best costumes and special racing events for boys and girls. Junior members of the Chicago Figure Skating club will give an exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr. will be at home from 5 until 8 o'clock this evening to celebrate their sixth wedding anniversary.

Hats Sign Pact with Hair Styles for Spring of 1940

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The signing of a peace treaty between chapeaux and tresses, with the drawing up of a four-point plan for perfect harmony of hats and hair for 1940, was the amusing way of acquainting us with the 1940 coiffure and chapeau news. The authorities backing the peace plan were a milliner and a coiffeur. Here are the four points outlined.

1. The head will look large this year, in contrast to the sleek look of former seasons. Hair and hat will combine to give a soft, flattering and rather wide frame to the face. Women will look as if they have a lot of hair, even tho they choose to have their hair cut short.

2. Each smart woman will study carefully the numerous silhouettes sponsored by millinery designers this year, and will choose her hat wardrobe to follow the one general trend which suits her best—flat on the skull with fullness at the back of the neck, flat across the back with fullness at the front or top, wide or small brimmed hats tying under the chin or turned up sharply on one side. With her to the hairdresser will go her hats and she will have her coiffure designed around them, so that, hatless or hatted, the silhouette of her head will be equally charming, and no coiffure casualty will result from the wearing of her hats.

3. Curls, bangs, sleek wing waves and rolls of hair will be an integral part of the picture when a woman wears a hat. The hat will sit charmingly in the coiffure, like a bird in its nest, rather than perching on it like a bird teetering on a branch. A careless coiffure will damage the effect as much as a limp feather or a torn veil, and chic women will emphasize by their heads more than ever the fact that grooming is the lifeblood of fashion.

4. No imposition of line will be made on women, they will not be ordered to wear their hair up or down, their brims and crowns high, wide and drooping. This year there are fashions for every woman and every woman may make her own if she has the innate chic to accomplish it.

Poo-Pooing of Compliments Is Discouraging

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Women continually complain that American men are stingy with compliments; continental men, they sigh, know so beautifully how to compliment and flatter the feminine sex.

Chic, clever, spirited, jolly, and a good sport, well poised and groomed, in appearance and manner no different from the hand raised debutante, the average American girl is deserving of many compliments. The reason she gets so few is that she does not know how to accept a compliment gracefully. Honest to the core, she is afraid to admit a compliment, afraid that it shows her to be conceited.

Thats the canny observation of Ramon Armengod, handsome young Mexican matinée idol and motion picture star.

A girl may know a foreign language or two; or discuss relativity; she may play a par golf game, or manage capably a large office. She may have an exquisite face, and a not too bad figure, or a good voice for a nonprofessional—but just try to compliment her, and 9 times out of 10 she will belittle and criticize the compliment.

Perhaps you may choose to admire her pretty frock. Does she accept the compliment modestly and graciously, thanking you for your interest and discernment?

More likely, her answer will run along these lines:

"O, do you really like it? It's simply an old rag. I paid $6.98 for it at a sale. It's the cheapest thing."

It's no wonder that af[illegible]swers like that American men refrain.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The final guide to a close decision in the play of the cards often can be found in the preceding bidding. The "wizardry" of certain experts is nothing more than the manifestation of their ability to appraise accurately the bids of the defenders.

In today's hand the declarer had two possible lines of play, each offering a distinct chance of success.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 10
♥ Q J 10 6 5
♦ K Q 10 6
♣ A K 6

WEST

♣ Q J 10 8 5 4 3 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	4 spades	5 clubs
5 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West had a close decision to make over the five club bid. His three honor tricks outside of the spade suit made a double tempting, but in my opinion he was correct in bidding five spades. It was perfectly obvious that North had a generally good hand and that South, therefore, must have very freakish distribution in order to bid at the five level. West felt that there was a very good chance of making five spades and was unwilling to settle for a one or even two trick penalty.

North opened the king of clubs and then shifted to the queen of hearts. Declarer won and took out the only outstanding spade. Next he led the king of hearts and ruffed his losing heart in dummy. With no more clubs or hearts in either dummy or his own hand, declarer's only problem was to find a way to avoid the loss of two diamond tricks. There were two possibilities: One, that either North or South had one of the honors only singly guarded. In that case, the lead of the ace and a low diamond would force that defender on lead with only clubs or hearts to return, either of which would allow declarer to discard his other losing diamond and ruff in dummy. Had there been nothing to go by in the bidding this would have been the correct plan. But the declarer gave a great deal of thought to North's take-out double of the one spade as well as his final penalty double of the five spade bid. Knowing North to be a conservative player, declarer felt sure that he must have upward of three honor tricks for his take-out double, which strongly pointed to the conclusion that he held both the king and queen of diamonds as well as the ace-king of clubs.

On this analysis declarer returned to his hand with a trump and led, not the ace of diamonds, but a low one up to dummy's jack. This play made North helpless. He was forced to go up with his queen and had the Hobson's choice of giving declarer a ruff and a discard by leading a club or a heart, or of returning a diamond into the East-West combined tenace.

CITY LAND VALUES CUT BY TREND TO LIFE IN SUBURBS

Rogers Park, Lake View Hit by Assessor.

A trend toward lower land values in Chicago residential districts is shown in the quadrennial real estate assessments for two north side townships, Lake View and Rogers Park, released yesterday by County Assessor John S. Clark. Lake View land values were cut 10.8 per cent below 1935 assessments; Rogers Park lands were reduced 7.8 per cent.

In contrast, land in the townships outside Chicago has been valued at 10.5 per cent more than the figures arrived at four years ago. The country towns' 1939 assessments were announced earlier in the week.

Clark explained that the growing popularity of suburbs as residential areas had lowered land prices inside the city limits. He said that much of the land north of Belmont avenue and east of Ravenswood avenue had been overvalued in the past in relation to its economic usefulness.

Suggests Wholesale Rezoning.

Zoning factors, he said, had been overemphasized, and there was little likelihood towering apartment buildings would ever be built in much of the Lake View-Rogers Park section. He recommended a comprehensive rezoning of the whole city.

"We have tried to ignore the zoning factors," he asserted, "and base assessments on actual value. The water of speculation has been wrung out of the assessed valuations."

The values of buildings in the city townships was increased by the assessor, but not in proportion to the raises in the country towns. Clark said the general markup in buildings was a reflection of better business conditions. Lake View buildings were raised 3.85 per cent, Rogers Park buildings 2.1 per cent, and the country towns 4.7 per cent.

Saving for Taxpayers.

Taking the two factors together, Lake View taxpayers will have a total cut in assessments of 2.5 per cent. Rogers Park owners will be saved 2.1 per cent. Comparative 1939 and 1935 assessments follow:

	1939.	1935.	Pct. decline. [*Increase]
Lake View—
Land	$ 58,343,617	$ 65,397,608	10.8
Buildings	88,434,973	85,159,148	*3.85
Total	$146,778,590	$150,556,756	2.5
Rogers Park—
Land	$ 18,708,339	$ 20,296,039	7.8
Buildings	23,754,008	23,267,006	*2.1
Total	$ 42,462,337	$ 43,563,045	2.1

Land along Sheridan road, from Foster avenue to Bryn Mawr avenue, was cut from $400 to $250 a foot. Many homes and small apartments had their land assessments slashed from 15 to 40 per cent.

GOVERNMENT MOVES TO START MILK CASE HEARING BY APRIL 1

Leo F. Tierney.

Leo. F. Tierney, special assistant United States attorney general, moved yesterday to have the trial of the government's milk conspiracy case, in which 42 individuals and 13 corporations are defendants, started by April 1. The charge is violation of the Sherman antitrust act by controling milk production and prices in the Chicago area.

All the defendants were formally arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and entered pleas of not guilty. The judge ordered that all preliminary defense motions be presented by Feb. 2, and set Feb. 23 for oral arguments. He said selection of a jury should be started early in April.

Arguments for dismissing the indictments on the grounds that interstate commerce was not involved and that the Sherman act is not applicable to the labor unions among the defendants were overruled at the hearing.

A BRIDE LEARNS SHE IS MARRIED TO HER BROTHER

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 19 (AP).—Thirteen days of married life were at an end today for a young man, 20 years old, and a girl, 18, because inquiry indicated they were brother and sister. Juvenile Judge Wilfred Bradshaw annulled the marriage yesterday.

Evidence showed the was placed with foster parc ile a baby and the boy in an orphans' home. The girl's mother had the same last name as that of the boy.

The couple met last year and were married Jan. 5. They said they were convinced they were not related, but the judge entered an annulment action and continued the investigation. He withheld their names.

HOLDS UP COUPLE AT STOPLIGHT; GETS $1,585 LOOT

William Jaffe, an undertaker, and his wife, Bess, were held up by a stoplight bandit late last night and robbed of $12 in cash and jewelry and a fur coat totally valued at $1,585. On the way to their home at 420 Melrose street they stopped their car for lights at Diversey parkway and Halsted street. An armed bandit forced his way into the car.

He made the Jaffes drive to Mildred avenue and Wolfram street. There he took $12 and a ring and a watch, both valued at $385. From Mrs. Jaffe the gunman took a fur coat valued at $500, a wrist watch valued at $450, and a wedding ring valued at $250. Then he fled on foot.

ILLINI R.O.T.C. BIDS FAREWELL TO COL. BROWN

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 19 [Special].—Col. Fred R. Brown, commandant of the University of Illinois R. O. T. C. for the last six years, today took his final review of students' and cadet officers' advanced corps in a farewell ceremony in the Illinois armory.

Col. Fred R. Brown.

Col. Brown will start a retirement leave on Feb. 1 and retire Feb. 29. He will be succeeded by Col. Robert G. Kirkwood, who came here last fall from Fort Louis, Washington.

Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university; Dr. David Kinley, president emeritus, and deans of the various colleges and schools and military officers were special guests during the review.

"It is not a pleasant task to say farewell," said Col. Brown.

Last night the Pershing Rifles, an honorary military unit, initiated Col. Brown as an honorary member.

MATE DIVORCES WOMAN FREED IN EXTORTION TRIAL

Mrs. Alpha Mae Lantz, 38 years old, who was acquitted last Nov. 30 of attempting to extort $3,000 from a Waukegan physician, was divorced yesterday by her husband, Harry, foreman for a motor company. He accused her of adultery. The hearing was before Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan.

The suit was not contested. Lantz said they were married in May, 1922, and lived together until May, 1939, when she told him of intimacies with one John Doe. One of Lantz's witnesses was Deputy Sheriff Edward L. Dunne, who said he had heard Mrs. Lantz testify to acts of adultery.

Dunne is the regular Circuit court bailiff. He was on duty last November at the extortion trial, in which Mrs. Lantz was accused by Dr. Leslie E. Bovik of threatening to expose him and ruin his reputation. Mrs. Lantz testified at the trial that she had been Bovik's sweetheart for seven years.

MILK ROUTE MEN VOTE DOWN PLAN FOR CUT IN PAY

Members of the Milk Wagon Drivers union have voted down a proposal, made by milk dealers, that they accept a voluntary pay cut from $48 to $35 a week. This was disclosed yesterday.

Some of the drivers, it was said, favored the cut, with a corresponding decrease in the number of hours, as a means of keeping jobs for as many men as are new employed. They felt that the trend to milk buying in stores, and the adoption of two quart bottles, would result soon in the abandonment of many routes if the present wage status is maintained.

It is expected that the proposal for a wage cut will be taken up again before a new contract is made between the union and the employers about May 1.

FEDERAL JUDGE SETS HEARING FOR FEB. 2 IN MILK CONTAINER SUITS

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday continued until Feb. 2 a hearing on suits brought by the American Can company and the Ex-Cell-O corporation seeking to compel the city to permit the sale of milk in paper containers in Chicago. A similar suit, brought by the Fieldcrest Dairies Inc., is pending before Jacob I. Grossman, federal master in chancery, who is waiting for city attorneys to file final briefs.

Several months ago the board of health voted to admit paper containers, but this recommendation was pigeon-holed by members of the city council. The aldermen excused their refusal to act on the matter by explaining they want to hear Master Grossman's recommendation in the Fieldcrest suit.

PRESIDENT ASKS ADVANTAGES FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Adequate national defense calls for educated, healthy and happy citizens, as well as adequate munitions and arms, President Roosevelt tonight declared in a radio address.

The address marked the close of the two day session of the White House conference on children in a democracy. The gathering drew social workers from thruout the country.

The President, who learned of Senator William E. Borah's death shortly before beginning his address, prefaced his remarks with a tribute to the Idaho veteran. He declared that the objectives of the conference were those for which Senator Borah had worked for years. Borah was sponsor of the bill which created the children's bureau, guiding agency of the conference.

A CRIBBAGE PLAYER CUTS A FIVE TO GET PERFECT HAND OF 29

Charles L. Koch, executive secretary of the Electro-Motive corporation in La Grange, was busy receiving congratulations yesterday. At a cribbage game in his office on Thursday he was dealt the remarkable hand of three fives and the jack of diamonds.

The hand became a perfect one when the five of diamonds came to him on a cut of the cards. Cribbage scoring gave his hand a total of 29 points. That's something like having thirteen cards of a suit in a bridge hand.

"I was playing with three other fellows," said Koch, "and the odds against getting such cards in a four handed game are astronomical. But my winnings weren't astronomical. My partner and I each collected a dime on the hand."

MILKMAN WANTS SOURED LOVE PUT THRU SEPARATOR

After 17 years of marriage to Mrs. Mary Echlin, 40 years old, her husband, John, a mild mannered milkman, yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court. His suit asked only that he be left alone. Echlin said he was ready to agree to keep on supporting his wife.

His reasons, according to the petition, were these: In 17 years he had been allowed to buy only one suit and one overcoat. He turned over his $37.50 pay check every week and got back only a few dollars. For four years he has never had a key to their home at 7511 Lafayette avenue, and he was never allowed to invite his friends there.

At the request of Echlin's attorney, Thomas F. Fitzgerald, Judge Rudolph F. Desort granted an injunction restraining Mrs. Echlin from molesting and dominating her husband or interfering with his job. Attorney Fitzgerald said Echlin wanted legal separation rather than divorce because of religious reasons.

INDIANA STATE BEATS LOYOLA QUINTET, 49-35

Ramblers Lose 9th Straight Game.

Indiana State of Terre Haute handed Loyola university basketball team its ninth consecutive defeat, 49 to 35, in the Loyola gymnasium last night. The Ramblers were unable to penetrate State's man to man defense and found the Hooslers' superior height an insurmountable handicap.

Loyola's second team started the contest, but scored only three points while Indiana State was collecting seven. The insertion of regulars brought Loyola up to a 15 to 11 count, but it never came closer. At the half State led, 29 to 15.

Six-foot 6 inch Harold Johnson of State took scoring honors with six baskets and a free throw for 13 points. Loyola's best individual efforts were contributed by Danny Cahill with 10 points, and Ed Schell and George Wenskus, who got 9 apiece.

Loyola scored 12 baskets out of 37 attempts, while Indiana State collected 22 out of 34. Lineups:

BELOIT RALLY WINS

A rally in the final three minutes netted Beloit college nine points and a 40 to 37 basketball victory last night over Lake Forest on the latter's floor. Lake Forest was ahead, 37 to 31, when G. Loti made three quick field goals to tie the score. Ziminock's free throw put Beloit ahead and proved to be the winning point. In a premilinary game, Lake Forest's freshmen defaeted the Beloit Freshmen, 37 to 28.

ARMSTRONG IN TOP CONDITION FOR MONTANEZ

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—Henry Armstrong, world welterweight champion, who is to defend his title Wednesday night in Madison Square Garden against Pedro Montanez, today passed a medical examination ordered by the state athletic commission.

The commission physician found Armstrong in better condition physically and mentally than on any other of the many occasions on which he has examined him. The report showed Armstrong has recovered from whatever hand weaknesses he sustained in last year's campaign and that the badly lacerated lip he sustained when he lost his lightweight title to Lou Ambers has completely healed.

HEYLIGER, ILLINI HOCKEY COACH, HAS PNEUMONIA

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP).—Dr. L. M. T. Stilwell revealed tonight that Victor Heyliger, University of Illinois hockey coach, was in a Champaign hospital suffering from pneumonia. The physician said the coach's condition was serious, but not critical.

Athletic Director Wendell Wilson said Ray Elliott, assistant football coach and former hockey coach, would assume Heyliger's duties for the present.

Cambridge and Oxford Crews Will Race March 2

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Cambridge yesterday accepted Oxford's challenge to an unofficial boat race March 2. The course has not been decided. It is understood Oxford suggested the Henley course, while Cambridge is said to favor the Adelaide course at Ely. The Thames cannot be used because it would mean the assembly of hundreds of thousands of people in the danger area.

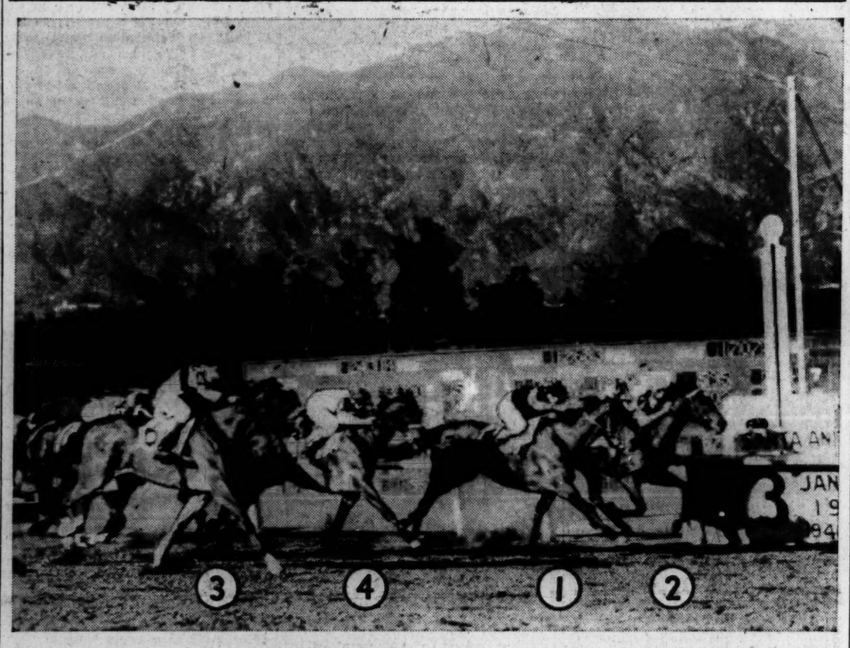
They Had to Use the Camera on This One



The camera was used to decide first and third places in the third race at Santa Anita yesterday. This is a picture of the finish. The judges decided String Along was first, Bunny Martin second, Oblivious third, and Miss Ponne fourth. The numbers indicate how they finished. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Maroons Face DePaul Tonight; Wildcats Play at Marquette

The University of Chicago's basketball team, whose nonconference showing for the season is three victories and one defeat, will meet its strongest outside foe of the campaign tonight in De Paul's Blue Demons in the university fieldhouse. The Maroons have dropped four straight Big Ten starts, which give them three victories and five defeats against all competition, while the Demons, with one of the most powerful quintets in the middle west, have won 11 out of 12 games.

De Paul's only setback was administered by Southern California's unbeaten squad in overtime. Tonight's lineups:

N. U. FACES MARQUETTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 19 [Special.]—Marquette university's basketball team, making its first home start in seven weeks, will meet Northwestern university tomorrow night.

Tomorrow's game is the first of three the Wildcats will play with nonconference foes during the midseason lull caused by final examinations. They will meet Notre Dame on the latter's court a week from tomorrow night and Butler in Indianapolis on Feb. 8. No other Big Ten teams will play next week.

Marquette has not lost a game in its gymnasium since Iowa turned the trick on Jan. 2, 1937.

Marquette's veteran lineup has been weakened by the loss of Bill Komenich, big junior guard who suffered a knee injury last week. He will be replaced by Charles Hammer, junior reserve. Lineups:

IRISH BATTLE PENN

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 19 [Special].—Notre Dame's basketball squad left today for Philadelphia to meet Pennsylvania Saturday night. Penn has one of its strongest teams in recent seasons, according to Vince McNally, former Irish star, who has scouted the Quakers. Notre Dame will risk a record of ten victories in as many starts against Penn, and will try to build up this season's mark of seven victories in eleven games.

Notre Dame's scoring race has been interesting the last few weeks, with Eddie Riska, Chicago junior forward, holding his early season margin handily by dropping in 17 points against Kentucky and 12 against Butler. His total for 11 games is 124, or more than 11 a game. George Sobek, Hammond sophomore forward, found himself in the Syracuse game, scoring 12 points. His total for the season is 77, for third spot against Capt. Mark Ertel.

MICHIGAN AT STATE

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 19 [Special].—The largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game in central Michigan will turn out tomorrow night to watch the University of Michigan and Michigan State teams battle for state supremacy. All reserved seats have been sold for days and athletic officials estimate that the attendance will exceed 8,000. The game will be played in the Fred Jenison fieldhouse, Michigan State's new $1,250,000 athletic plant.

Early in the season the Wolverines handed the Spartans a 33-27 defeat at Ann Arbor. Since that time the Spartans have improved steadily and now boast a record of nine victories against three defeats.

The Spartans will be at full strength for the Wolverines, while the latter squad will be shy on some of its reserve strength because of injuries. Tom Harmon has reported for basketball and may start against the Spartans. Lineups:

Oslo to Be Scene of World Speed Skating Meet Feb. 17

MONTREAL, Jan. 19 (AP).—The 1940 world's speed ice skating championships will be held at Oslo, Norway, Feb. 17-18, according to word received today by Champlain Provencher, honorary secretary of the Amateur Skating Association of Canada. The races, entries for which close Feb. 12, will be held over 500, 1,500, 5,000, and 10,000 meters.

PRECEPTOR WINS IN STRETCH RUN AT SANTA ANITA

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19 (AP).—Bing Crosby's Preceptor II. whipped a field of sprinters today at Santa Anita in capturing the $2,000 Pomona handicap at six furlongs for 4 year olds. Preceptor caught Isaroma in the closing strides to win in a drive. Jubal Junior was third.

Isaroma of the Millsdale stables, coupled with Firozepore, the Frenchbred sprinter, was the favorite. Preceptor's time was 1:10 4-5. It was a photo for all three places, Preceptor winning by a nose and Isaroma being only a head in front of Jubal Junior. Preceptor paid $24, $7.80, and $3.60; Isaroma $3 and $2.20, and Jubal Junior $3.

The third race, won by String Along, also required the camera to decide first and third places. Three horses were nose and nose at the wire, but the judges decided, after examining the picture, that String Along was first, Bunny Martin second, and Oblivious third.

HIALEAH HAS $5,000 RACE.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP).—Eighteen sprinters were named today for the 10th running of the $5,000 added Hialeah stakes tomorrow, the first important 3 year old race of the new year.

Hal Price Headley's Stagefright, to be ridden by Buddy Haas, was given top weight of 120 pounds for the six furlong race. Five other well regarded entrants were assigned 116 pounds, among them F. J. Buchanan's Charlieinfeld, which will race as a betting entry with T. J. Hill's Nosy.

The Calumet farm entered Star Chance, assigned 116 pounds, and Little Risk, 111. Also given 116 pound imposts were Cosgrave stable's Casino Pete, Darby Dan farm's Darby Dienst, and Woolford farm's Quenemo.

Bob's Boys Scores.

Bob's Boys, 7 year old gelding from Mrs. E. Haughton's stable, who has shown himself to be a first class mudder, found the sloppy going at Hialeah to his liking today and ran to an easy victory in the Robert E. Lee purse.

A heavy two hour rain, starting about noon, left the racing strip fetlock deep in mud and gave long shots a big day in about everything except the feature.

Rosenbloom Remarries Bride with Whom He Eloped

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19 (AP).—Maxie Rosenbloom, boxer and Hollywood night club owner, was remarried in a Jewish ceremony today to Muriel Faeder, school teacher, whom he wed in an airplane elopement to Las Vegas, Nev., last Oct. 9.

GOGGIN DEFEATS LITTLE, HEAFNER IN COAST GOLF

Smith, Metz Also Advance; Meet Today.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 19 (AP).—Favorites tumbled all over the field, par took a beating, and spectators were numbed by chill winds today as qualifiers battled thru two rounds of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

Eight survivors of the starting 32 renew the struggle over Lake Merced course tomorrow. Among the standouts eliminated in the first two rounds of match play were Lawson Little, medalist; Clayton Heafner, Linville, N. C., star; Jimmy Thomson of Chicopee, Mass.; Benny Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and Harold McSpaden, Canadian Open champion, from Winchester, Mass.

It's a Goggin Day.

Two most resounding victories of the day were produced by Willie Goggin, local star, who disposed of Little and Heafner in turn, by scores of 3 and 2.

Goggin completed each match two strokes under par. He was conceded only an outside chance to topple Little, qualifying leader at 139 and winner of the recent Los Angeles Open. They were even at the ninth; Goggin took the lead at the 10th and held it.

Similarly Goggin was the shortender as he teed off against Heafner, but he went one up at the sixth and clung to the lead thereafter.

Oliver Wins Two.

Hogan and Thomson also fell victims to the same opponent—Ed Oliver, husky youngster from Hornell, N. Y. After knocking the favored Hogan out of the first round, 2 and 1, Oliver rode along at a sub-par pace to whip Thomson, 3 and 2, in the afternoon. He was 4 up at the ninth with a 35 to Thomson's 39.

McSpaden, just back from winning the Philippines Open, found more backers than Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., as they started their second round match, but at the finish Smith was the winner by 2 and 1.

At the ninth it looked like McSpaden. He was 2 up, carding a 2 under par 34, to Smith's 36. Smith went 1 up at the 16th, where McSpaden missed a 3 foot putt, and made it 2 up at the next hole by sinking a 15 foot putt for a birdie 2.

Champion Metz Stays In.

Dick Metz, Oak Park, Ill., and Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Tex., winners of the 1939 and 1938 San Francisco tournaments, respectively, moved through two rounds. Metz ousted Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., 3 and 1, following his narrow squeak and 19th hole victory over John Difiaure, Los Angeles, in the first round.

Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., returning to form after a severe illness, outlasted Red Francis of Altoona, Pa., 1 up, then put out Charles Klein of Alice, Tex., for 3 and 2.

First round results:

Willie Goggin, San Francisco, defeated Lawson Little, Bretton Woods, N. H., 3 and 2.
Clayton Heafner, Linville, N. C., defeated George Beer, San Francisco, 6 and 5.
Charles Klein, Alice, Tex., defeated Al Krueger, Beloit, Wis., 6 and 4.
Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., defeated Reed Francis, Altoona, Pa., 1 up.
Rod Munday, White Plains, N. Y., defeated Sam Byrd, Philadelphia, 1 up.
Earl Fry, Alameda, Cal., defeated Bud Oakley, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 6 and 5.
Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., defeated Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., 2 and 1.
Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Tex., defeated Charles Sheppard, Oakland, Cal., 6 and 4.
Jimmy Thomson, Chicopee, Mass., defeated Ort Bell, San Francisco, 2 up.
Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., defeated Joe Brown, Des Moines, Ia., 5 and 4.
Tom Lo Presti, Sacramento, Cal., defeated Marvin Stahl, Lansing, Mich., 2 and 1.
Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., defeated Dennis Lavender, Dallas, Tex., 3 and 1.
Felix Serafin, Scranton, Pa., defeated Vito Machado, Antioch, Cal., 4 and 2.
Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, N. Y., defeated Fay Coleman, Culver City, Cal., on 21st hole.
Dick Metz, Oak Park, Ill., defeated John Difiaure, Los Angeles, 1 up, 19.
Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., defeated W. A. Stackhouse, Sequin, Tex., 4 and 3.

Second round results:

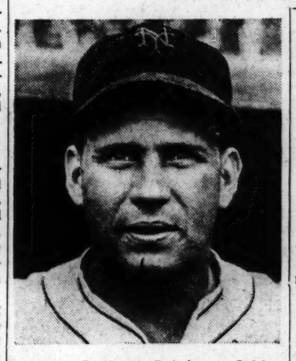
Goggin defeated Heafner, 3 and 2.
Nelson defeated Klein, 3 and 2.
Wood defeated Munday, 3 and 2.
Oliver defeated Thomson, 3 and 2.
Hines defeated Lo Presti, 5 and 4.
Demaret defeated Fry, 2 and 1.
Smith defeated McSpaden 2 and 1.
Metz defeated Serafin, 3 and 1.

Tomorrow morning's pairings:

Goggin vs. Nelson; Wood vs. Oliver; Hines vs. Damaret, and Smith vs. Metz.

Ask Cubs to Hike the Ante

Clay Bryant, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, seems unworried over salary difficulties for 1940 as he romps with his son, Clay Jr., 5 years old, in the yard of his home near Zanesville, O. Bryant may visit Chicago to take up his salary quarrel in person with the Cubs.



Hank Leiber, Cubs' outfielder, who for the second time rejected his contract. The Cubs sent it right back—again.

Golden Gloves Activity Hums in 45 Centers

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Chicago's Golden Gloves tournaments are being conducted next month to determine the best novice amateur boxers in the city, more than two score cities are preparing to hold their tournaments or preliminary tournaments which will lead to Chicago's Stadium where the Tournament of Champions will be held Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

Forty-five cities will send teams to Chicago. With Chicago's eight champions, who will be determined in the Coliseum tournament Feb. 20, 21, and 22, there will be a maximum of 368 amateur boxers competing for the diamond studded golden gloves, emblematic of supremacy in more than a score of states. From the finals of the tournament in Chicago, March 6 in the Stadium, and the Tournament of Champions, will be named the squad of 32 boxers which will meet New York's team in Madison Square Garden, March 18. It will be the 13th consecutive intercity Golden Gloves tournament.

20,000 Seek Laurels.

The out of Chicago tournaments, which range in territory from Fort Worth, Tex., to Minneapolis, and from Omaha, Neb., to Cleveland, are tournament centers themselves in that most of them serve as hosts to adjacent cities. An excellent example of this system which contributes a total annual entry in Golden Gloves of more than 20,000, is the tournament sponsored by the Nashville, Tenn., Tennessean. The Nashville tournament, which is limited to Nashville boxers, will be held week after next. These boys then will compete with the champions from seven other centers located in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Alabama.

Clarksville, Tenn., Leaf-Courier will hold its fourth tournament next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Following this Golden Gloves meet are those in Knoxville, Jackson, and Chattanooga, Tenn.; Bowling Green and Lexington, Ky., and Birmingham, Ala. Raymond Johnson of the Nashville Tennessean, writes that 3,500 boxers will be included in the eight tournaments. The eight champions from Nashville's tri-state tournament will compete in Chicago Feb. 26, 27, 28, in the Tournament of Champions.

Open Tourney Deadline Is Jan. 31.

Five of the 1939 champions from Nashville will not seek to retain their titles. Light Heavyweight Jack Baggett and Flyweight Lewis Moore of Chattanooga have become professionals. Lightweight Felix Stevens has

CLUB FIRES IT BACK; ASKS HIM TO NAME FIGURE

Clay Bryant Joins Dissatisfied Set.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Hank Leiber, the large sized member of the Cubs' outfield, apparently schemes to wear down his employer, if not himself, in a postage stamp war. Hank's contract, unsigned, of course, came back yesterday, thus completing its second round trip between the P. K. Wrigley headquarters and Leiber's sunning spot in Phoenix, Ariz. The document was immediately sent forth by the Cubs on its third trip.

Leiber's second act varied slightly from the original. His papers came back the first time not only without a signature but without comment. The Cubs' officers were nice enough to believe Hank had merely forgotten to sign it. So they sent it back—also without comment. But this time Hank went to the pains to write that what he was offered wasn't enough. He has not threatened to quit and take up coaching as he did the year he refused to join the Giants until the training chores were about completed. The threat may come after a few more postage stamps are used.

The contract now on its way to Leiber for the third time contains a note in reply to what the discontented athlete wrote. The gist of the Wrigley reply was "You say the club's offer is unsatisfactory but you neglect to furnish a clew as to what you have in mind." Hank has already told friends that his price for 1940 is $17,500 and this information is in the hands of the club but Wrigley would like to have the bad news direct. Now that the Cub owner has asked for it he'll probably get it.

The second rebound of the Leiber contract wasn't the only unpleasant note in the daily routine of the Cubs' headquarters. Clay Bryant also was heard from direct and he made good on his previous announcement in Zanesville, O., that he wouldn't sign. Bryant's salary was sliced, possibly severely, as the result of his inactivity because of an arm ailment last season. He wants his old pay restored, claiming his arm is as sound as it was in 1938.

Other Holdouts Are Quiet.

Any day now Diz Dean may be heard from—again. He hasn't bellowed about his contract for more than a week, possibly because his broadcasting skill was temporarily thrown out of kilter by extraction of a pair of molars. Augie Galan and Stan Hack, also holdouts, are a couple of quiet fellows who may just sit tight and await action from the Chicago end. And, naturally enough, Leiber's papers will be back shortly. The club claims that none of the rejected contracts has been altered—yet.

Glen Russell, the kid first sacker whose silence led to a belief he might be plotting a siege on the Wrigley bank roll, came thru yesterday with his contract, all signed and everything. Signed papers also were received from Bob Sturgeon, recently purchased from the Columbus, O., club on the theory he will be good enough to run Bob Mattick out of the shortstop position.

SOX IN RACE—DYKES

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP).—Legal problems involving ownership of the Chicago White Sox won't keep the club from being right in the thick of the American league pennant race next summer, Manager Jimmy Dykes said today.

His only comment on reports from Chicago that the heirs of J. Louis Comiskey would oppose a plan of bank trustees to sell the club was: "it will make no difference to us. We'll be in there scrapping."

Dykes made no rash predictions, but he doesn't think the New York Yankees will have things quite as easy as they have had.

"Cleveland's going to be better," he said, "and Boston gave New York a fight last year for a while. The Yanks won 18 games of 22 with us last season, but they won't do it again."

Dykes said he had telegraphed Benny McCoy, Detroit player whom Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis made a free agent last week, but had made no definite cash offer and has heard nothing from McCoy.

MAKI RECOVERS; HE'LL MAKE THAT AMERICAN TOUR

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 20 [Saturday] (AP).—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter today quoted Taisto Maki, Finnish runner, as disclosing he had been wounded by a shell splinter shortly before Christmas.

Maki, who now is recovering, and Paavo Nurmi will leave for the United States within five days for a series of exhibitions to raise money for Finnish aid. They also may go to South America.

Maki, who lives 10 miles north of Helsinki, was mobilized on Nov. 13 and was under fire on the Karelian front from Nov. 30 until he was wounded.

MISS KIRCHOFF FIRST IN SENIOR GIRLS' SKATING

Captures 440 Yard Dash in Park Racing.

Total Points

Altgeld, 106.	Garfield, 60.
Shedd, 100.	Columbus, 50.
Douglas, 70.	Union, 20.
Harrison, 70.	Dvorak, 10.

Frances Kirchoff, 22 year old switchboard operator, won the girls' senior 440 yard dash last night from May Bruen of Altgeld park in the West Park division of the Chicago park district ice skating meet in Garfield park.

Despite Miss Kirchoff's performance as a representative of Columbus park, her team did not capture the team award. Shedd and Altgeld tied for first with 100 points each, while Harrison and Douglas were tied for second place with 70 points each.

In the special events for Illinois skating association skaters, Leo Freisinger won the 440 yard dash from Bob Heckenbach of the Northwest club, who was second, and Steve Gadus, C. Y. O. teammate of Freisinger's, who finished third. The same skaters plus several hundred more will participate in Humboldt park this afternoon in the Chicago park district city championships.

joined the navy. Bantamweight Barney Presley is in the air service at Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., and welterweight Percy Allen has retired. Returning champions are Leroy McAtee, Mobile, Ala., 126 pounds; John Lambert, Birmingham, Ala., 160 pounds, and Lucious Brown, Chattanooga, heavyweight.

Entries for Chicago's novice tournaments close a week from today. They must be postmarked by midnight Jan. 27. The novice tournaments will be held at the Madison Athletic club, on the west side; White City on the south side, and Loyola university gymnasium, on the north. Forty-eight gold medals will be awarded Chicago's best novice fighters.

The Open tournament in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22, may be entered until Jan. 31. The first Golden Gloves physical examination will be held in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, next Friday night.

WALSH SEEKS TO BETTER EDUCATE THE PRO GOLFERS

Miami, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP).—The golf professional of the future, if the P. G. A. has its way, will be an educated man, well grounded in business as well as the finer points of his game. Tom Walsh, new president of the Professional Golfers' association, proposed today a series of golf clinics affiliated with colleges, in which extra-curricular courses would be offered in public speaking, accounting, and other business subjects.

Golfers such as Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Gene Sarazen, and Tommy Armour would lecture and give practical demonstrations on the fine points of the sport itself.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Life Guard, $13.60 straight, $6.60 place, $5.40 show; Persuasive, $15.50 place, $10.60 show; Whisper, $9.20 show.

LIFE GUARD, slow to get into his stride, came to close ground in last half mile, was taken to the outside, closed fast and won in last stride. PERSUASIVE was rushed into a long lead early, tired badly right at end. WHISPER, well up from the start, ran good race. DOWN UNDER closed fast. GALLANT NEB quit badly. POKER DICE had early speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. [Claiming price, $2,000.] Three year olds. Start good. Won easily, place driving. Went to post at 3:00¾. Off at 3:01¾. Winner, lt. b g., by Gladstone-Lt. Two dollar mutuels paid: Lucky Me, $60.20 straight, $21.60 place, $13.90 show; Burning Stick, $6.80 place, $7.80 show; Corsica, $4.80 show.

LUCKY ME, at home in the going, took long lead around turn and just romped home. BURNING STICK came from far back gamely. CORSICA closed a big gap. ACQUIN had good race. BLUE LEONA quit going in five furlongs then tired. WISE ALLY never prominent. BALTEE tired under the weight.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs [out of chute.] Purse $1,100. Three year olds. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 3:30. Off at 3:31. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bright View, $3.40 straight, $2.80 place, $2.30 show; June Bee, $5.40 place, $3.40 show; Liberty Queen, $2.40 show.

BRIGHT VIEW much the best. She moved up fast in last three furlongs, took lead in stretch and won drawing away. JUNE BEE broke alertly, displayed good speed and ran fast but was no well. LIBERTY QUEEN got away fast but was crowded back going into far turn recovered and, taken to outside, finished gamely. RAPID WAY had plenty of speed.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and a furlong. Purse $1,200. Four year olds and up. Start good. Won easily, place same. Went to post at 4:00¾. Off at once. Winner, b. g., 7, by In Memoriam-Marsh Fire, by Under Fire. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bob's Boys, $3.60 straight, $2.50 place, out to show; Counterpoise $3.30 place, out to show; Shot Put, out to show.

BOB'S BOYS, much the best in the going, took place to the middle of the turn, then moved up, took lead and won galloping. COUNTERPOISE was rushed into the lead going into first turn, rated along held on well. SHOT PUT moved up very fast in last half mile and was a fast going horse. PICCOLO ran well for six furlongs then tired. HIGH FIDELITY apparently did not like the going.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and a furlong. Purse $1,000. [Claiming prices, $2,750 to $2,250.] Four year olds and up. Start good. Won driving, place easily. Went to post at 4:30¾. Off at 4:31. Winner, b. g., 5, by Cee Jay-Marilyn K., by Donnacona. Owner, Mrs. W. Hodson. Trainer, W. Hodson. Net values to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:53 2-5.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Cee Joe, $9.80 straight, $5.70 place, out to show; Lady Infinite, $6.40 place, out to show; Cuckoo, out to show.

CEE JOE well ridden. He was kept well up, came thru on inside and stood long drive gamely. LADY INFINITE was probably best but she ran out after turning into backstretch, was brought back in, finished fast under weak handling. CUCKOO set fast pace but tired badly in final furlong. PARI CALL had no mishap. WAGE EARNER never a factor.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and a furlong. Purse $1,000. [Claiming prices, $2,000 to $1,500.] Three year olds. Start good. Won easily, place same. Went to post at 5:04. Off at 5:05½. Two dollar mutuels paid: Cantata, $16.70 straight, $8.30 place, $5.70 show; Panjab, $5.80 place, $4.30 show; Blare, $5.70 show.

CANTATA spreadeagled her field for speed. Opening a wide gap soon after the start, CANTATA saved ground and won nicely in hand. PANJAB moved up gamely but never menaced the winner. BLARE, away fast, displayed a good effort. PAUL PRY closed a big gap. KEN'S POP was badly bumped entering the stretch and boy eased him up. SUCCESS STORY apparently did not like the going.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and a furlong. Purse $1,000. [Claiming price, $1,250.] Fillies and mares. Four year olds and up. Nonwinners twice since Nov. 15. Start good. Won easily, place driving. Ramblers Play Detroit Polo Team Tonight

Two rough games are in prospect in the Metropolitan Polo league tonight when the Chicago Shamrocks oppose the 122d Field Artillery and the Detroit Rangers encounter the Chicago Ramblers in the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street. All four teams are title contenders.

Victory for the Detroiters will entrench them more firmly in second place in the senior division, while a defeat will throw them into a tie for second with the Ramblers. If the 122d Field Artillery riders win they will take over second place in the four to six goal division and relegate the Shamrocks to a tie for third with the Woodland Polo club. The Shamrocks are unbeaten.

During the intermission between games, officers of the 124th Field Artillery jumping team will engage in the second round of their competition, with Capt. E. C. Mattick and Lieutenants Wallace Wakem, P. M. Watrous, C. H. Gorham, and T. A. Mohlman as the contenders.

The Shamrocks-122d game will start without benefit to either side, since both teams rate equally at four goals. Detroit, carrying a team strength of 11 goals, will give away two points at the outset to the nine goal Ramblers. Linuups:

Hirsch, Waller Seniors Win to Retain Leads

The Hirsch and Waller senior basketball teams scored their fourth straight victories in the south and north sections, respectively, of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday.

Hirsch turned back Fenger, 26 to 23, while Waller, with the Klein twins, Pete and Jack, starring, ran up a 69 to 45 triumph over Taft. Between them, the Kleins scored 38 points, Pete getting 18 and Jack 20.

Hirsch also figured in the main news along the junior front, Fenger removing the school from the unbeaten ranks with a 26 to 25 decision. It was the first loss for Hirsch in four division starts. Tuley stayed in the running for the west section junior title by beating Medill, 39 to 29, its third victory in four games. Lineups:

HAWKS REFUSE TO RELAX, EVEN FOR A ZERO RIVAL

They're Drilling Hard for Americans.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It will be nice and warm in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night for the Blackhawks-Americans hockey match, just in case you are a little tired of ice. Of course, they will have ice on the rink, but that'll be purely hand frozen, and will radiate no chill, except to the players who occasionally get some shavings kicked up the legs of their shorts.

We don't want to carry the weather theme too far and there is no such reference in the forecast that competition promises to be torrid enough to heat the hall, even if the boilers bog down. This gurgling optimism may be a hangover from the Hawks' stirring 2 to 1 victory over the New York Rangers their last time out. That performance convinced most all witnesses that the Hawks didn't know, or use their own strength during the first half of the season. The Hawks themselves say, however, it's the Americans they're thinking about now.

The Americans are below the Hawks in the league; last, in fact, but this hasn't kept Manager Paul Thompson from bearing down in rigorous practice. The lads have worked out every day this week and this morning Paul will have his two revamped lines on the ice for a windup polishing drill.

Abandon Rookie Line.

The new line combinations are made up thus: Ab Demarco, left wing, Cully Dahlstrom, center and Phil Hergesheimer, right wing, and George Allen, left, Bill Carse, center, and Joffre Desilets, right. This means there will not be an all-rookie line as heretofore when Hergesheimer lined up with Allen and Carse. The one line to remain intact is composed of Doug. Bentley, Bill Thoms, and Mush March. Johnny Gottselig will stand by for emergency service.

In the drills since Manager Thompson switched his lines, Hergesheimer, the cause of the shift, has appeared to pick up the class expected of him on the basis of his reputation gained by leading the International-American league the last two seasons. Thompson says he thinks Dahlstrom's experienced work as a playmaker will get Hergesheimer going. It will take actual competitive play to prove this, and Hergesheimer can make himself and his proprietor very happy if he clicks in his new setup tomorrow night.

Can Tie 1938-'39 Record.

Several times this week it has been recited in these columns that the Hawks will be out to tie their victory total of all of last year. They will be seeking their 12th success in their 26th game. They also will be seeking to anoint themselves with a protective coat against the possibilities of their meeting next Thursday night with the Boston Bruins, a team which has blistered them in all the last 13 matches between the two teams.

Whichever team wins tomorrow night will go up in the season series between Hawks and Americans to date. The Hawks have accorded the Americans two 2 to 1 lickings here and the Americans have whipped the Hawks, 4 to 0 and 4 to 2, in New York.

President Bill Tobin, who flew to Edmonton Thursday to sign Dave McKay, bulky defense star of the University of Alberta team, returned to Chicago, bubbling over as a result of landing the brilliant youngster. Prexy Bill said folks tell him up in the frozen northwest—it was 30 below when McKay signed—that McKay is the best defense prospect produced in western Canada since Eddie Shore bloomed there 16 years ago. And that's not whispering praise in the hockey business.

Loyola Swimmers Beat Bradley for 5th in Row

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP).—Bob Carroll, sophomore free styler, paced the swimming team of Loyola university, Chicago, to a 47 to 23 victory over Bradley Tech tonight. Carroll took firsts in two events as Loyola won its fifth straight meet this season.

ZALE AND HOSTAK RESUME DRILLS FOR JAN. 29 BOUT

Tony Zale, fifth ranking middleweight challenger, yesterday returned to training chores in the Skyline Athletic club for his 10 round nontitle bout with Al Hostak, middleweight champion, in Chicago Stadium Jan. 29.

The Gary fighter demonstrated he has completely recovered from a cold which forced postponement of the match, originally scheduled for last night. Tony will do light exercises again this afternoon, but tomorrow will resume sparring drills.

Hostak reopened boxing workouts in Trafton's gymnasium yesterday by going two rounds with Bobby Millsap. . . . Pete Lello, Gary lightweight, has returned from a vacation in Waukesha, Wis., to prepare for a 10 round lightweight elimination contest against Sammy Angott in Madison Square Garden Feb. 2. . . . Jim McMillen will wrestle Eddie Virag in a supporting encounter to the Charles [Grilla] Grubmier-Seeli Samara match in White City Monday.

Pabsts Take Lead in City Pin Tourney

The Pabst Blue Ribbon team of the Classic league's Wednesday division rolled into first place and probably into its second successive title in the major division of the city bowling tournament at Western Recreation last night. The Pabsts bowled 3,067, a total far short of the tournament's record score, 3,411, which they hit last year.

Three other teams rolled into the first five, the Whitecaps of the Windy City and Randolph leagues getting 3,008 for third place, and the Schlitz and Pabsts of the Sunday division of the Classic circuit 3,000 and 2,970 for fourth and fifth places, respectively.

Altho five man competition in the tourney does not end until tomorrow night, all but two of the 54 teams in the major section already have bowled.

The Pabst team which took the lead includes four of the five men who made the record score a year ago. Ned Day, anchor man, is the only newcomer. Herb Freitag led the team last night, with a 642 total, followed by Les Fuller, 614; Day, 611; Paul Krumske, 603, and Joe Sinke, 597.

No further changes took place in the handicap section last night.

Major division leaders:

Pabst [Wednesday Classic]	3,067
Kruse Service Station	3,010
Whitecaps	3,008
Schlitz [Sunday Classic]	3,000
Pabst [Sunday Classic]	2,970
Early's Avondale Recreation	2,955
Curtiss Jolly Jacks	2,948

PRO LEAGUE TO VOTE TOMORROW ON LIONS' SALE

Dayton, O., Jan. 19 (AP).—The executive committee of the National Professional Football league will meet in special session here Sunday to ratify or reject the transfer of the Detroit Lions franchise to a group of business men headed by Fred Mandel of Chicago, Carl L. Storck, league president, said today. The executive committee is composed of Storck, Lee Johannes of the Green Bay Packers, Charles Bidwill of the Chicago Cardinals, Bert Bell of the Philadelphia Eagles, and Dan Topping of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

GRIFFITH ASKS FOR BIDS ON A LIGHTING PLANT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators, once an enemy of night baseball, asked technicians today to give him an estimate on the cost of lighting Griffith stadium for night games.

Griffith declared, however, that he had not made up his mind to install lights. The lighting engineers told Griffith that, if he should decide to light the park, they might be able to complete the system before the close of the 1940 season.

Novotny Wins Miami Biltmore CC Golf Title

Miami, Fla., Jan. 19 [Special].—Gus Novotny of Chicago won the annual Miami Biltmore Country club golf championship today by defeating the Rev. Leslie J. Barnette of Coral Gables, 4 and 3, in the 36 hole final.

CAVALIER FIVE LOSES.

Culver, Ind., Jan. 19 (AP).—The Phillips 66 amateur basketball team from Bartlesville, Okla., outfought the La Salle Hotel Cavaliers of Chicago to win an exhibition game here tonight, 43 to 28.

Tokle Arrives for Norge Club Ski Tournament

Thorger Tokle, former skiing champion of Norway and now a resident of New York City, arrived last night to participate in the thirty-fourth annual tournament of the Norge Ski club to be held at Fox River Grove tomorrow afternoon starting at 1 o'clock.

Tokle and a number of other jumpers will leave this morning for Beloit, Wis., where they will compete today in the meet postponed from last Sunday. Tokle will be seeking his thirteenth consecutive championship since arriving in this country.

The Norge club's tournament has attracted 99 entries in four divisions, largest ever to take part in the club's events.

MATERIAL 'RAIDS' OF SOUTH DON'T BOTHER LAYDEN

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19 (AP).—Some northern coaches may be whistling for the home guards to protect their prep school football talent from southern raiders, but not Elmer Layden of Notre Dame.

Layden, of course, has noticed quite a few well muscled young men from Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and other fertile football fields were seeking higher education down this way, but:

"I don't think the situation is anything to call the cops about. We haven't found the competition for players on the part of southern schools any keener than that provided by schools in our own and other sections. And besides, if it comes right down to a case of competitive bidding, we lose interest, anyway. We figure a boy who is out for all he can get and plays one school against the other isn't the kind we want under any terms."

Here as guest speaker for the Atlanta Touchdown club's big All-Bowl party, Layden said wryly that the recent spectacular success of southern teams undoubtedly had given impetus to criticism of southern recruiting methods — including some from such a high source as Commissioner John L. Griffith of the Big Ten.

"We certainly have found nothing wrong with southern football from any angle. We always play at least one or two southern teams and figure to keep on doing so," Layden said.

PAN-AMERICAN GAMES AWARDED TO UNITED STATES

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—The United States will be the scene of a Pan-American meet this year, it was decided at a meeting of the A. A. U. Pan-American games committee tonight. Plans hinge on the expected formal cancellation of the Olympic games by Finland.

Daniel Ferris, secretary-treasurer, said the A. A. U. will invite the governing bodies of other sports on the Olympic program to join in organizing and conducting the Pan-American games.

Report Yanks Offer $30,000 to DiMaggio

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—With the mailing of 1940 contracts to 31 members of the New York Yankees today, predictions were heard that a fairly sizable holdout crop may appear shortly.

The New York Giants' contracts have been out two weeks, with Pitcher Carl Hubbell the only signer to date, and Brooklyn's salary documents are expected to bring protests from players who pushed the club into a first division berth last season.

Offer Di Maggio $30,000.

Joe Di Maggio is believed to have been offered $5,000 more than the $25,000 he received last year, and several others are said to have been given more money. Red Rolfe announced he wanted $18,000, even before the contracts went out. President Ed Barrow refused to discuss figures.

"I am not announcing what I have offered Di Maggio or any other player," he said. "What a player receives from his club is a matter between them and should not concern the public."

Report Gomez' Salary Cut.

Among those believed given raises in addition to Di Maggio and Rolfe are Charley Keller, star outfield rookie; Babe Dahlgren, Lou Gehrig's successor at first base; Second Baseman Joe Gordon, Rookie Catcher Buddy Rosar, and Pitchers Atley Donald and Steve Sundra.

Players of years standing, such as Red Ruffing, Lefty Gomez, Monte Pearson, Bill Dickey, and Frank Crosetti, are not believed in line for more pay. Gomez, in fact, is said to have had his salary sliced and is expected to be one of the wailers.

PICK SQUAD FOR RIFLE MATCHES IN MEXICO CITY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—The National Rifle association today named a 10 man pistol team—five civilians and five from police and military service—to compete in the Pan-American matches in Mexico City Feb. 17-19.

Those named were: Alfred Hemming and Harry Reeves, Detroit police; Emmet Jones, Los Angeles police; Corp. G. Huddleston, infantry; Walter Walsh, Washington, federal bureau of investigation; R. S. Marshall, Lima, O.; Harold Cline, San Antonio, Tex.; Norman Adair, Tucson, Ariz.; A. C. Ferguson, Ann Arbor, Mich., and C. A. Brown, Tampa, Fla.

Bookie Erickson Freed from Jail Pending Appeal

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—Frank Erickson, king of eastern bookies, was released from jail in $2,500 bail today on being granted a certificate of reasonable doubt pending appeal from his conviction and sentence yesterday to 30 days in the workhouse for second degree perjury.

MARRIAGE IS SICK, SAYS DURANT; HE PROPOSES A CURE

Lists Six Remedies as an Antidote for Decline.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Six specific remedies for curing modern marriage of what he called its growing impotence and waning value to society were parceled out yesterday by Dr. Will Durant, philosopher and author. He spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Executives club in the Hotel Sherman.

Dr. Will Durant.

The institution of marriage, Dr. Durant said, is suffering from industrialism, a condition which has resulted in a loss of the family's economic function, postponed the economic independence of males, and made wives and children a luxury which none but the poor can afford. Industrialism, he added, has resulted in increasing immorality, since life in all great cities offers every stimulus to sex and every discouragement to marriage.

Advocates Return of Dowry.

"I advocate the return of the dowry," Dr. Durant declared, "an increased income tax allowance for children as long as they are in educational institutions, maternity endowments of one year to mothers, a redefinition of the term 'illegitimacy,' the sterilization of the feeble-minded, and the restoration of the religious ceremony of marriage." If these points were put into practice, the fourfold function of marriage would be "restored and invigorated."

The moral fiber of marriage would be immensely strengthened, Dr. Durant pointed out, if parents would again furnish dowries, as in the olden days. "It would atone for the unnatural length of time it takes a young man to support a wife . . . and remove the span between sexual and economic maturity. I believe adherence to a religious ritual in wedding ceremonies would be of great help in counteracting divorce and infidelity. The wedding ceremony should burn the moment into the memories of each. It should be remembered as a vow of honor, not a material contract."

Would Increase Tax Allowances.

The reluctance to bear children because of their cost, Dr. Durant believes, should be partly offset by increased tax allowances, and in addition an endowment of one year's infant's expense to all parents willing to submit to eugenic examination before bearing children.

"I would redefine the term illegitimacy," he added, "to include any child born without the medical consent of society."

Marriage in the agricultural age was the healthiest in history, Dr. Durant said. Women and children were assets, a unit of production, tilling the soil together. Early marriages were profitable, which resulted in high morality, channeling the impulses of sex in an orderly life. Eugenics thrived, because the ablest young men won the best wives, and they had the most offspring.

"Now," he said, "the reverse is true. The ablest men marry the latest, get the women who are left over, and breed the least. A poor woman has many children and in most cities has them free. A middle class mother must pay several hundred dollars for the privilege. The higher classes are penalized, you see. It is the greatest problem in western civilization."

New Broadcasting Chain Again Postpones Opening

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Transcontinental Broadcasting system, which Elliott Roosevelt helped organize, announced today that it would be unable to begin operations Feb. 1 as intended. That date was a postponement from a previously scheduled opening for New Year's. No new time was set. Roosevelt resigned as president Dec. 21. The first postponement came when 15 hours a week of nighttime broadcasting were withdrawn.

County Hospital Patient Dies in Fall Off Fire Escape

Sam Sragis, 46 years old, 549 Scott street, a laborer, was killed yesterday in a fall from a fifth floor fire escape at County hospital. Sragis, who entered the hospital on Jan. 5 for treatment of a throat disease, had been attended by a nurse 10 minutes before his body was found.

SOUTH OBSERVES 133D ANNIVERSARY OF LEE; HOLIDAY IN VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., Jan. 19 (AP).—The south observed the 133d anniversary of the birth of Robert E. Lee today with patriotic exercises and addresses in praise of the confederate leader.

At Richmond, capital of the confederacy, members of the general assembly, now in session, were invited to ceremonies tonight in the old hall of the house of delegates. The United Daughters of the Confederacy arranged to present crosses of service to descendants of confederate veterans who have served in subsequent wars.

The day was a legal holiday in Virginia, Lee's native state, and in Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Mississippi, Kentucky, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, and Georgia.

2 BABIES CARRIED TO SAFETY FROM BLAZING HOUSE

A $10,000 fire threatened the lives of three children yesterday as it drove the family of Robert N. McCreary from their two-story frame home at 397 North Washington road, Lake Forest, in the sub-zero weather.

The blaze, which began at the bottom of a clothes chute, was discovered by the cook, Bridie Ahern. She awakened the family. Robert Ward McCreary, 2 months old, and Martha, 2½, were carried to safety and another son, Pierce, 14, got out unaided. They found shelter in the home of Edward Arpee, 383 North Washington road. The nursemaid, Anna Bischof, escaped uninjured from the fire.

Fire Chief George Bauman and his men fought the flames for three hours. The interior of the house was burned out. McCreary is vice president of the Traver corporation, 358 West Ontario street.

Memorial for Harry Keeler Is Held in Lindblom School

A memorial service for Harry Keeler, assistant superintendent of schools, was held yesterday in the Lindblom High school. Mr. Keeler was principal of Lindblom from 1917 to 1936, when he was named assistant superintendent of high schools. He died Dec. 13. George F. Cassells, assistant superintendent, and representatives of south side civic and business groups with which Mr. Keeler was associated participated in the service.

DIES OF BURNS.

John Kitlica, 60 years old, 4026 Forest avenue, Brookfield, died yesterday in County hospital of burns suffered Wednesday when his clothing caught fire as he was lighting a stove in his home.

TALLMADGE WILL LEAVES $25,000 TO ART INSTITUTE

The Art institute will receive a trust fund of approximately $25,000 under the will of Thomas Eddy Tallmadge, widely known architect, which was admitted to probate yesterday by John F. Keeley, assistant to the Probate judge. Tallmadge was killed Jan. 1 in the wreck of two Illinois Central railroad passenger trains at Arcola, in Douglas county. He left $25,000 to his sister, Miss Abbey Tallmadge. The Summer School of Painting, Saugatuck, Mich., is to get a 50 acre tract of land, Tallmadge's summer home, and the income from a trust of $4,000.

$200,000 VALUE PUT ON ESTATE OF RUFUS DAWES

The estate of Rufus C. Dawes, business and civic leader who died on Jan. 8, was estimated at $200,000 when his will was admitted to probate yesterday by John F. Keeley, assistant to the probate judge. The estate consists entirely of personal property. It is left to the widow, Mrs. Helen Palmer Dawes. Co-executors are a son, Charles C. Dawes; a son-in-law, Attorney Robert T. Sherman, and the City National Bank and Trust company.

OBITUARIES

Dr. A. S. Warner.

Funeral services for Dr. A. S. Warner, a physician and surgeon in Chicago for 45 years, will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. today in the chapel at 124 Madison street, Oak Park, with burial in Woodlawn cemetery. Dr. Warner died Thursday in the West Suburban hospital at the age of 71. He was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1895 and had been on the staff of the hospital for several years. He lived at 5954 Huron street. Surviving are a son, Philip, and a daughter, Mildred.

URGE ECONOMIC FIGHT ON BRITISH TOBACCO BANS

Congressmen Strive to Break Embargo.

Drive to Win U.S. Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Plans are being prepared here to foster wartime sales of British manufacture in American markets. Big export business in tweeds, knitwear, fine shirtings, leather goods, men's clothes, pottery, and toys is done with American department stores and many large American buying organizations have offices in this country. But it is feared here that future sales may suffer because few American buyers are likely to come over because of travel perils. To overcome this British are sending salesmen to tour the United States with samples.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Members of congress today suggested the use of economic weapons to persuade Great Britain to modify its embargo on American tobacco. At the same time, Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, called on President Roosevelt and urged him to protect the interests of American agriculture against dislocations resulting from war time purchases by Great Britain and France.

Louis J. Taber.

Senators and representatives from tobacco growing states were aroused by reports from London that the British government had requested tobacco companies to replace the American product with Turkish tobacco.

Withdrew Last Fall.

British companies withdrew from the American market last fall on the outbreak of the war. The British government ruled that it could not spare foreign exchange for tobacco purchases, believing there were sufficient stocks on hand for two or more years. The action was regarded as only temporary. But latest reports from London indicate a threatened permanent replacement of American tobacco.

Representatives Lindsay C. Warren and Harold D. Cooley, both Democrats of North Carolina, advanced the suggestion of economic weapons. They conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA administrator, and planned also to see state department officials.

"There are several economic weapons what we could use toward obtaining a modification of the embargo, but the question is whether the state department would be willing to use them," Cooley said.

Purchases Are Financed.

They asked the agriculture department to seek British options on 1940 crop tobacco similar to options taken last fall on 178 million pounds of the 1939 crop. The British had stopped buying just when the 1939 crop was ready for the market. The government agreed to finance British purchases to be held in storage until the British companies could get sufficient exchange to complete the transaction. About 40 million dollars was allowed for these operations by the Commodity Credit corporation and most of it has been used, according to latest reports.

Taber, accompanied by members of the Grange's executive committee, discussed with Mr. Roosevelt the operations on the joint purchasing agency set up in this country by Great Britain and France to coördinate their purchases of war materials and other supplies. After the conference Taber said that the effect of the empires' purchasing program had been crushing to the tobacco producers in this country and also has been felt heavily by the American growers of apples and many other crops.

Asks "Vigorous Attitude."

"We think the department of state is doing all it can, but we told the President that in this situation we want the most vigorous attitude consistent with neutral diplomacy," he said.

If severe dislocations do not occur, Taber predicted that farm income in 1940 would exceed that of 1939 by 1 billion dollars.

The war and navy departments also said that stringent measures may be necessary to halt large exports of crude rubber and tin unless voluntary coöperation by dealers and manufacturers increases. The warning was contained in a statement by the army and navy munitions board which exercises control over defense supplies.

It recalled a warning of Oct. 11 that abnormal exports of strategic materials might weaken the "national defense position of the United States." It said that the situation had bettered in some respects, but that it had become "more difficult" in the case of crude rubber and tin.

Secretary Wallace announced that this government has been informed that, effective Feb. 1, British ships sailing from United States ports would be allotted space for 100,000 bales of American cotton monthly. This quota would not apply to cotton contracts made prior to Jan. 4, 1940, for which freight has already been booked in neutral ships. The 100,000 bales quota will remain in effect thru September.

Wheat Loans Are 'Called' by Government

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today that farmers having 1938 wheat under government loans must pay their obligations or surrender the grain when the loans expire March 31. At the same time, the agriculture department announced it would resume payment of certain wheat subsidies.

The corporation said there are approximately 3,500,000 bushels of loan wheat stored in Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming. On the basis of current prices, officials said, it would be profitable for the farmer to redeem the loan wheat and sell it. The amount advanced by the government on this grain and the storage and interest charges in most cases total less than current wheat prices.

1939 Loans Mature April 30.

Loans on all 1939 wheat mature April 30. The corporation said it does not now contemplate extending these loans beyond that date, except possibly in certain states.

The corporation also announced that producers would be given an opportunity to extend loans on rye stored on farms if such loans had been made in 1939 on approximately the same basis as the wheat loans. Officials said approximately 1,400,000 bushels of rye are stored under loans.

The agriculture department said it would resume payment of a subsidy on exports of wheat and flour from Pacific coast ports to China and Hongkong and on exports of wheat from the same ports to the Philippine islands.

Suspended Plan Jan. 3.

On Jan. 3, the department suspended the export subsidy program, except on flour from the Pacific coast to the Philippines, largely because of prospects of a short 1940 crop in the drouth plagued winter wheat belt.

Officials said resumption of the program in the Pacific was designed to provide an outlet for accumulated surpluses of wheat, estimated at 25,000,000 bushels, in northwestern states.

Under the subsidy program, exporters receive from the government the difference between prices of grain in the American and the export markets. American wheat has been running as much as 35 cents a bushel above foreign prices.

APPROVE DAYTON POWER FINANCING WITHOUT BIDDING

Columbus, O., Jan. 19 (AP).—Sale of a $25,000,000 Dayton Power and Light company refunding bond issue without competitive bidding was authorized today by the state utilities commission. "I feel it would be inadvisable to institute a rule at this time which would make competitive bidding a prerequisite," said George G. McConnaughey, commission chairman.

Robert H. Delafield, financial vice president of Dayton Power, said previously that negotiations for the issue had been carried on solely with Morgan Stanley & Co., New York investment banking company, which has asked the Securities and Exchange commission to determine the propriety of its taking the issue.

Delafield told the Ohio commission open market bidding on the issue would be detrimental to investors' interests. "I believe this is the best price the utility has ever got for an issue from this commission," McConnaughey observed.

Issuance of $25,000,000 in 3 per cent first mortgage bonds is intended to retire $19,015,000 in 3½ per cent bonds and reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures. Delafield forecast a saving of $94,000 a year in interest.

WASTERS OF GAS IN CALIFORNIA TO BE PROSECUTED

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19 [Special].—Assistant Attorney General Everrett W. Mattoon today was preparing legal action as the result of discovery of a vast and allegedly illegal waste of natural gas in the two year old Western Montebello petroleum area.

Citations charging violation of a Superior court injunction forbidding such waste will be filed next week against six companies, all minor operators, Mattoon said. In addition, he added, they may be prosecuted under the gas conservation act of 1915.

According to Mattoon, in two weeks these concerns have permitted enough natural gas to escape thru concealed pipes which "by pass" it around meters, to supply the entire city of Los Angeles for a week. He explained that this illegal procedure was adopted, so that more oil could be forced from the earth.

CHICAGO STORE SALES TOP 1939 BY 6.5 PER CENT

Department store sales in the 7th federal reserve district advanced 4.9 per cent over last year during the week ended Jan. 13, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Chicago sales increased 6.5 per cent.

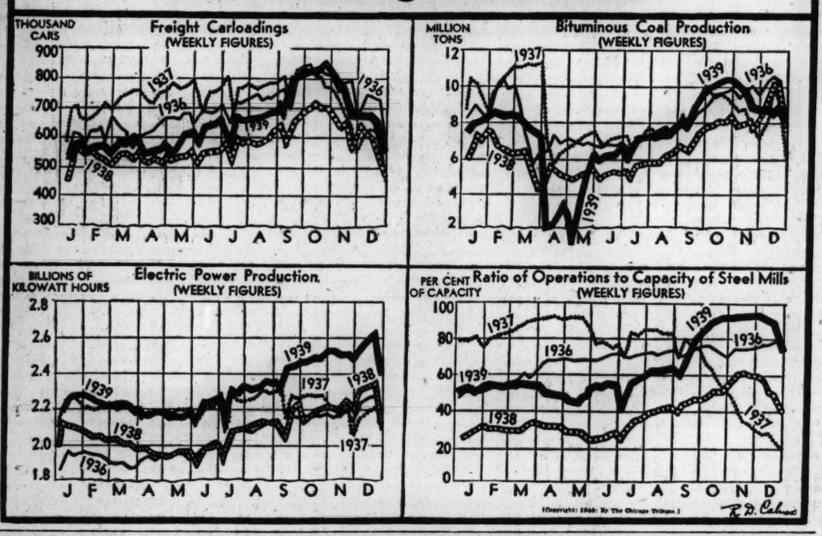
During the four weeks ended last Saturday, the bank reported, sales in the district were up 11.1 per cent, and Chicago trade gained 11.4 per cent.

Department store sales thruout the nation advanced 4 per cent during the week, and for the four week period were 9 per cent above last year.

Chicago District Customs Collections Gain in 1939

Customs collections in the Chicago district increased to $15,082,354 in 1939, Thomas Temple Hoyne, controler, reported yesterday. In 1938 the total was $14,824,595.

Stage of Business as Reflected in 4 Leading Barometers



Young Seeks Bailie's Ouster in C.&O. Fight

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—Another battle for control of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway appeared in the offing today as Robert R. Young, chairman of Alleghany corporation, demanded that the Guaranty Trust company resign as trustee for Alleghany bondholders, and that Earl Bailie's name be kept off the list of nominees for C. & O. directors.

Young and Allan P. Kirby, president of Alleghany, the top holding company in the former Van Sweringen railroad empire, threatened a proxy contest in the coming election of C. & O. directors unless Bailie withdraws and Alleghany is given "representation commensurate with its ownership."

Bailie Interests to Retaliate.

While Bailie, Young's financial foe of two years ago in a struggle for C. & O. control, was in Florida and could not be reached for comment, belief in New York financial circles was that the Bailie interests will attempt to oust Young from the C. & O. directorate. It was also thought that directors might not fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Herbert Fitzpatrick as chairman of the C. & O. board and might cut the board membership to 11 if Fitzpatrick relinquishes his position as director at the annual meeting in April.

Earl Bailie (left), target of Robert R. Young in new C. & O. railway fight.

Young in a letter to Guaranty Trust declared that four of the bank's directors had a "personal stake" in the investment banking business, and that their private interests conflicted with those of Alleghany corporation. Guaranty is trustee for "thousands of holders of Alleghany bonds due in 1944, under which are pledged 972,723 C. & O. common shares," Young said.

Four Directors Under Fire.

The four directors named by Young are W. A. Harriman, whom he said has a large interest in the investment banking firm of Harriman, Ripley & Co.; Thomas W. Lamont, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.; George W. Whitney, another Morgan partner; and John W. Davis, attorney, who handled many security flotations for Morgan Stanley & Co.

Young asserted that "the shares of the C. & O. have been enhanced and the private income of the above individuals has been reduced by the successful efforts of Alleghany corporation to break the hold of a favored banking group upon its railroad properties."

It was recalled that upon the insistence of Young and associates, large bond issues originally scheduled to be floated thru Morgan Stanley & Co. were opened to competitive bidding and went to other firms. The issues included a $30,000,000 C. & O. loan.

Week's Automobile Output Placed Lower at 108,545

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19 (AP).—Ward's Automotive Reports today estimated this week's output of automobiles and trucks at 108,545, compared with 111,330 last week and 90,205 a year ago. The survey described the decline from last week as "in the nature of a readjustment," and added that the production trend probably would be slowly downward in coming weeks.

HOUSING AUTHORITY SLASHES STAFF, BUT DROPS FEW LAWYERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 [Special].—The United States Housing authority is furloughing many more architects and engineers than attorneys in staff reductions to become effective Feb. 1. Reductions in operating funds are the cause, officials revealed today.

As against 65 engineers and architects being furloughed indefinitely, only eight attorneys are being dropped from active rolls. Engineers and architects remaining on the administrative staff will number 128 after Feb. 1, officials said. The number of attorneys will be 71.

Officials insisted, however, that all cuts in the administrative staff had been made on a basis proportional to the number of employés in various categories. They asserted that many engineers and architects doing work for the housing authority are paid by local authorities or from nonadministrative funds, whereas this is not true in the case of lawyers.

IRON ORE OUTPUT INCREASES 82% OVER 1938 LEVEL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Iron ore production in the United States last year, benefitting from rapid increase in steel production, was 82 per cent larger than in 1938. The bureau of mines today estimated the output at 51,830,000 gross tons, except from 1937 the largest total since 1930.

Ore shipped from mines was estimated at 54,825,000 gross tons valued at $159,066,000. This represented an increase of 107 per cent in quantity and 114 per cent in value compared with 1938.

Scrap Consumption Gains.

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., estimated today domestic consumption of iron and steel scrap in 1939 at 35,006,000 tons, compared with 21,528,000 in 1938 and the record of 38,006,272 in 1937.

Exports of scrap have declined sharply due to lack of vessel space. The institute reported export of 272,656 tons in November, compared with 336,775 in October, and 273,403 in November, 1938.

BUSINESS SURVEY SELLER GIVEN 90 DAY SENTENCE

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 19 (AP).—Thomas H. Watson, an attorney of New York, pleaded no contest today to a charge of using the mails to defraud and was placed on probation for an unspecified period by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis. William H. Gould of Brooklyn, a co-defendant, similarly pleaded no contest and was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

An indictment charged the two men had used the mails to further a scheme to defraud in connection with the sale of "business surveys" to firms in need of additional capital. Gould and Watson were arrested last July after they had begun operations with an advertisment stating "representative of New York financial house now in city desires interviews [confidential] with corporations or individuals to market or place security issues."

Two firms which answered the advertisment paid a total of $250 for "surveys" of their financial needs. One of them later gave Gould an additional check for $100, but stopped payment after becoming suspicious.

Standard Gas Securities' Fall Probed by SEC

New York, Jan. 19 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission today began an investigation of dealings in securities of the Standard Gas and Electric company. This action followed almost complete disorganization of the market for these securities.

The common and preferred stocks of Standard Gas, which are traded on the New York Stock exchange, and its bonds, traded on the Curb exchange, slumped today to the lowest levels in years.

Securities of the company have been weak for days on recurrent, but unconfirmed, rumors of unfavorable action by the Securities and Exchange commission on the application of the Philadelphia company for a restatement of capital account.

Big Source of Income.

The Philadelphia company is one of the most important units in the Standard Gas and Electric system, and the parent concern derives a substantial part of its income from its common stock holdings in the Philadelphia company.

Standard Gas bonds today lost 7 to 8¾ points in extremely heavy dealings. The company's 6s of 1957 sold down to 48 in early dealings and at the close were quoted at 51½, a net loss of 8¾. A few weeks ago the company's bonds sold around the 70 level. Standard Gas common stock lost half its value and closed at 1⅛. The preferred issues dropped 2¼ to 4 points, with the $7 prior preference stock closing at 13⅝.

Rally, Then Dip Again.

Around noon the utility's securities rallied when the securities commission announced that its hearings in the Philadelphia company proceedings were completed and that the issue would go before the full commission for decision. Later in the day, however, the selling was resumed with the result that the stocks and bonds closed near their low levels of the day.

Some time ago the Philadelphia company, contemplating a $60,000,000 refunding program, filed application with the SEC for approval of a recapitalization plan involving the setting up of capital surplus in a sufficient amount to write down its investments in traction properties now in reorganization. The plan called for the writing down of the stated value of Philadelphia company common stock from $100 a share to $7.25 a share, thus creating a capital reserve of $13,200,913.

Would Be Used as Reserve.

This sum, together with capital and earned surplus already existing in the amount of $14,793,139, would be used as a reserve against which the Philadelphia company's investment in street railway properties could be written down. The traction properties are carried on the Philadelphia company's books at a stated value of $50,500,505.

In writing down the stated value of the common stock, the Philadelphia company, which has a stated total stock capitalization of $87,965,279, would pare its total stock capitalization to $74,764,366. It is on this point that the decision of the SEC will have an important bearing on the situation because, under the provisions of the indenture covering Philadelphia company 5 per cent secured bonds, dividends on common stock cannot be paid if stated stock capitalization falls below $74,000,000.

There are 4,800,332 shares of Philadelphia company common stock outstanding, of which 4,634,530 shares are owned by Standard Gas.

Blackout Finds Standard Oil Building Without Oil

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—The offices which direct the supply of oil for the lamps of China—and for much of the rest of the world—idled for a full hour today, blacked out. An accident broke electric feeders supplying the power for 26 Broadway, the Standard Oil building. There was not an oil lamp in the place.

BUSINESS GAINS AND LAWS FORM HIRING PROBLEM

Work Complications Beset Employers.

The business upturn, the wage-hour law, and the merit rating provisions of unemployment compensation laws in Illinois and most other states are creating new complications for employers, inquiry disclosed yesterday.

Merit rating for employers is a provision thru which companies which provide regular employment for their workers will, beginning in 1943, pay a smaller pay roll tax than those which keep workers employed less regularly.

The recent trade recovery has made it necessary for many companies to increase the hours of employés or hire additional workers. If hours are increased beyond the normal limits of the wage-hour law, the companies must pay time and a half wages for overtime.

Penalized by Tax System.

If new workers are hired, and later released in a slack season, the employer will be penalized under the merit rating system of determining pay roll taxes.

As explained by employers, the problem they face is to determine whether to accept the unemployment tax penalty and hire workers as needed, or pay the overtime rates and have regular employés do the extra work in longer hours during rush periods. This point was discussed in a bulletin issued by the American Management association.

"Either course of action involves additional expense," it said, "but, if the heavier volume of production extends over a comparatively short time, many manufacturers believe that it will prove to be more economical to work longer hours and accept the overtime penalties under the wage-hour law."

Discourages New Hiring.

The situation developing as a result of the pay roll tax program and wage-hour law was described in some quarter as a factor tending to discourage the opening of new jobs, especially those involving periodic hiring and discharging in highly seasonal lines.

The tax phase of the problem arises from provisions of unemployment insurance laws which about forty states and territories have passed with a view to encouraging business enterprises to keep their workers regularly employed. All states have unemployment compensation laws, but some either have not adopted or have repealed the merit rating provisions. These merit rating provisions are intended to lighten the tax on employers who have a small rate of labor turnover and to levy a higher rate on those who have a less favorable record or "employment experience."

The keeping of these records began in Illinois Jan. 1. At the beginning of 1943, adjustments in the rate of pay roll taxes will be made on the basis of what the records for 1940, 1941, and 1942 show with regard to labor turnover.

Wide Range in Rates.

At present Illinois employers of six or more persons pay a 2.7 per cent pay roll tax. Beginning in 1943, an employer who employs all of his workers the year around would, under the merit system, be entitled to a reduced rate which could range as low as 0.5 per cent. An employer with a high rate of turnover could be assessed as high as 3.6 per cent of the pay roll.

These rates are subject to adjustment if the total fund paid in is insufficient to cover compensation payments to workers.

There is a federal unemployment compensation levy of 3 per cent on all employers who have eight or more workers. However, the state tax may be deducted from this in the form of a credit not exceeding 90 per cent of the federal tax payable.

REPUBLIC STEEL STAYS ORDER TO REINSTATE 5,000

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 19 [Special].—The Republic Steel corporation obtained from the third Circuit Court of Appeals today a stay of execution of an order to reinstate about 5,000 workers who walked out during the "little steel" strike of 1937, and to compensate them for "lost pay."

The corporation asked for the stay to clear the way for an appeal to the Supreme court. Judge John Biggs Jr., in granting the request, ruled that Republic must file a petition for the appeal with the United States Supreme court by March 1 or comply with the sweeping judgment against it.

The C. I. O.'s steel workers' organizing committee, which called the strike, contends that $7,500,000 is due the strikers.

Wallpaper Firm's Orders 31 Pct. Above Year Ago

Wallpaper orders of United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., in the last six months of 1939 increased 31 per cent over the corresponding 1938 period, A. J. Browning, president, reported yesterday. The total was 59,977,555 rolls.

I. C. C. Refuses to Prevent Cut in Rail Rates

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission refused today to set aside proposed reductions in less-than-carload rates by a group of eastern railroads. The railroads sponsoring the reduced rates said they hoped to win back less-than-carload business which in recent years has been diverted to freight forwarders.

These railroads include the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Central of New Jersey, Reading, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Monon, Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, Long Island, and Western Maryland.

New York Central Objects.

The New York Central joined another group of eastern railroads objecting to the reductions. These railroads asked the commission to suspend the reduced schedules. At the same time, however, they filed tariffs of their own in line with the reductions proposed by the other railroads. This was done, officials explained, so that the protesting railroads would be in a position to compete for business on an equal footing should the commission refuse to suspend the schedules.

Altho refusing to suspend the reduced less-than-carload rates, the commission ordered an investigation of the reasonableness of the rates. The rates will continue in effect during the inquiry.

Others Oppose Cut.

Railroads which joined the New York Central in opposing less-than-carload reductions included the Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Lehigh Valley, Pere Marquette, Wabash, and various affiliated railroads.

Freight forwarders in recent years have handled a vast amount of less-than-carload business. These forwarders assemble less-than-carload shipments and combine them into carlots. They obtain their profit by moving their shipments on carload rates, while collecting higher rates from the shippers. The less-than-carload reductions ranged from 3 to 9 cents a hundred pounds.

In support of the proposed reductions, the Pennsylvania railroad said that in 1936 more than $12,000,000 was diverted from it to freight forwarders. It is estimated that the diversion was even higher in more recent years.

TEXAS CITRUS FRUIT PERILED BY SEVERE COLD

Brownsville, Tex., Jan. 19 [Special].—The $100,000,000 citrus industry of the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas, today was in the grip of the most serious freeze in 10 years. Possibility of heavy losses to this year's crop and some permanent damage to the trees were reported.

The mercury dropped 50 degrees in 14 hours, from a summertime high of 78 yesterday afternoon to a low of 28 last night, and hovered just below the freezing point most of today.

Temperatures ranging from 16 to 20 degrees—the coldest since 1930—were forecast for tonight, which would mean the loss of the major part of the remaining fruit, and probably extensive damage to the trees. More than half of this year's crop of fruit has been shipped.

Florida Guards Crops.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 19 (AP).—Florida drew a share of the nation's widespread chill tonight and growers thruout the rich citrus and garden country prepared smudge pots and irrigation systems to fight freezing and frost.

A mercury reading of 6 degrees above zero was forecast for the extreme northwest section.

2,900 EXHIBITORS TO PARTICIPATE IN MARKET WEEK

More than 2,000 Chicago manufacturers and wholesalers and 900 out of town merchants will stage exhibits of their merchandise during the spring market week beginning Feb. 5, the Chicago Association of Commerce, sponsor of the event, reported yesterday.

The association announced that more than 16,000 department store owners and buyers have been invited to attend the exhibition of clothing, millinery, gifts, artwares, and novelties, china, glassware, and household furnishings.

The Interstate Merchants council, national affiliate of the Chicago association, will hold its semiannual convention during the market period.

GENERAL TIRE'S EARNINGS RISE IN FISCAL YEAR

Profit Equals $3.77 Per Share.

Net profit of the General Tire and Rubber company in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1939, increased to $2,137,317, or $3.77 a common share, W. O'Neil, president, reported to stockholders yesterday. Profit was $1,181,224, or $1.97 a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

Mark W. Cresap reports profits for Hart Schaffner & Marx.

Sales of the company increased 19.7 percent, O'Neil said, totaling $24,048,828, against $20,088,354 in the year ended Nov. 30, 1938. The company's sales have climbed steadily since 1934, when the total was $14,489,371.

Among new developments in the rubber products field, O'Neil listed the rubber lung, which can be used to replace the "iron lung" necessary with certain respiratory and nerve diseases.

Clothing Maker Has Gain.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago clothing manufacturer, had 1939 net income of $400,787, the best showing in three years, Mark W. Cresap, president and chairman of the board, reported. The company had a net loss of $305,136 in 1938. Of the total 1939 earnings, $202,766 was made by subsidiaries.

Chicago Towel company's net income for the year ended last Dec. 31 was $670,366, equal to $6.86 a share, compared with $717,666, or $7.44 a share, in 1938.

Keystone Steel and Wire company, Peoria, reported net income in the final half of 1939 was about two and one-half times that of a year earlier. The profit, according to W. H. Sommer, president, amounted to $692,412 after all charges, which was equal to 91 cents a capital share. Profit was $198,952, or 26 cents a share, in the six months ended Dec. 31, 1938. Profit for the quarter ended Dec. 31 was $418,489, or 55 cents a share, against $115,728, or 15 cents a share, in the final 1938 quarter.

Sales for the latest six months totaled $6,549,109, an increase of 52 per cent, Sommer said.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Strength of aviation issues today gave the stock market a selective rallying tinge. Many stocks, however, were unable to work out of their depressed condition and minus signs were widely distributed at the close.

Gains ran to a point or so for favorites at the best. These were whittled down in the tail-end of the session. Steels tried to join the favored groups, but generally failed to attract a following. These slipped at the start, came back for modest advances, and again gave ground at the finish.

Volume would have been considerably under that of yesterday had it not been for liveliness of such issues as Commonwealth & Southern and Radio corporation. The former turned over in blocks of 5,000 to 28,500 shares, unchanged at 1⅛. The latter frequently came out in 1,000 share lots and ended up ⅛ at 6.

Stocks in the advancing column included Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, United Aircraft, American Airlines, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, du Pont, Chrysler, General Motors, Macy, Loft, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, and General Tire.

U. S. Steel was up a shade, but Bethlehem was off ⅞. Falling mill operations and dwindling orders remained as a handicap for these shares.

Under pressure were United States Rubber, Anaconda, New York Central, Standard Brands, Westinghouse, and Allied Chemical.

Preferred issues of Standard Gas and Electric, as well as the company's bonds in the curb, suffered further sharp losses.

Aviations were stimulated by the Lockheed profit figures for 1939 showing $4.05 a share compared with 67 cents in 1938. Some merchandising shares were aided by trade surveys disclosing continuance of year-to-year improvement. Motors were propped by reports of exceptionally good sales in the first 10 days of January.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Bonds teetered uncertainly today in a slow market. Strength shown in United States government loans, rails, and a few foreign obligations, notably the Scandinavian and Latin American, was coupled with declines in utilities.

Chief item of interest was a second day drop in the prices of Standard Gas and Electric issues, which slipped as much as 8 points on the curb due to rumors of recapitalization plans. An informed source denied the present validity of the rumors.

Treasury issues, moving in small transactions, gained as much as 11-32 point. Gainers in the foreign list included obligations of Norway, Denmark, Panama, Sao Paulo, Argentina, and Uruguay.

Transactions totaled $5,521,625, face value, compared with $5,470,750 yesterday.

New York Bonds.

Trading volume on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday was the smallest in more than four months at 12,000 shares. Price gains outnumbered declines about 2 to 1.

Bank Stocks.

First National and Northern Trust shares each gained two points in bank stock trading yesterday, closing at bids of 233 and 562, respectively. Continental Illinois rose half a point at 90½. Other issues were steady.

CHICAGO MARKET BEGINS TRADING IN TEXAS CORP.

Number of Dual Listings Increased to 71.

The Chicago Stock exchange announced yesterday that 11,386,253 shares of $25 par value capital stock of the Texas corporation will be admitted to trading today, as registrations of the issue becomes effective. This will bring to 71 the number of issues listed on both the New York and Chicago exchanges. Including these dual listings, the Chicago market has about 340 issues listed.

Mitchell, Hutchins & Co. will be specialist and odd-lot dealer, in the Texas stock. R. Arthur Wood and Joseph P. Brown will be co-specialists. The issue will be included in the optional odd-lot system of trading.

New York Studies Problem.

Registration of the big Texas issue reminded brokers that a New York Stock exchange committee for several months has been studying the problem of dual listings and the tendency to draw business away from the New York market to other exchanges.

Paul H. Davis, senior partner in Paul H. Davis & Co. of Chicago and a representative of the public on the governing committee of the New York exchange, said the committee has drawn no conclusions from its study.

"No action of any kind has been taken," Davis said. The New York exchange is reported to be considering a ruling which would prevent New York broker members from dealing in dually listed stocks on other markets.

Definite Shift Reported.

The exchange reported earlier this week that there was "a definite shift of securities business away from New York to Chicago, Boston, and other cities." It blamed state transfer taxes on share transactions for Wall street's loss of business. Odd-lot trading in particular, the exchange said, has been lost due to "double taxation." An odd-lot trade is a transaction involving less than the usual 100 share unit.

Chicago exchange officials said yesterday that about half of the transactions on the exchange are in stocks also listed in New York. They added, however, that Chicago odd-lot dealers hedge a large proportion of their transactions in the New York market, thus increasing its odd-lot volume.

It was also asserted that the larger part of trading in dually listed issues in Chicago consists of new business originating in this area. This volume, it was claimed, would never have reached either exchange if the issues had not been listed in Chicago.

FEDERAL LAWYER HITS RESTRAINTS IN BUILDING FIELD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19 (AP).—Corwin Edwards, special assistant to the attorney general, told a joint congressional committee today that the building construction industry was "shot thru with restraints from top to bottom."

Edwards was one of the series of federal officials called by the senate-house group appointed at the suggestion of President Roosevelt to study the question of undertaking a national forestry program.

The justice department representative atributed part of the decline in demand for forest products to monopolistic trends in the construction field.

He said that building material prices declined only slightly during the depression and then shot up with the construction revival in 1936-'37. Edwards said distributors of patented products and processes had used these as "a club" to force other material dealers and users into price agreements.

New Financing in Week Declines to 31 Millions

New York, Jan. 19 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities fell off during the week ended yesterday. They totaled $31,892,500, compared with $77,155,820 the preceding week, Poor's Publishing company reported today. Only 22 per cent of the total represented demand for new money [not refunding]. Comparisons follow:

MONEY, GOLD AND SILVER

The Dutch guilder declined 0.00 cent in terms of the American dollar at New York City yesterday. Renewal of rumors that Germany might take some action against Holland caused the weakness. The closing price was 53.16 cents. The British pound sagged ⅜ cent to $3.96¼.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP).—Bar silver, 34½c, unchanged.

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Money, ½-1 pct. Discount rates: Short bills, 1⅞ pct; 3 month bills, 1¾ pct. Bar silver, 22d, off ⅛d [equivalent 39.90 cents, based on sterling at $4.031]. Bar gold, 168s, unchanged. [Equivalent $33.85].

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP).—The United States dollar held at 43f 80c [2.283 cents to the franc] in foreign exchange dealings today. The rate contrasted with the franc at 2.247 cents in New York late yesterday. Exchange on London, 176f 625c; 3 pct rentes ended 74f 50c; 4½s A, 82f 97c; 4½s, 1937, 218f 25c.

CUT IN TAXES IS WAY TO BUSINESS RISE, SAYS FORMER TREASURY AID

John W. Hanes.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 19 (AP).—John W. Hanes, recently resigned undersecretary of the treasury, expressed tonight the belief that a reduction in personal income and estate taxes would lay the "foundation for a real business upsurge."

Hanes was one of the speakers at the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Yale Alumni University Fund association, an organization that has collected more than $10,000,000 from Yale men.

"It is my belief that the highest rate of taxation on the taxpayer does not always produce the maximum revenue," he said. "I am convinced that the treasury of the United States will collect a larger total of dollars with a tax bill that takes into broad consideration the effect of the dollars it will leave the taxpayer for expansion and development.

"It is my earnest belief that if we would approach our tax problem honestly, reducing the high rates on both personal incomes and estates, business would be encouraged to go ahead at a more rapid rate. It is possible that a foundation for a real business upsurge would be laid, and falling interest rates would be arrested."

SEARS WILL ADD FOURTH FLOOR TO N. W. SIDE STORE

Expect Completion of Unit by May.

BY AL CHASE.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. is taking bids for a top story addition to its $1,500,000 three story department store at the northeast corner of Irving Park road and Cicero avenue. If bids are satisfactory it is understood that work will be started next month with the expectation of having it ready for use by May.

M. C. Penticoff, Chicago group manager of the company, said the additional floor space will permit increased selling area thruout the store.

Planned for Furniture and Storage.

It is understood that the new floor of 24,300 square feet will be used partly for the sale of furniture and partly for storage.

Walls of the new addition will be of monolithic, or poured concrete, similar to those in the original building. There will be no windows and the entire new unit will be air conditioned. Nimmons, Carr & Wright, architects, designed both the original and new units.

Store Opened in October, 1938.

The Sears Cicero-Irving Park store was opened in October, 1938. Most of the basement is occupied by a Hillman food mart.

This northwest side unit has been so successful that for several months there have been persistent rumors that it would be enlarged. The building was erected with foundations capable of carrying four stories. The new top addition completes the store's structural expansion possibilities upward.

DREDGING FIRM PAYS QUARTERLY DIVIDEND OF 50c

Directors of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company yesterday authorized a dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Feb. 15. Last year the company paid dividends of 25 cents along with extras of 25 cents in each quarter. In addition, a second extra payment of 50 cents was distributed in December.

Dividend payments announced yesterday, with stock and record dates, follow:

FURNITURE SHOW ATTENDANCE SETS ANOTHER MARK

Registrations of buyers at the American Furniture Mart yesterday topped 11,300, another new high mark, the Mart reported. At the Merchandise Mart 11,048 buyers had registered, also a record.

Officials said there was no evidence of overcommitments on the part of dealers and that buying in all lines had been substantial but orderly. This was taken to indicate that excessive inventories were not being piled up and that buyers had no fear of early price advances.

Assets of Massachusetts Investors' Trust Shrink

Massachusetts Investors' Trust yesterday reported net asset value per share on Dec. 31, 1939, was $20.98, against $22.25 a year earlier. The company sold its entire holdings of 1,000 shares of Black & Decker Manufacturing company stock. Chemical Fund, Inc., reported net assets on Dec. 31, 1939, equaled $10.66 a share, the same as a year earlier.

IMPERIAL OIL.

Will you please furnish me with a report on Imperial Oil, Ltd., and comparative earnings for other years? I own quite a block of this stock and would like to know why the price of the stock has declined in the last few years—E. R. Z.

Answer: Imperial Oil, Ltd., is the leading refiner and distributor of oil products in Canada. It is controled by the Standard Oil company [New Jersey]. Thru ownership of the preferred and 60 per cent of the common stock of International Petroleum Co., Ltd., Imperial Oil has a considerable interest in oil lands in Peru, Colombia, Ecuador, and Venezuela.

Seven refineries operated by the company in Canada provide about two-thirds of the total oil products consumed in the dominion. Because its own crude oil resources in Canada are limited, the company obtains most of its petroleum from the United States and South America. Distribution is made thru about 10,000 outlets in the dominion.

Imperial Oil has outstanding 26,965,078 shares of no par capital stock, about 70 per cent of which is owned by the Standard Oil company [New Jersey]. There is no funded debt.

Earnings of the company were stable from 1934 thru 1938. Canadian operations accounted only for about one-seventh of the net income in these years. The remainder of the net income was derived from dividends paid by subsidiaries, from investment interest, and from the sale of securities.

Consolidated net income, earnings per share, and dividends per share in recent years follow:

Year.	Net Income.	Earned per share.	*Dividends per share.
1934	$25,772,000	$0.96	$0.92½
1935	25,330,000	0.94	1.25
1936	25,628,000	0.95	1.25
1937	26,452,000	0.98	1.25
1938	25,960,000	0.96	1.25

*Paid in Canadian money.

In 1939 the company paid $1 a share in Canadian funds. This represented a reduction of 25 cents a share from the annual dividend in the preceding four years.

Imperial Oil has not yet issued its earnings report for 1939. In the absence of this report, the reduction in the dividend last year may indicate either lower profits in 1939 or anticipation by directors of higher operating costs in the future.

It may be assumed that the market price of a stock generally reflects current and prospective earnings of a company.

The decline in the stock price may have been influenced by the market's expectation that the earnings would be affected adversely by increased Canadian war taxation and higher wages and material costs. Also Canadian money, in which dividends are paid, has dropped in terms of the American dollar.
